Ag restrictions eased in Pequea zoning plan

BY SALLY BAIR
Staff Correspondent

WILLOW STREET — Pequea Township supervisors adopted a revised zoning ordinance Wednesday night which deleted some of the proposed restrictions which had met with heavy opposition at a zoning hearing meeting on September 4.

The supervisors in this Lancaster County township announced there will be a survey conducted to determine the interest in establishing an exclusive agricultural district.

The new ordinance, which will go into effect Monday, was adopted with few questions from the small group of 18 persons who attended the meeting. This was a great reduction from the crowd which met to voice its objections to the original revised ordinance.

Farmers in the group were in general agreement that the new zoning proposal is something they can live with, and they commended the Supervisors for the "evenhandedness" with which they met some of the farmers' requests.

Perhaps the most controversial part of the original ordinance was a

LAMPETER — Wayne Hess, Conestoga, showed the champion individual market hog at the West Lampeter Fair this week and his younger brother, Brian, showed the reserve champion

These Penn Manor FFA members are the sons of Abe and Jane Hess.

Wayne's champion heavyweight weight in at 245 pounds. Brian's champion middleweight tipped the scale at 215 pounds. A total of fifty individual hogs competed.

The champion pair of market hogs were shown by Kevin Landis. His pigs each weighed 200 pounds and were the lightweight champion pair.

Gerald Hess's 245 and 250 pound champion heavyweights were named reserve champion pair by judge Keith Bard, Lewistown.

Bard selected Jeff Gerlach, Washington Boro, as junior showman and Jim

Nameless steer tops Ephrata show

BY CURT HARLER

EPHRATA — The Ephrata 4-H and FFA steer show held Thursday night turned out like the story of The Ugly Duckling — which, when it grew up, turned out to be a beautiful swan.

When Linda Martin, R1 Narvon, first saw her 4-H steer she thought he looked so lousy she didn't even bother to give him a name.

Her opinion changed greatly when show judge Henry Gruber, New Tripoli, slapped the Angus x Chianina's rump to declare it Grand Champion of the 1980 show.

Linda had shown livestock for 10 years as a member of the Red Rose 4-H Club and thought her Nameless steer gave her one of the poorest chances of winning she ever had. But today she is looking forward to competition in the County Roundup.

Her 1260 pound steer earlier topped the Heavyweight competition, a division of active steers

Chief son tops sale at $51,000

BY DICK ANGLESTEIN

HARRISBURG — A bull calf, a son of Chief out of a high indexing Elevation dam with a long cow family of 20,000-lb. producers, topped the 1980 All-American Holstein Sale Thursday night at $51,000.

The significant sire investment in the future was made by Curtiss Breeding Industries, of Elburn, Il.

The calf, Mr Mun-Cre Mistyman, was consigned by Lester M. Poust, Mun-Cre Farms, of Muncy, Pa.

Born on January 8, Mistyman, was sired by the legendary Pawnee Farm Arlinda Chief out of Mun-Cre Elevation Misty.

A photo spread in the sale catalog set the stage for the spirited bidding – the only real excitement of the three-hour sale in the Small Arena of the Farm Show Building. The spread traced the male progeny line of Chief, including Glendell Arlinda Chief, S-W-D Valiant, Milu Betty Ivanhoe Chief and Wapa Arlinda Conductor.

Mistyman's dam is rated Excellent-92 and the granddam Excellent. The third and fourth dams are Very Good 88 and 87 respectively.

As a four-year-old, the dam produced 33,521 lbs. of milk and 1121 fat. It was her second year over 30,000 lbs. of milk and 1000 fat. The next three generations of dams all topped 20,000 lbs. of milk.

Total proceeds from the sale amounted to $372,200 for 53 head, an average of $7,022.

While bringing less than a third of Mistyman's price, other top animals included:

A heifer calf by Paclamar Bootmaker out of Tillie Magpie Kingpin Matt brought $16,000. Consigned by the Tillie Syndicate, of Collegeville, she was bought by Robertson Dairy, Inc., Lamar, Mo.

Another young heifer, Feleicia May Marquessa-Et, brought $15,500. Her sire is Lawcrest Marvex and her dam, Gene Acres Felicia May Fury, has a lifetime production of 216,360 lbs. of milk and is the Wisconsin fat champion. The dam was twice All-American Aged Cow and three times reserve. She is rated at Excellent-97.

Buyers were Danny Weaver and Roy Hetts, Cary, Il. She was consigned by Felicia May Associates, Sheboygan Falls, WI.

Burkett-Falls Elevation Beth, a 20,000-lb. producer as a three-year-old, was purchased for $15,000 by Dr. Alan D. McCauley, R2 Elizabethtown. She was consigned by David Burket and Sons, of Burket Falls Farm, East Freedom, Pa.

A Delta, York County, cow brought $12,500. Kingstead Fond Matt Jay was consigned by Paul and Kathy King, of Delta, and was purchased by Frank Silva, of Hilman, Calif.

Classified as Very Good-88, she was a grand champion at this year's York Fair.

No large buyers dominated the sale, with no more than two head purchased by an individual. Consignments came from eight states and Canada.

Sale managers and auctioneers were R. Austin Backus, Inc., of Mexico, N.Y.

Cindy Neely named state dairy princess

BY JOYCE BUPP
Staff Correspondent

CAMP HILL — Lovely Cindy Neely of Emlenton was crowned the 1980-81 Pennsylvania Dairy Princess during a gala pageant Tuesday evening in the spacious ballroom of the Penn Harris Motor Inn.

Tears coursing down her face, the former Clarion-Venango winner received the glittering tiara and traditional bouquet of red roses and walked to the end of the pageant runway to resounding applause from the audience of several hundred dairy farmers and their guests.

First runner-up is Chester County's Yvonne King. Lisa McMillen of Perry County is the second runner-up.

Princess Cindy is 18 and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Neely, Jr., of Emlenton R1. She's a freshman at the Venango campus of Clarion State College, majoring in business administration. A June graduate of Keystone High School, Cindy was a member of the honor society, the yearbook staff, chorus and was listed in Who's Who among American High School students.

An enthusiastic 4-H dairy project exhibitor, Cindy had to choose between showing her heifers at the state show held Monday at the Farm Show complex and the princess competition. Almost seeming to apologize for the show they missed, her prized senior yearling freshened back home Monday evening with a heifer calf.

Cindy also exhibits a senior calf as part of her dairy memebrship with the Tailswitchers 4-H dairy club and is a member of the Pennsylvania Junior Holstein Association.

The Emlenton family milks 43 registered Holsteins

When we deliver an order of chicks to the grower our interest doesn't stop there. We want a report back to see how good they look after 14 days in the growing house.

Here some "Report Cards" we've received recently. We're rather proud of the "grades" we've been consistantly getting. We welcome the chance to be evaluated by your grower.

'Go-Calf' gets them going... and saves you money too!

Pennfield's 'Go-Calf' Milk Replacer gets your herd replacements off to a flying start. The goal of every dairyman should be to have his heifers freshened and in the milking herd as soon as possible.

After colostrum, start calves on Pennfield 'Go-Calf' to supply them with the additional protein, vitamins, and minerals they need. 'Go-Calf' also contains medication to aid in the prevention of scours.

Starting your calves on Pennfield 'Go-Calf' Milk Replacer is the all important first step in the Pennfield Herd Replacement Program.

The Pennfield herd replacement program is designed to have heifers bred at just over one year of age and have them freshened at 22 to 24 months with a body weight from 1200 to 1280 pounds.

To learn more about the Pennfield herd replacement program and how you can save on 'Go-Calf' Milk Replacer contact your local Pennfield Sales Representative, or call: Local calls: Lancaster 299-2561, Red Lion 244-4511. Peoria Cattle

Thursday, September 25
Report supplied by USDA

This week's trading on slaughter steers and heifers slowed by a lower dressed trade and reduced numbers going into the middle of the week. Slaughter steers mostly 1.00, instances 1.50 lower and heifers fully .50 to 1.00 lower. Cows very uneven, through Wednesday fully 1.50-2.00 lower. Bulls steady to 1.00 lower. The beginning of fall field work this week along with a lower early week meat trade for a forced trading situation on Wednesday's small numbers. About 18% of the Monday run cows much larger than usual 5-10%. Receipts this week were about 3200 as compared to 3079 a week ago and 3619 a year ago.

THE OLD FARMER'S ALMANAC

SEPT. 29-OCT. 5, 1980

First frost and all is lost.

Mice start coming inside now Ford introduced Model "T" Oct 1, 1908 . . Last quarter of the moon Sept 30 . Average length of days for the week, 11 hours, 36 minutes . . Special-delivery mail service began Oct 1, 1885 Milky Way high in the sky now If you can't bite, don't show your teeth

Ask the Old Farmer: During a recent trip around the Northeast we came across many old wells, some of them very deep and most small in diameter I just can't understand how they were stoned up and down after they were dug J G., Mansfield, Ohio

They were actually stoned before they were dug The well-diggers started to stone from the top They dug down a few feet, then stoned up what they had dug. They kept doing this until they finished

Home Hints: If you want to have comfortably fitting shoes, buy them in the afternoon when the muscles of your feet have spread

OLD FARMER'S WEATHER FORECASTS

New England: Clear, unseasonably warm, at week's start, then showers, cool temperatures, weekend is seasonal.

Greater New York-New Jersey: Clear and pleasant through mid-week, with rain and cool temperatures for midweek and weekend.

Middle Atlantic Coastal: Week begins with cold snap, with rain developing middle of week, for week's end, clear and mild.

Piedmont & Southeast Coastal: Showers west start the week, then cold, showers developing north middle through end of week

Thursday, September 25
Report supplied by USDA

Midweek prices on Slaughter Steers were .50-1.00 lower. Heifers closed .25-.50 lower. Cows were 2.00-3.00 lower, and bulls 1.00-2.00 lower.

Slaughter Steers and Heifers came under persistent downward pressure the fore part of week as modest marketing proved unable to offset the effects of a bearish carcass trade. Trading was often slow and selective as most buying interests were not aggressive for maximum numbers. Slaughter quotas were sometimes cut back in reflection of the unfavorable ratio between current live prices and carcass realizations a portion of the early downturn in live prices was regained at midweek, but in a forced trade on small supplies. The overall finish of the Steer and Heifer supply still was not particularly attractive with much of the consist Good to Average-Choice, and including many 1000-1100 lb. steers. Slaughter Steers made up approximately 33 pct and Heifers 32 pct. Cows comprised 8 pct and Feeders 23 pct.

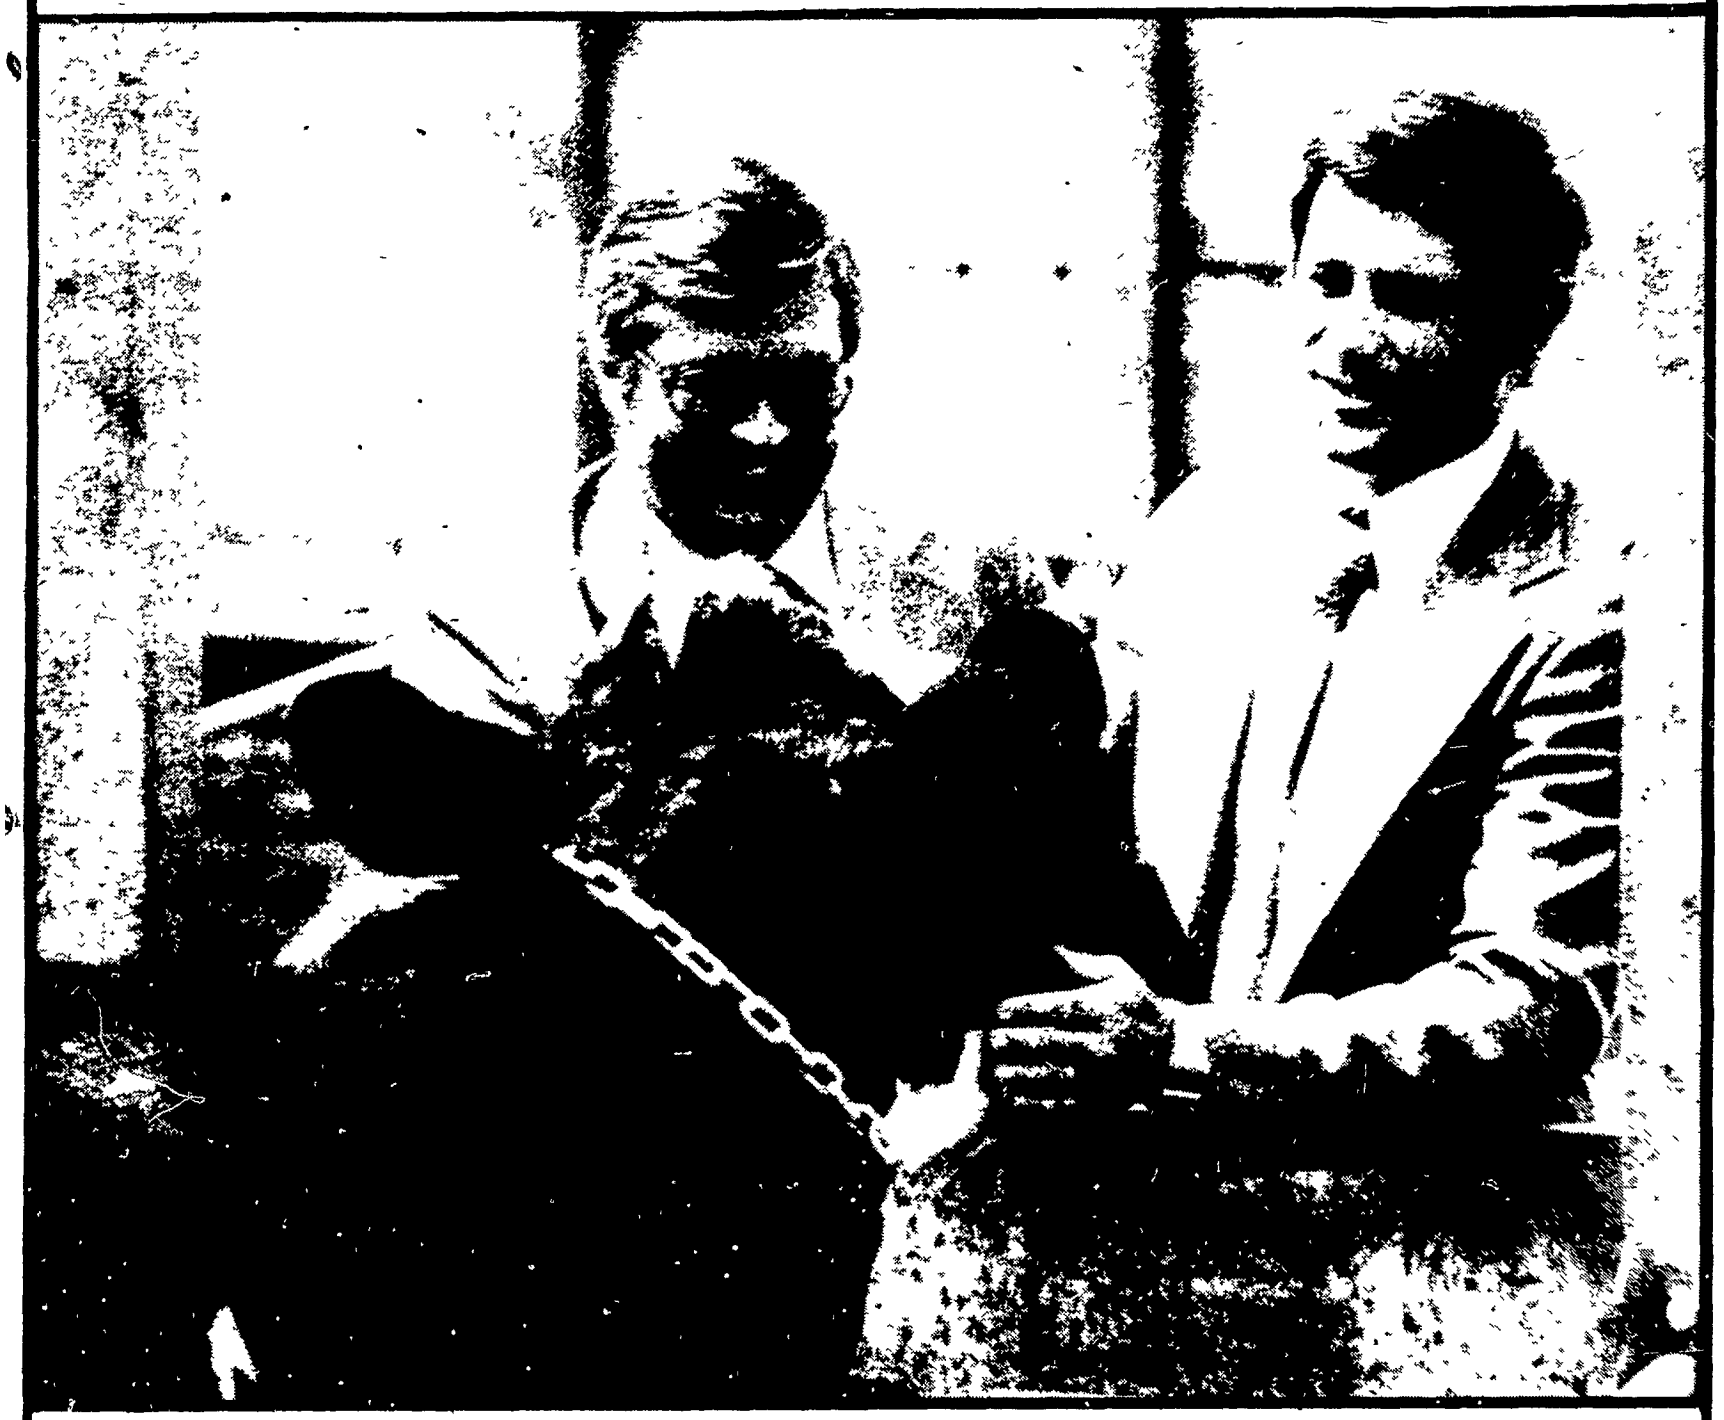
Meet your American Banker.



Your American Bankers. Gene Richard, William Hughes

He puts a lot of stock in your farm.

A major challenge to the success of raising livestock is proper money management. That's a challenge your American Banker is proud to accept. Because the people in our Agri-Business Department have farming backgrounds, they understand the everyday financial needs of farmers. So when they come out to see you, they speak your language.

Since the turn of the century, American Bank has had a special kinship with farmers and their land. Over the years we've kept pace with their needs with loans for livestock, new equipment, construction and remodeling. As times and needs changed, we helped with lines of credit and operating capital. Today, we're still maintaining that pace with additional financial services like trusts, retirement and estate planning, and savings and checking accounts.

American Bankers come from farming stock. So it comes as no surprise that we have a lot of pride in the farmers we work for. If you'd like to see us, call our Agri-Business Department at (215) 375-5993. We'll put a lot of stock in your ideas.

Lancaster Farming says...

What farm exports mean to us

Three times in the past 14 days agricultural leaders have made speeches pushing hard for increased farm exports.

U.S. Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland last week pointed to agricultural exports as one of the prime areas of concern to USDA in the future. He proposes to push 'value added' products into the export market—that is, products which have been taken a step from basic materials out of the field.

Indeed, the brightest spot in the Carter Administration's agricultural policy is its record of increasing farm exports by 35 million tons, or 50 percent, in the past three years.

Right here in Pennsylvania, Ag Secretary Penrose Hallowell recently concluded meetings with representatives of 15 Japanese firms. Japan buys $4 billion in U.S. commodities annually.

The Agricultural Council of America last week also kicked off a program to boost U.S. ag exports.

Those exports mean a lot to us as a nation, a state, and as individuals.

Since farm production greatly exceeds domestic requirements, roughly one-third of the harvested acres in this country are sold overseas.

We export almost 65 percent of our wheat, over 60 percent of our rice, better than half of our soybeans and soy products, and about one-third of our corn.

This year farm exports will generate $82 billion in domestic economic activity. That means employment for more than 1.13 million U.S. workers, including some 630,000 in the nonfarm sector related to food processing, trade, transportation and others.

Roughly every $20,000 in exports from this state provides a job for another Pennsylvanian. That means taking people off welfare rolls. It means families with more pride and self-respect.

It means more people paying taxes rather than being a drain on the tax base.

It means inching toward a balanced foreign trade situation. It means America holds a power in the world far more potent than guns ever could provide.

It means broader marketing potential for farmers and better prices for farm goods. It means boosting the standards of nutrition and crop production around the world without giving away the goods we produce.

It means a secure America, a prosperous state, and a healthy outlook on the home farm.

Let candidates debate

As important as farming is to the American economy, we can see no reason why all three leading presidential candidates should not consent to a debate on farm policy.

The idea is being promoted by National Farmers' Union President George W. Stone and has true merit.

The nation's agricultural policy in the coming four years will have great effect on our balance of trade, consumer prices, farm productivity, research budgets, export policy, foreign relations and domestic economy.

Notice nothing above is said about the farmer and his business. This isn't simply a farmer concern. It is important to the entire country.

Still, the four percent of the population who feed the other 96 percent would be interested in knowing if Reagan ever found out what parity is, if Carter intends to open markets to foreign cheese, or if Anderson has a firm farm policy.

Let's have the leading contenders face a panel from Farm Bureau, Grange, NFU, and the farm press.

Not only will the outcome be educational for the general public, but the candidates themselves may learn something more about the concerns of the farm community in this country.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

JOSHUA'S CHALLENGE

September 28, 1980

Background Scripture:
Joshua 24:1-31; Judges 2.
Devotional Reading:
Psalm 15.

If you travel to the Holy Land, you may still see that historic place where Joshua gathered the victorious tribes of Israel. Schechem was the scene of one of Israel's most dramatic and significant events, for it was here that Joshua gathered the people and challenged them to make their choice between the gods of Canaan and the Lord.

FEAR AND SERVE

They and their forbearers have seen what God has done for them, so Joshua challenged them: "Now therefore fear the Lord and serve him in sincereity and in faithfulness." It is not the "fear" of fright and terror, but of holy awe and reverence. For God wants not fawning words and idle gestures, but sincere worship and faithfulness.

Why is Joshua making such a formal occasion as this? Well, for one thing, he is aware that there is a subtle, yet powerful inner struggle taking place in the lives of his people. They have witnessed the goodness of God, but the lures and enchantments of the pagan gods are hard to put aside. In the spirit of the ancient world, they are tempted to give homage to both the Lord and his rivals. "Put away the gods which your fathers served beyond the River, and in Egypt, and serve the Lord" (24:14). Joshua doesn't "beat around the bush", but comes straight to the point: "And if you be unwilling to serve the Lord, choose this day whom you will serve..." (24:15).

The people might be tempted to slide by without making a conscious choice. It is a most human trait and we still try to do that very thing even today: if we can both adhere to Christianity and still hold on to other religious values, we will do it. But Joshua knew that the people had to make a definite choice, one way or the other. God would not tolerate divided loyalties: "You cannot serve the Lord; for he is a holy God; he is a jealous God" (24:19). Jesus would echo this generations later saying, "You cannot serve God and mammon."

AS FOR ME AND MY HOUSE...

Joshua made it clear that he and his family had made that choice: "...as for me and my house, we will serve the Lord" (24:15). And the people were anxious to make the same choice: "Far be it from us that we should forsake the Lord, to serve other gods." They remembered well what God had done for them: "it is the Lord our God who brought us and our fathers from the land of Egypt, out of the house of bondage...therefore we will serve the Lord for he is our God" (24:16-18).

Twice they assured Joshua that they knew fully the meaning of the covenant they were making with the Lord. Very well, says Joshua, raising a great stone to commemorate this act, "Behold this stone shall be a witness against us, for it has heard all the words of the Lord which he spoke to us" (24:27). Joshua knew that covenants need to be formally recognized and specifically verbalized if they are to be guiding forces in our lives.

A ring, a baptismal certificate, or some other visible "stone of witness" is needed in every covenant relationship.

NOW IS THE TIME

TO PRODUCE LEANER BEEF

For the past several years the trend has been toward leaner meat of all kinds; this is especially true with most beef cuts. The pork producers have been producing less lard for the past decade and now the consumers are expecting the same thing with beef. There is lettle doubt that it does not pay to feed cattle to a high finish at this time. I guess the question arises as to what is a high finish. The grade of Choice seems to be high enough and a Yield Grade of 2 or 3. Producers should be on the market enough to learn just how much finish it takes to meet these grades of finish. Recently the eastern producers have lost most of the buyers of highly finished cattle. With grain prices being higher, it is poor economics to put feed into cattle and then get discounted on the market for having too much finish. Cattle feeders should adjust to market demands in order to make the most profit.

TO PREVENT RODENT DAMAGE

Colder weather soon be here when most rats and mice will be coming to farm buildings. With good management we should not allow them to set up housekeeping on any farm or building. They often carry diseases and will surely damage most feed and grain crops. Good sanitation practices are in order and the use some concrete to point masonry walls and foundations. Corn cribs and grain bins should also be protected. Feed grains are too high-priced to be damaged or destroyed by rodents.

TO STORE PESTICIDES CAREFULLY

Many producers are about finished with their spray materials for this year. Many of these can be held over until next year with good results. However, it is always best to buy only enough for one season at a

NEW 700 HEAD FINISHING UNIT

FEATURING:

CHORETIME VENTILATION SYSTEMS

"How to keep SUPERAIR coming to your hogs"

Our "advanced air systems" approach keeps your hogs blissfully unaware of what season it is.

If your hogs can feel extremes of heat or cold you're not getting the greatest efficiency from them or from what you're feeding them If they're hot in summer they can't gain efficiently or fast enough If they're cold in winter they're burning feed to keep warm

So you may be paying for a modern ventilation system and still not getting one

Chore Time's environmental control system is not complicated or difficult to understand if you realize what it does It's designed simply to control air flow and air volume at all times The result? 1) It evens out temperatures in all parts of a building all year long 2) It provides comfort during summer's hot humid weather 3) provides healthful air flow in winter but prevents cold drafts and cold areas in a building

The result is faster gains less costly gains better use of valuable feed more efficient use of your labor - better profits

CHORETIME POSIFLO™ FEED CONTROL

Chore-time POSIFLO™ assures first-in, first-out performance

POSIFLO Feed Flow Control (shown mounted on our 30° single outlet boot) is fully automatic. Its electric motor slowly rotates the disk and metal "whisker" while the auger system runs

Milk advisory committee named

HARRISBURG — The first meeting of the Pennsylvania Dairy Promotion Advisory Committee will be held at 10 a.m. on September 30 in the Agriculture Building in Harrisburg.

The committee was selected to help draft a proposal for a referendum which, if approved by the majority of Pennsylvania's dairy producers, could become an effective statewide milk promotion marketing order.

Names of committee members finally were made public on Wednesday, a month after the Committee was scheduled to hold its first meeting.

Each of several dairy co-ops and farmer organizations was allowed to nominate members to the committee. Those chosen appear below.

Lewis Bixler, Marietta, Lancaster County-Mt. Joy Farmers Co-op Association; Wilmer Blank, Ickesburg, Perry County-National Farmers Organization; Carl Brown, Pine Grove, Schuylkill County-Pennsylvania Farmers Association; Leroy P. Bupp, Seven Valleys, York County-Maryland Co-op Milk Producers, Inc.; Albert Berkevage, Centerport, Berks County-Cleona Milk Producers Co-op.

Also, Kenneth Fox, Somerset County-United Dairy Farms; Robert Gayman, Coopersburg, Lehigh County-Lehigh Valley Farms; Paul E. Hornbaker, Shippensburg, Cumberland County-Maryland and Virginia Milk Producers Association, Inc.; H. Eugene Lawson, Greencastle, Franklin County-Capitol Milk Producers Co-op, Inc.; Dayton Lohr, Hooversville, Somerset County-Allied Milk Producers; Daniel L. Martin, Manheim, Lancaster County-Interstate Milk Producers Co-op, Inc.

LANCASTER COUNTY DAIRYMEN:

IT'S A FACT: chances are better than 9 out of 10 that your herd of slick, high-producing cows is infected with roundworms. Here are five more facts you should know about worms, the production losses they can cause, and how to help stop them with TBZ, the prefreshening cattle wormer.

FACT 1—Most wormy cows "look healthy" because they eat enough to feed the worms AND to keep themselves looking good. University, Extension and other scientists have proved over 90 percent of all cattle are wormy, even in cold, northern climates.

FACT 2—Worms can cut production, even in top herds, by as much as 400 to 500 pounds per head per lactation...shown in trials in Wisconsin, Vermont and other dairy states.

FACT 3—One out of four dairymen now worm routinely, and thousands more are beginning every year.

FACT 4—Worming each cow with TBZ before she calves lets her begin lactation clean, and helps make peak production possible all through lactation.

FACT 5—TBZ is a one-dose, one-time worming treatment available in paste, bolus, suspension and pellet forms. At the stanchion or in the calving pen, TBZ makes worming each cow as she freshens simple, easy, quick.

Linda Martin, a member of the Red Rose 4-H Club, showed her 1260 pound Angus x Chianina cross to the Grand Championship of the Ephrata Steer Show Thursday night. Linda, who resides at R1 Narvon, is a 10-year member of the 4-H Club.

Judy Zimmerman, R1 Ephrata, showed her 1110 pound steer to the blue ribbon in the medium weight division. Later in the show Judy also took top showmanship honors in the senior division.

Ever see a 1010 pound steer try to hide behind its owner? The animal, belonging to Marcy Gehman, R2 Stevens, had no reason to be shy as it won the blue ribbon in the lightweight division in the Ephrata Steer Show.

which threatened at several points to become a rodeo.

A light rain, the wet sandy arena, bright lights, and being cooped up for several days added to the steers' skittishness.

Reserve Grand Championship in the Show went to Pam Wenger, Rl Stevens.

Pam showed a 1210 pound Angus x Chianina. Her steer, Danny, finished second to Linda's in the Heavyweight class.

Also a member of the Red Rose 4-H Club, Pam is the daughter of State Representative Noah Wenger who sits on the House Ag Committee.

Third place in the Heavyweight division went to last year's grand champion Darlene Huyard, Lancaster.

In the Light Heavyweight division, first place went to Scott Augsburger, R2 Reinholds; second to Tony Eberly, R2 Denver; and third to Jay Reiff, Lititz.

Tops in the Medium Weight class was Judy Zimmerman, Rl Ephrata; second, Emily Weaver, Rl Ephrata; and third, Galen Sauder, R2 Ephrata.

Lightweight division winner was Marcy Gehman, R2 Stevens. Second place went to Judy Zimmerman, who showed both as a 4-H'er and an FFA member. Third went to Steve Fox, R2 Ephrata.

Grand Champion Fitter at the show was Fred Weaver, Rl Ephrata.

In the senior showmanship category first place went to Judy Zimmerman, followed by Tony Eberly and Linda Martin. Eberly took the fitting honors.

In the Ages 12 to 14 class, Jay Reiff took the showmanship title, followed by Steve Fox and Emily Weaver. Fitting championship went to Emily Weaver.

In the Ages 8 to 11 class, Fred Weaver took both the champion showman and fitter. Second place in showmanship went to John Fox, third to John's brother Fred Fox.

BIG FARM POWER AND EQUIPMENT

WHY SETTLE FOR LESS?

SEE US BEFORE YOU BUY A FOUR-WHEEL DRIVE

There are other four-wheel drive tractors. But Steiger is preferred here in the East by more farmers farming more than 1000 acres than all the other 200 plus drawbar HP four wheel drive tractors combined. Why? The answer is simple. Steiger Tractors have been proving themselves in the fields of Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Maryland and Delaware for the past six years.

Steiger Tractors are dependable, like a Farmall M. Steiger uses rugged components designed for construction equipment. Engines such as Cat and Cummins. Drive-line components such as Spicer and Allison. Steiger uses plate steel for their hoods, not fiberglass. Steiger guarantees its drive-line components for 2-years. Steiger Tractors we sell are backed-up by Hoober Service Specialists and a stand-by-tractor.

Steiger Tractors save fuel, like a Volkswagon Rabbit. Steiger's simple drive train converts a larger percentage of engine HP to the drawbar than other 4-wheel drive tractors. Steiger's drive train efficiency translates into more work performed per gallon of fuel than the others. Our experience with large tillage equipment enables us to match the proper tillage tool to the proper tractor for your particular operation. Less slippage means increased efficiency.

Steiger Tractors are comfortable like a Lincoln Continental. Steiger's Safari Cab is quieter than other 200 plus HP four-wheel drive tractors. They are roomy and the large contoured seat takes the torture out of those long spring days. Air-conditioning and an AM-FM stereo tape player are standard equipment.

Steiger Tractors are priced like a Chevrolet. Price a Steiger by the pound, by the drawbar HP, or by the acre. Then compare. You'll see you can afford this Cadilac of four-wheel drive tractors.

BUT DON'T TAKE OUR WORD FOR IT; ASK A NEIGHBOR WHO OWNS ONE. STEIGER OWNERS ARE THE BEST SALESMEN WE HAVE...

Franklin, York show top bulls at Guernsey Show

The grand champion bull, Rockmoore Corporals David, was shown by Vaughn and Eileen Moore, R2 Chambersburg, Franklin County. The year-old bull took first in the calf class.

The reserve grand championship went to Fayvor Melody's Mel, winner as a senior yearling, owned by Frederick A. and Wayne F. Hobaugh, R1 York.

A full sister of the grand champion bull also is nearing a Guernsey honor. Willow Brook C. Dena is about to finish a 305-day lactation as a four-year-old with a new world's production record exceeding 35,000 lbs. She will beat the existing record by more than 1,200 lbs. Her production as a two-year-old was 25,690 lbs. and as a three-year-old, 28,700 lbs.

Emma and Steve Lovelace, of Dardenella Farm, Orangeburg, S.C., won the premier exhibitor award and showed the reserve junior champion female, the senior champion and grand champion female.

Junior champion female honors went to Bushy Park Farm, Wake, Va., and the senior champion female and reserve grand champion female was owned by Ripley Farm, Cortland, N.Y.

Premier breeder was Holcombs Guernsey Farm, owned by Robert Lovelace, Greene, N.Y. The premier sire was owned by American Breeders Service, DeForest, WI.

Dairylea, Mid-Am talking cheese joint venture

BY CURT HARLER

PEARL RIVER, N.Y. — Talks are proceeding on a joint venture cheese operation involving Dairylea Cooperative, Inc. of Pearl River, N.Y. and Mid-American Dairymen of Springfield, Missouri.

The cheesemaking deal, if concluded, would provide a substantial milk market for Norhteastern Pennsylvania and New York dairy farmers.

Dairylea said local milk would be used and it foresees no milk coming in from the midwest.

As of this week, negotiations were being conducted on the establishment of a jointly owned company which probably will be called Adams Cheese Company.

The cheese plant would be a renovation of the existing Dairylea Adams, N.Y. plant.

Mid-Am markets products throughout the country, has a chain of fluid and manufacturing plants, and is involved in some way in at least eight subsidiaries.

Early estimates of the cost of the Adams project are about $9.5 million.

The Jefferson County, N.Y. Industrial Development Authority has approved an inducement resolution. Basically, such a resolution says that loan money would be made available to Dairylea and Mid-Am if they conclude the agreement.

There is a ceiling clause in the loan that says the loan can not exceed $10 million.

In the beginning the plant probably would continue to produce cheddar cheese. But no one seems to be ruling out the possibility of expanding into other types of cheese should the operation roll smoothly.

No timetable has been set for the project. But a spokesman for Dairylea said the Co-op remains optimistic about bringing the deal to conclusion with Mid-Am and said if agreement is reached the pair will attempt to finish the project as quickly as possible.

Members of Dairylea probably will get more details on the project and and update on progress from General Manager Ed Mertz at the annual meeting scheduled for October 15 and 16 at the Concord Hotel, Kiamesha Lake, N.Y.

Keynote speaker at the Annual Meeting Banquet on Wednesday night will be Gary Hanman, executive vice president and general manager of Mid-Am.

It is quite likely he will have some remarks to make on the proposed joint venture.

But Dairylea said earlier this week it does not expect to have a grand announcement at the annual meeting, and noted it would prefer to remain conservative on any projections.

Still, other plans are moving along. A modern pollution control plant is on the drawingboard. The plant is said to be a model of its type. It is designed to turn the whey into a profitable by-product, rather than a waste, from the plant.

In the meantime, Dairylea and Mid-Am are dealing with other particulars like local environmental impact statements, zoning requirements and the like, obviously anticipating a successful conclusion to the on-going negotiations.

Buy or sell hay

ANNAPOLIS, Md. — Is the bad news the fact that you are caught short this season for hay and straw because of the drought? Or, is the good news the fact that you have hay and straw to sell on what is going to be a good market?

Either way, the Maryland Department of Agriculture's Division of Marketing is once again getting ready to help you out through its upcoming "Hay and Straw Directory" which lists farmers with hay and straw to sell.

Brad Powers, MDA Marketing Specialist who compiles the directory, says he is getting ready to do a Fall 1980 edition and wants to hear from farmers with hay and straw to sell so that, free of charge, he can list it in the directory.

The guide lists the farmers by county with information as to the type and quantity of hay and straw they have for sale. It's up to buyers to negotiate over the price.

So, if you have hay and straw for sale this year please contact Powers as soon as possible by writing to him at the following address: "Hay and Straw", c/o Marketing Division, Maryland Department of Agriculture, Parole Plaza Office Building, Annapolis, Maryland 21401.

If you are a buyer, you can write to the same address now and request that a copy of the directory, which should be ready by late October, be sent to you as soon as it comes off the press.

time. When storing spray materials, always keep them in their original containers and away from all children, pets, and livestock. It is best to have a separate room or building for pesticide storage. Wetable powders are easy to store; however, emulsions and liquids may be harmed by freezing weather. Producers are urged to follow the label and instructions in this respect. It might be necessary to keep some of them in a heated building. Be sure they are not near feed suplies because accidents can happen. Pesticides kept in a room or building under lock and key is a good way to prevent costly mistakes and tragedies.

TO CHECK 1980 WEED CONTROL

If you did not get good weed control this year in your fields, now would be a good time to investigate. As we travel throughout Lancaster county, we note quite a variation in the weed control success. Some fields are nearly weed-free, while others are quite weedy. This can be observed after the crops have been harvested. If the weed control program is being done by a custom operator, then that person should be with you to observe the conditions and to make plans for next year. In addition to materials, timing, and weather, please keep in mind that soil acidity has a definite part to play in good herbicide performance. In sour soils most of our weed killers will not do a good job. Take time now to observe your weed control program.

Junior Suffolk Assn. to sponsor lamb raffle

HARRISBURG — The Pennsylvania Junior Suffolk Sheep Association has a lot of activity scheduled for the Keystone International Livestock Exposition.

The JSSA will sponsor the Suffolk Booth at the show and they will be selling raffle tickets on a registered Suffolk ewe lamb.

The raffle will take place just before the Pennsylvania Suffolk Sale at 6 p.m. on Saturday, October 4, 1980 in the sheep arena.

The Junior Suffolk Sheep Association will be holding their Pennsylvania Suffolk Queen contest the same day. Any interested young ladies who are members of the Junior Association should contact Mrs. William MacCauley at 215-593-6521.

A pen of Dorset lambs showed by Margaret Herr took the championship group of three at Ephrata Fair. At left, the trio of Suffolks belonging to Carolyn Witmer took the reserve championship.

Herrs take several blues in lamb meet

EPHRATA — Barbara and Margaret Herr came over from R2 Narvon to the Ephrata Fair and showed an assortment of several breeds to blue ribbons in the Ephrata Fair Lamb Show.

In addition they finished one-two in the on-foot judging in the lamb carcass show.

About the only lamb blue ribbons that the Herrs didn't take home were in the divisions where they had no entries.

Barbara Herr, a Garden Spot FFA'er took both the grand championship and reserve championship in the market lamb division. Her Hampshire ewe took the blue while her Southdown entry was second.

Earlier in the contest show judge Ken Brubaker of Blue Acres Farm, Lancaster, commented, "I've never seen a Southdown so good" when he placed that animal at the top of its class.

It had size and conformation to beat out some classy Suffolks and another Hampshire in the final judging.

In the carcass show Barbara Herr's 112 pound entry edged out Margaret's 100 pounder by a hair.

Brubaker said he liked the length of loin, clean, trim, good overall muscling of the top animal although he felt the second was better conditioned.

The blue ribbon winner, he said, showed the best combination and completeness in the show while the runner-up did not show the same muscle development.

Third place went to Barry Martin, fourth to Christian Herr. Rail judging and carcass lamb auction Friday night were too late to be included in this listing.

In the individual breed market lamb placings, Cheviot first place went to Gary Eberly, second to Joann Eberly, and third to Loretta Clisham.

Margaret Herr showed the only two entries in Dorset competition and took a blue and red.

Barbara Herr won the first class of Hampshires, followed by Hans Groff in second and Donald Good in third place.

In the second Hamp class, Steven Moyer finished first, followed by Hans Groff and Donald Good.

Barb Herr's reserve grand champion Southdown walked away with that class's ribbon while Jeff Martin took both second and third.

Although Kent Halsey's Corriedale was entered in its class unopposed, the show judge decided the animal had the size and finish to deserve the blue ribbon.

Two classes of Suffolks were run. In the first class, Carolyn Witmer had the top animal. Red ribbon went to Barry Martin, followed by Debbie Martin.

The top spot in the second class of Suffolks went to Debbie Martin, followed by Carolyn Witmer and Maria Lorah.

Three classes each were in competition in the fitting and showmanship divisions.

In the beginners fitting class Darlene Horning finished first, followed by Karen Martin and Carolyn Witmer.

Beginners showmanship title went to Steven Moyer, followed by Carolyn Witmer and Maria Lorah.

Second year fitting championship was awarded to Kirsten Horning. Barbara Martin finished second, Loretta Clisham, third.

Kauffman's 242 pound York-Duroc cross took the grand championship while its littermate, a 226 pounder, was reserve grand champion.

Kauffman was watching on the sidelines as a number of his hogs dominated the Ephrata competition. He had sprained an ankle before the show.

Show judge Gene Sweigard, a Duroc breeder, had 56 FFA and 4-H entries to look at during the evening. Results of the class placings found Kauffman and Rick or Steve Strauss, R1 Ephrata, at the top of most classes.

In the lightweight market swine, class 1, first place went to Judy Zimmerman, Rl Ephrata; second, Steve Strauss, Rl Ephrata; third, Tim Pfautz, Rl Stevens.

Class 2 top spot went to Steve Strauss; second was Smith Brothers, R2 Denver; third, Clair Weaver, Ephrata. Class 3, Rick Strauss, first; Judy Zimmerman, second; Clifford Weaver, Ephrata, third.

Class 4, first place to Steve Strauss. second to Rick Strauss, third to Todd Reed, Rl Reinholds.

In the first medium weight class, Tim Pfautz, Rl Stevens was first; Steve Strauss was second, and Russell Ackley, Rl Lititz was third. Rick Strauss took the only ribbon in the second medium weight class.

Clair Weaver took first place in the next medium weight class. Dean Allison, Lititz was second, Ray Good, Rl Ephrata was third.

In the final medium weight class, Harold Kauffman was first, Steve Strauss second, and Judy Zimmerman, third.

The first heavy weight class was won by Rick Strauss, followed by Harold Kauffman and Galen Sauder, R2 Ephrata. The second class also went to Rick Strauss, followed by Kauffman entries in both second and third place.

The grand champion market hog at this year's Ephrata Fair was a Yorkshire x Duroc cross shown by Harold Kauffman, R1 Reinholds.

Harold Kauffman took the third class, followed by Steve Strauss and Todd Reed, Rl Reinholds. In the final heavy weight class, Ray Good was first, Galen Sauder second.

Light weight champ was Steve Strauss, reserve was Rick Strauss.

Medium weight title went to Harold Kauffman, reserve champ to Rick Strauss.

Heavyweight title went to Harold Kauffman, again with Rick Strauss picking up the reserve.

Top three placings in the under 15 years of age category for fitting went to Tim Pfautz, Mike Pfautz, and Richard Stauffer. In the over 16 class, first place went to Jim Musser, followed by Clifford Weaver and Todd Reed.

The 15 and under showmanship title went to Mike Pfautz, followed by Richard Stauffer and Tim Pfautz. The 16 year old class went to Rick Strauss, with Scott Smith and Steve Strauss finishing second and third.

Top hog sells for $2 over old record price

EPHRATA — Outside the hog tent at Ephrata Fair on Thursday evening it was pouring rain for a change. But inside it was raining dollars for the swine show's champion Harold Kauffman.

The Rl Reinholds champ saw his 242 pound hog sell to Hatfield for $6 per pound to bring a total of $1452.

The $6 figure exceeded last year's all-time record by $2 per pound.

"Those are Farm Show prices," commented Lancaster County Agent Max Smith.

But Kauffman's profits were only starting to roll in. Hatfield, which purchased all of the top animals in the show, ran the bidding up to $2.80 per pound on his reserve champion hog which weighed 226 pounds.

The bidding on ribbon-winners dropped quickly thereafter.

Steve Strauss, R1 Ephrata, saw his light weight champion go for 65 cents a pound.

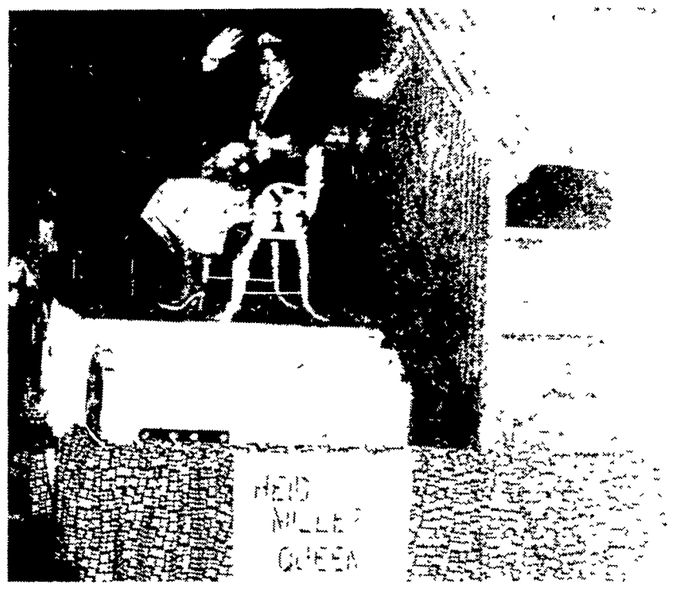
Rick Strauss received 66 cents for the light weight reserve champ which, at 202 pounds, was six pounds heavier than the champ.

Rick also sold the medium weight reserve and the heavyweight reserve champions. He received 66 cents a pound for the former, 65 cents for the latter.

Those prices could be seen as somewhat disappointing in light of the fast start in the bidding and the sale average on the other 54 animals in the show.

Sale average on the rest of the pigs was 69.9 cents per pound.

Among other buyers was Penn Pack Buying Station, Brownstown Bank, Walter Dunlop and Sons, Cloister Restaurant, Agri-Equipment, and Farmersville Equipment.—CH



Lancaster County Poultry Queen Heidi Miller's float won second prize in the Ephrata Fair parade in the non-commercial most original division. Also parading was Dairy Princess Connie Balmer.

Cliff Weaver, Ephrata, took first place in the Cloister FFA tractor driving contest at Ephrata Fair. Sue Royer, right, R2 Denver finished second. Third place went to Richard Stauffer, fourth to Jim Musser, and fifth to Eugene Ferrari, all of R1 Ephrata.

Ephrata

of Brickerville won the Age 7 to 11 class in the annual pig chase.

Paul Leisey, Jr., 15, of R2 Denver was overall winner in the Age 12 to 15 class. Joans Auker, R3 Ephrata was tops in the 16 and over class.

Mrs. Linda Ulrich, Reamstown, won the women's title.

Overall winner in the rooster catching contest was Andy Weber, 6, of Lititz.

Ephrata fair receives $2500 boost

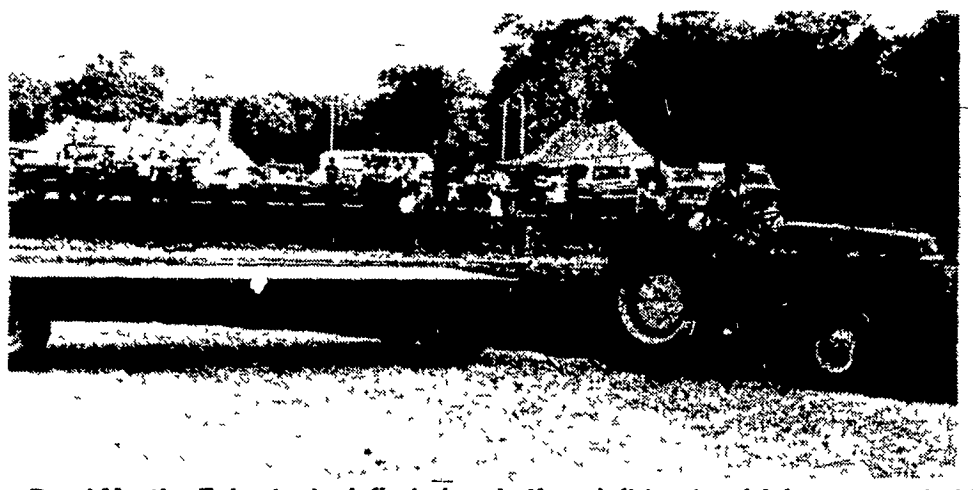
EPHRATA — The Ephrata Fair Thursday received a check for $2,551.67 in matching funds from the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture's Fair Fund in ceremonies on the fairgrounds in Ephrata.

The $2,551.67 check, for purchase of a trailer for the fair office, was presented by Deputy Pennsylvania Agriculture Secretary E. Chester Heim. The funds were made available through a special allocation of the Pennsylvania State Fair Fund aimed at promoting capital improvements at fairs within the commonwealth.

State Representative Noah W. Wenger, of Stevens, vice-chairman of the House Committee on Agriculture and Rural Affairs, took part in the presentation ceremonies, along with Ben F. Mader, Director of the Pennsylvania Fair Fund.

The Pennsylvania State Fair Fund is supported by returns from horse and harness racing revenues. In addition to the matching funds program, another $1.9 million was distributed to the 105 fairs in Pennsylvania to cover costs of events, exhibitions and premiums for 1979.

Including Thursday's matching funds check, the Ephrata Fair has received a total of $15,546.67 from the Fair Fund this year.



Daryl Martin, Ephrata, took first place in the adult tractor driving contest held Tuesday. He is shown here backing a wagon into a stall.

Grassland FFA runs nature center at Fair

EPHRATA — Members of the Grassland FFA from Eastern Lancaster County School District operated a nature center open to the public during the Ephrata Fair.

The project grew out of the Grassland FFA's Building Our American Communities program.

Included in the nature center were a number of educational displays on such topics as birds of prey, working together for wildlife, waterfowl, and the conservation mini-window exhibit competition.

Also featured was a touch and feel table to stimulate the use of the sense of touch to enjoy many natural tidbits. A guess box was one of the highlights for the youngsters.

In addition, members of the Grassland FFA presented a series of talks and demonstrations for the public.

This project was developed by the Grassland FFA as a community service.

Forage Conference scheduled

HERSHEY — "Forages and the Ruminant–Past, Present and Future" is the theme of the 1980 Forage Conference scheduled for November 24-25 at the Hershey Convention Center, Hershey.

A group of outstanding agronomists, farmers, and research engineers will discuss aspects of alfalfa production and harvesting, silage and its role in livestock feeding, and hay evaluation and marketing, points out John E. Baylor, extension agronomist at Penn State.

Conference registration will be held from 9 a.m. to noon to November 24 at the Convention Center. Advance registration forms are available at the Cooperative Extension Service Office.

Keynote speaker will be W. K. Griffith, regional director of the Potash-Phosphate Institute.

Baylor notes that a Grasslander of the Decade will be named at the recognition banquet on November 24. This forage farmer will be selected from among the yearly winners during the period 1970-79.

In addition, a 1980 champion alfalfa grower will be named at the conference. Criteria used are yield of hay equivalent, crude protein and total digestible nutrients. The winner will be termined by records submitted in the Pennsylvania Alfalfa Growers Program.

The Forage Conference is sponsored by Penn State's Cooperative Extension Service in Cooperation with the Pennsylvania Forage and Grassland Council.

Sand Rock Farm wins top Brown Swiss honors

HARRISBURG — Sand Rock Farm of Rocky Ridge, Md., took most of the top Brown Swiss honors in competition at the 1980 Pennsylvania All-American Dairy Show Tuesday in the Farm Show Building.

Sand Rock entries captured honors as junior champion female, Sand Rock R Rita, and reserve senior and reserve grand champion female, Sand Rock Captain Ruby Twin.

Sand Rock was also named premier breeder and premier exhibitor and had the premier sire, L.J. Revival R.

Richill Sunny Empress, owned by Hill's Valley Farm, Cattaraugus, N.Y., was named the senior champion and grand champion female.

The grand champion bull was shown by Keener, Garrison and Powell, of West Salem, OH. The reserve champion bull was exhibited by Top Acres, St. Paris, OH. Fairdell Farm, of Newton, N.J., took the reserve junior champion female honors.

At Monday night's Brown Swiss Sale a total of 28 head of calves and mature females brought $37,390, for an average of $1,335.

The top two cows each sold for $2,500. DVC Del Miranda, consigned by Delaware Valley College, Doylestown, was sold to James Yoder, Meyersdale, Somerset County. Fra-Mar Marcella Des, consigned by James Kennedy, Butler, went to Wendell Dotterer, Smithville, OH.

"I get more eggs with less feed using Harvestall Chillcured corn."

Harold Kready, Mt. Joy, PA

For feeding my flock of 10,000 Shaver hens I know there's nothing better than naturally cured corn. This Harvestall Chillcuring system is everything the man said it would be. I get the quality grain I want and I save money in the process.

I switched last year from heatdrying my corn to curing it in the Harvestall. It was a good chance to see if there is any difference between heat dried corn and naturally cured corn, because between the 1979 flock and the 1980 flock the only difference was the corn they were fed.

This comparison is taken from summaries prepared by Heritage Poultry Management Services in Anneville. Both flocks had completed 11 periods.

FEED CONVERSION	3.7	3.31
PERCENT HEN DAY PRODUCTION	78.86	83.7

Where the average feed cost per dozen eggs in this area was 27¢ my cost was 23.23 The fact of the matter is that I got better production with less feed because the quality of feed was better, and the only thing that changed was the corn.

The surprising thing was that when we added up the better feed conversion plus the increased production, we found an increase of more than a dollar per bird in 1980 over 1979.

On top of that I saved significantly in drying costs, both in reduced shrinkage and lower fuel cost.

Plus the investment tax credit and energy tax credit add up to 20%.

That's why I say that if the other systems were free, I would still be better off buying the Harvestall because of the way it pays for itself and keeps on appreciating.

Doesn't it make sense that grain that is naturally cured will be higher quality than grain that has had the life cooked out of it?

For more details and other success stories about Harvestall Grain Chillcuring call us today!

Heritage Poultry Management Services Inc., Annville, PA

When we first saw Harold's efficiency figures we looked for a mistake somewhere We thought the scale on his mixer must be off But, according to Harold, everything checked out and the figures are correct The Harvestall was Harold's idea But we can say that we have monitored all aspects of his flocks and we see a dramatic increase in feed efficiency this year Of all the customers' flocks we serve, Harold Kready's report shows the best feed conversion

Since our business is to provide the best results for our customers, we are looking carefully at the contribution to egg production efficiency indicated by Harold's use of Harvestall Chillcured corn

Canadian entries win in Thursday Holstein judging

HARRISBURG — Canadian entries made themselves known early in capturing two top awards in the first phase of judging in the Eastern National Holstein Show on Thursday in the Farm Show Complex.

Cattle out of Ontario took both the reserve junior bull championship and the junior champion female honors.

Judging on Thursday proceeded through the dry cow classes and continued Friday through the milking and group classes before the naming of grand champion and reserve grand champion females.

The reserve junior champion bull was exhibited by Rowntree Farms Ltd., of Ontario. The junior champion female, a junior yearling, was shown by Cleghorn, Lindsay, Walker and Sons, also of Ontario.

The junior chapion bull was off the Dary-Ann Holstein Farm, of Darien, Wisc.

The senior champion bull and grand champion was an aged bull from Sky-Vu Farms, Hastings, Minn. The reserve senior champion bull and reserve grand champion was a two-year-old from Hi-Path Farms, Ellsworth, Wisc.

livestock purchases, spirited bidding was conducted on an entirely different item at the sale.

Bill Nichol, of the Pa. Holstein Association, put two tickets up for bidding to this Saturday's Penn State - Nebraska football game. The nationally televised game is a sell-out.

Proceeds from the tickets' sale were donated by Nichol to the fund for the Dairy Shrine Building at Fort Atkinson, WI.

What happens after a cow brings $51,000 at the All-American sale? Why it's Hollywood time, of course. With front feet on an elevated mound and handlers scurrying to get her positioned, this consignment entry from Burket Falls Farm, East Freedom, appears disinterested in all of the attention.

Top of the 1980 All-American Holstein Sale in Harrisburg Thursday night was this bull calf, a son of Pawnee Farm Arlinda Chief. The nine-month-old calf was purchased for $51,000 by Curtiss Breeding Industries.

Paclamar Triune daughter wins show

LAMPETER — Grand champion Holstein of the West Lampeter Dairy Show was a Paclamar Triune Jethro daughter owned by John Frey.

J. Mowery, John's father, said her mother was John's first 4-H animal and an All-American as a Junior Yearling in 1971.

The grand champion has consistently been a winner for John in county and state competition, and high ranking on the national level.

Reserve champion Holstein was a two-year old owned by Mike Shertzr. Mike said she did not place well until she was a junior yearling in 4-H competition. From that point on, he said she has taken several top honors in her class.

This is the first time that Mike has shown her to receive such a high placing. She was first in her class at the county 4-H show this Summer.

Champion Guernsey was a two-year old owned by Ken Garber. She was also selected as best uddered Guernsey. Reserve champion Guernsey was owned by Tim Hanks.

Almost 90 animals in four breeds were exhibited at the show. Seventy-one of them were Holsteins. According to show officials, there was a larger turnout for this year's competition than last year's show.

Senior showman was Gerald Garber and junior showman was Pam Kindig.

Angus heavyweight is champ

BY SUSAN KAUFFMAN
Staff Correspondent

LAMPETER — Michelle Dean, Strasburg, with her champion 4-H baby beef, topped a field of 30 4-H and FFA animals to capture the grand championship at the West Lampeter Fair this week.

Her 1180 pound Angus has been selected early in the evening as the champion of the 4-H show which included a total of 17 steers.

Reserve champion of the show was exhibited by Gerald Hess, Conestoga. His steer was the FFA show champion selected from 13 entries.

Judge Bill Holloway, manager of South Branch Angus Farms, Seven Valleys, York County, said both top placing animals showed the thickness, the meatiness and the muscle that speaks well of the industry from the producer to the homemaker's table.

He said the animals had a finish that was evenly dispersed throughout their frame.

Two young girls went out for the junior showmanship trophy with Julie Greider being named junior showman and Anita Meck reserve junior showman. Judge Holloway commended them for their spunk in entering the contest.

Naming senior showman was not as difficult as selecting the reserve senior showman, Holloway said. Senior champion showman Gerald Hess was easily the top showman he explained.

He put three contenders through a rigorous showing exercise before he finally selected Debbie Greider as reserve senior showman and crops about 175 acres in corn and hay near the Clarion-Venango boundary line.

Each of the seven semi-finalists was asked to respond to a hypothetical situation where they could enter a "character trading post" and choose some virtue to take for free while leaving another less desirable one behind in exchange.

The new princess has chosen "patience" as the one characteristic she needs to gain more of, while turning in what she self-critically labels "short temper."

While Cindy will make dozens of appearances in an intense year of dairy product promotion aimed at all levels of the consuming public, she especially would like to gear some of her efforts toward her peers.

"Teenagers often think they're too old for milk," she reflected during a pause in the almost endless clicking of cameras and popping of flashbulbs that followed her crowning as the new first lady of the state's giant dairy industry. "And I hope I can live up to the job done by the girls that have gone ahead of me."

First runner-up Yvonne King of Chester County is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph King of Cochranville. Yvonne was one of four contestants selected to give her promotional presentation during the pageant. Her amusing and well-done muppet-type puppet presentation was geared toward elementary school age children.

An office administration major at Goldey Beacom College in Wilmington, Delaware, Yvonne is 20 and a graduate of Octorara Area High School, where she was an honor society member and active in band and sports.

In answer to the hypothetical question on changing character trails, Yvonne shared a critique similar to Cindy Neely. She said she would draw from the store of patience and leave behind "my stubborness."

Lisa McMillen, the second runner up, is 18 and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dean McMillen of Loysville R1. A 1980 graduate of West Perry High, Lisa is majoring in parks and recreation at the Mont Alto Campus of Penn State University.

A former Perry County 4-H queen, Lisa is active in various club programs, serves as a civil defense volunteer, and participates in numerous church and community groups. Answering the character-trading question, Lisa told the audience she'd take a "deep Christian faith" and leave behind "my lack of self-confidence."

Also one of the four presentation winners, Lisa set up a supermarket backdrop and held a dairy-oriented conversation with timed, pre-taped replies, from a small mouse in the Swiss cheese. She was also one of the two outstanding scrapbook winners.

One of the most prized awards of the contest, the Miss Congeniality selection chosen by voting of the girls themselves, went to Tina Neufeld of York County. Tina is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Neufeld, York R4, and a freshman psychology major at Shippensburg State College.

Other semi-finalists in the pageant were: Jayne Gahres, the SUN area princess and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Gahres of Dalmatia R1; Renee Swick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Swick, Beaver Falls R2, representing Beaver-Lawrence counties; Tioga County's Charlene Messner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clair Messner of Roaring Branch R1; and Dottie Stonerook, Blair County, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Stonerook, Martinsburg R1.

Marion Garrett, Wayne County, was selected both a scrapbook and presentation winner. Her promotional skit featured her dressed as a "Milkdrop," telling the story of her trip from grass to glass." Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. William Garrrett of Honesdale.

Lycoming County princess Sherrie Lovell was the fourth presentation winner, with a puppet interview between Hillary Hog and Ursula Udder. She's the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Lovell of Linden R1.

Honorable mention in the presentations were won by Renee Swick of Beaver-Lawrence and Jayne Gahres of the SUN area. Mercer County's Kathryn Canon received honorable mention in the scrapbook judging.

Eileen Shull, the outgoing princess, brought tears to the eyes of many in the audience with her farewell message. She thanked the promotional staffers and volunteers behind the princess program, and added a special message for her family.

"Because they loved me, I had the chance to do this. People say I've changed in this year. I thank everyone, and I thank Jesus Christ," she concluded, ending with a biblical quote from Psalm 104:33.

Outstanding scrapbook awards were won by Marion Garrett, left, Wayne County, and Lisa McMillen, Perry County.

Grover Goucker, Jr., of Lancaster, a long-time associate of the pageant program and area representative of the Dale Carnegie course, served as emcee for the ceremonies.

Four judges evaluated the 39 contestants during two days of meetings, personal interviews and presentations prior to the pageant. They were Mrs. Frances Duvall, Walkersville, Maryland, a coordinator of the Maryland Dairy Princess program; Mrs. Louise Mahoney, Clinton, Ohio; Lynn Tilton, managing editor of Pennsylvania Farmer magazine; and Michael Nolan, a former Pennsylvania fieldman for the Holstein Association and now a dairyman in Wakeman, Ohio. Scrapbook judges were dairy farm wives Kay Rohrer, Paradise, and Joyce Bupp, Seven Valleys.

Between pageant segments, Dick Norton, head of the Mid-Atlantic Milk Marketing advertising and promotion agency, gave a visual briefing on the latest promotional campaigns for media use. Included is a catchy "Milk's The One" cow puppet television commercial, and radio, TV, and magazine ads geared to the "Cheese Adds A Slice of Life" theme.

Pageant-goers also got a look at what dairy advertisers hope will be their version of the "Good Housekeeping Seal of Approval," a consumer-recognized standard of product integrity.

The "Real Seal" is a stylized drop of milk, designed by advertising creators to be an easily recognized symbol for use on only genuine dairy products. Members of the audience were asked to help spread the idea of the "Real Seal", and each person received an "I'm For Real" button with the new logo as a table favor.

Contributors to the Pennsylvania Dairy Princess program include the Mid-Atlantic advertising agency as well as Atlantic Dairy Association, the American Dairy Association and Dairy Council of New York, Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture, Mid-East UDIA, Keystone Milk Marketing Council, Cornell Manufacturing and the Pennsylvania Dairyman's Association.

Program plans and activities of the princess program are handled by milk marketing staffers and six district volunteer coordinators from over the state. They are: Barbara Gross, Emlenton R2, Northwest District; Rita Kennedy, Butler R6, Southwest-Western; Pat Miller, Harrisburg, for Central District; Mim Kauffman, Elizabethtown R1, Southeast; Judy Diebold, Altoona R3, South Central, and Jeanne Bowen, Northeast.

Tina Neufeld, York County Dairy Princess, was named Miss Congeniality by the voting of the princess pageant contestants.

provision limiting the number of birds in a poultry operation to 500 and the number of pigs to 50 without a variance. This section was deleted completely as was another article which stated that there could be no more than three head of livestock per acre of land.

The new ordinance was worked out between planning commission members and township supervisors following the public outcry on September 4.

Frank Myers, Lancaster R 6, member of the Planning Commission, called the new ordinance a "compromise ordinance," but added, "The one bright spot is that there will be a study on the establishment of an exclusive agricultural district."

He said that depending upon the outcome of the survey of affected landowners, and according to how the district is set up, some of the restrictions now in force would probably be waivered within that district.

The announcement of the proposed survey concerning the ag district was made by Township Solicitor. Charles B. Grove, Jr., at the outset of the meeting.

He said, "I would urge the superintendents to consider an exclusive agricultural district. I feel there is strong sentiment for us. The Planning Commission has offered to conduct a survey of property holders."

When questioned about the few people in attendance, Myers said, "Farmers pretty well felt there was little negotiating room."

Richard Haas, Lancaster R 6, added, "There is a degree of interest. Farmers are interested, but up to a point."

Myers commented that the adopted ordinances contains "more liberal interpretation of special exceptions."

He said one of the original problems and objections was with farmers' being restricted in building housing that would allow them to have viable economic units. A beef and tobacco farmer, Myers said he felt the Planning Commission, "did a good job in ironing out the problems."

Karl Hess, Lancaster R 6, said of the ordinance, "Anything different from the original draft was a step in the right direction. The original draft was totally unacceptable." Hess is Vice Chairman of the Pequea Township Planning Commission.

There were several changes in the language of some of the sections, and one was to allow temporary portable structures for selling agricultural produts, such as roadside stands. Specific regulations for these structures are spelled out, but formerly a special exception would have had to be granted.

In answer to a specific question about the positioning of calf hutches, supervisors said there were no restrictions on the small portable housing units.

The new ordinance uses 125 feet as the limit for setback from the property lines and streets. Formerly the ordinance required a 200 feet setback, and the Lancaster County Planning Commission had recommended that the longer distance be maintained.

Under the new ordinance, poultry houses of 10,000 birds or more will need to get a special exception, and will be required to submit a plan for manure management which will provide for use of the "most advanced technological equipment available" to eliminate odors and other environmental problems.

In explaining the provision, Grove said that the language allows the Zoning Hearing Board to tailor the equipment to the needs of individual cases.

Manure handling under the new ordinance will be in accordance with standards published in the Department of Environmental Resources manual, "Manure Management for Environmental Protection."

In accepting the new ordinance, the supervisors incorporated all the changes suggested by the Lancaster County Planning Commission but one. The Commission also recommended that they strengthen the agricultural district regulations to help alleviate some inherent conflicts. It is hoped that the survey on a proposed agricultural district will help clarify these regulations.

PRICE vs. VALUE
in liquid fertilizer

When the first thing a fertilizer salesman wants to talk about is a "bargain basement price," you can be pretty sure that's all he really has to offer

We're cost-sensitive at NA-CHURS, too But because we're dedicated to selling quality, we like to discuss value— at a fair price Here's what NA-CHURS has to offer

☐ Highest quality product. Remember, first, that NA-CHURS liquid fertilizer is a precisely-formulated, complete liquid plant food — not just a blend of raw materials Just because another fertilizer may have the same basic NPK ratio, does not make it the "same" fertilizer That's because NA-CHURS starts with only the highest-quality raw materials These are formulated into a solution that won't separate and settle out like many poor-quality, suspension liquids. That's why NA-CHURS stores safely over winter, giving you the advantage of lower fall prices and planting time application as early as you're ready

☐ Extra service — at no extra cost. NA-CHURS customers know that what comes with a fertilizer is just as important as what goes in it The NA-CHURS Program includes year 'round extra services — all at no extra cost:

☐ Composite soil samples are taken and a written fertility recommendation for each field is supplied by NA-CHURS agronomists No charge!

☐ Farm storage tanks are supplied No charge!

☐ Delivery is arranged at your convenience No charge!

☐ Your NA-CHURS Representative assists with installation and calibration of liquid equipment. No charge!

☐ Follow-up service. Your NA-CHURS man is on hand throughout the growing season — to help your crops reach full yield potential.

☐ Special credit terms and discounts are an important part of the NA-CHURS program. You help us plan for production, and we'll help you save money.

These are just some of the extras that we call SERVICE — to help you achieve optimum yields and after-cost profits. That's what the NA-CHURS program is all about See your NA-CHURS man and talk about the real differences between price and value.

Chester-Delaware pomona holds Old Timers Day

BY SUE KAUFFMAN
Staff Correspondent

HONEYBROOK — Demonstrations of old time machinery, tools and quilting along with a chicken bar-b-que and displays of antique collections of household items and crafts were once again rounded up by the Chester-Delaware Pomona 3 at Honeybrook Grange.

The annual event dubbed Old Timers Day is held each September at this historical setting.

Chris Harris, co-ordinator, explained that many individuals and their exhibits were on hand again this year as in the past with a few new ones to study.

The gigantic steam engine owned by Nevin Myer and part of the Rough and Tumble display was busy throughout the day running an old time thresher and generally making its presence known with its blasts of steam and noisy toots from its whistle.

Also returning this year to the outdoor segment of the exhibits were collections of lumbering tools, old gasoline engines, the wash-day collection put together by Roland Woodward and William St. John, and many very old farming tools.

The wash-day exhibit is always a delight to children, and older folks as well. St. John's spaniel, Jill, powers the treadmill Woodward owns. The treadmill in turn operates the very early washing machine.

A new edition to the day's activities was a demonstration of an old wooden rake. The device is owned by Woodward.

He explained this was only the third time it has been demonstrated and he had not practiced enough to operate

Maryland & Virginia Producers discuss current milk markets

BY RUTH ANN BENEDICT
Staff Correspondent

CARLISLE — Approximately 80 area milk producers, their families, and friends met for a local annual meeting of the Maryland and Virginia Milk Producers Association at the Embers-Quality Inn Restaurant here in Carlisle on Monday.

Area District Director Paul E. Hornbaker of Shippensburg served as the master of ceremonies for the lunch-meeting event.

Hornbaker, now in his first full term as district director, serves Juniata, Perry, Cumberland, Franklin, Huntingdon, Snyder and Union Counties.

Prior to being elected as director, Hornbaker served as a representative on the Association's board for two years and then finished a term of a vacated directors spot.

Hornbaker introduced to the group Mrs. Jane Benner of Perry County who was named the 1980 Young Cooperator Winner of the Association. Mrs. Benner is the wife of Kenneth Benner.

This is the second time for a milk producer from the district served by Hornbaker to be named Young Cooperator Winner.

James E. Glick, general manager of the Association, was present to give an Association report and to speak on the milk market outlook for the 1980's.

"I guess we are all wondering about what problems and solutions we will be faced with. How much regulation or de-regulation we will have," Click said.

Click said he felt more and more government will be involved in the milk business as we move into the '80's.

Several of the areas Click spoke on were the milk market, advertising and antibiotics.

"Our total market for milk is going down," said Click.

"We are not getting the use of milk as we should be and we have a lot of competition for buying fluid milk."

At this point Click expressed the need to increase advertising to combat this down trend in the milk market.

The Association created an increase from 7 cents to 12 cents per hundred pounds of milk thus making more money available for advertising.

"We will be trying to develop new themes and new products which we hope will turn the trend upward" stated Click.

"Also despite the down trend in the number of producers production per farm is up."

Click noted there should be a good market for 1980 with the set support price.

"We could run into trouble in late 1981 when we may have problems convincing it with the ease and speed its earlier operators would have been accustomed to doing.

Nevertheless, the large wooden rake, pulled by two "horses" — Harry Pardue and Otis Astle — gathered up in bunches or piles the straw spread out on the Grange grounds after the threshing demonstration.

Woodward described the rake as the oldest piece at the show that day.

In addition to the outside displays and demonstrations, several exhibits were available for viewing inside the old stone Grange hall.

Rosemaling, macrame and tole painting by Sarah Stauffer, drumore; oil lamps from the collection of Jim and Vianna Hilton, Quarryville; old dishes, crocks, postcards and other memorabilia from Lewis Pyle's family collection were among the inside exhibits.

Also returning this year was the sizable display from Horace and Anna Wilson's extensive collection of kitchen and household tools such as a churn, cherry seeders, apple peelers, meat grinders and cooking utensils. Dottie and Bob Kirstetter, Glen Moore, also displayed some of their household utensils.

Women of the Pomona once again had pieced and appliqued a quilt top and had a quilting bee in progress for those who wished to try their hand.

Homemade cakes, pies, soups and a bar-b-que supper were also available.

Nevin Myer's steam engine spent long hours threshing grain at the Chester-Delaware meet.

Garbage feeding rule passes house ag committee

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The U.S. House Agriculture Committee voted to approve a bill to prohibit the feeding of garbage to swine unless the garbage has been processed to destroy disease causing organisms.

The garbage feeding bill, HR 6593, has the support of the National Pork Producers Council. The NPPC is working for speedy action by the House and hopes for passage of the bill before the November election recess.

According to the NPPC, processing of garbage before it is fed to hogs would reduce the possibility of spreading diseases like hog cholera and, of most concern, African Swine Fever.

ASF is spread through scraps of meat from infected or carrier swine that get into garbage which is then fed to swine. It is essential that garbage be heated to a temperature high enough to kill the infecting organisms, since there is no known cure or vaccine for the disease.

With ASF in the Dominican Republic, Haiti and possibly Cuba, the traffic of refugees from these countries represents a real hazard, Orville K. Sweet, Executive Vice President of NPPC, said. ASF is not currently present in the U.S.

Some states have laws which prohibit feeding garbage, either processed or unprocessed, to swine. This bill does not preempt state laws which prohibit garbage feeding, but provides for the state and federal governments to cooperate in the enforcement of laws and regulations on ASF.

"We are gratified the House Ag Committee has taken steps to protect the U.S. consumers and congressmen to support dairy products" said Click.

"We also must be particularly careful with antibiotics in our milk," he said.

"We stand a big loss if we have to dump a milk silo tank because of antibiotics so we have got to have some way to work out situations where we find problems."

Click said "We do pride ourselves as selling the worlds highest quality milk and we want to keep it that way."

Click sees a pretty good picture as far as the Associations operations and allocations at the end of the year are concerned.

In closing Click said "we want to make sure that what we do is on behalf of the producers. We are here to serve you."

Other Association representatives in attendance were: James Reeder, director of field staff; Robert Rollins, public relations director; Gene Lauver, fieldman; and William Gilmore, fieldman.

Three farm bills posed to move

HARRISBURG — Three farm bills are in good position to move to a vote next week in the Pennsylvania Senate.

All of the bills were in second consideration in the Senate this week. Two farm tax relief bills may find some difficulty, but the third bill should have clear sailing.

The measure with the best chance of moving is HB 2640, the Johnsongrass bill. It would declare Johnsongrass a noxious weed in Pennsylvania.

It is far short of the scope of the original noxious weed bill introduced early in the 1980 legislative session. That measure would have allowed the Secretary of Agriculture to appoint a committee to declare weeds noxious.

But there seems to be little resistance of any sort to HB 2640, which has seen no changes on the Senate side, and it easily could move to the governor's desk before next week is out.

HB 1608, provides exemption to the one percent capital stock franchise levied on the total assets of family held corporate farms; and HB 1176, the inheritance tax relief measure, both have strong support of the senate ag leadership, the Grange and PFA.

HB 1608 passed the State House on March 26, and 1176 passed shortly thereafter.

But there is a fear among members of the farm lobby that the measures may run into a stumbling block.

Sen. Franklin Kury's name is the one most often mentioned as a potential stumbling block to the two farm measures.

Several reasons for blocking the bills are given, the most common being opposition to measures which give benefits to special interest groups, including farmers.

Still, farm interests on the Hill remain optimistic the measures will move.

While the lawmakers are scheduled through the end of the week of September 29th, it is expected the legislature will remain in session for an extra week.

And there remains the possibility that the Senate will return for a day or two after the election so bills which are not acted upon in the next several days have a chance to become law without dying on the vine.

"ALL MY FRUSTRATIONS OF HANDLING CORN ARE GONE"

Daniel J. Harnish
Richland, PA

Dan and his son, Daryl, currently milk 91 cows, producing 16,844 lbs. of milk and 644 lbs. B.F. Dan feeds Haylage and Cornlage out of his 2580 HARVESTORE® and High Moisture Ground Ear Corn out of his 2070 HARVESTORE® .

Dan previously handled his corn with a portable grinder mixer, but he was discouraged because of the tremendous amount of time and labor involved in handling his corn after it was stored in the crib. Tired of grinding feed weekly with a portable grinder, Dan decided to experiment. During harvest, the corn was acid-treated and stored on the barn floor. Acid-treating slowed up field harvesting of corn because of the application procedure.

Harnishes found that acid-treated corn was extremely corrosive on equipment. In three years of feeding acid-treated corn, Dan found that his elevator, augers and mixer wagon were rusted and inoperable.

Dan purchased a 2070 HARVESTORE® to handle his High Moisture Corn. He was able to reduce labor, also, according to Dan, "The dairy cows really like HARVESTORE® High Moisture Corn much better than dry ground corn. My cows reached a new high in B.F. production, peaking at 4.2% B.F. with a yearly average of 3.8%. All my frustrations of handling corn for our cows are gone — no more time and money for grinding dry corn and no more rusted equipment from acid-treated corn."

How to identify and control shattercane

BLUE BALL — Farmers within a two to three mile radius of Blue Ball have been pestered with a deep-seeded weed that looks a bit like Johnsongrass, but really is shattercane.

Shattercane may have come from any of a number of sources including seed lots, cattle from the South, or neighboring fields.

What interests farmers most now about the problem they are seeing as they chop corn is how to get rid of it next Spring.

The Adult Farmer Program of the Eastern Lancaster County School District conducted test plots to evaluate various herbicide combinations to control shattercane in corn.

The plots were on three farms in eastern Lancaster County, east of Blue Ball along route 23. Each test plot area was two to three acres in size with each treatment averaging about one fourth acre. These farms have a history of moderate to severe shattercane pressue in previous years.

Robert Anderson, adult farmer instructor, stands amid a shattercane infested corn field along Rt. 23 near Blue Ball. Note height of weed. Over 50 percent of the farms within a two to three mile radius of the town have shattercane infestations.

In addition to evaluating the herbicide combinations, single versus double incorporation of pre-plant incorported (PPI) materials was evaluated. Materials were provided by Stauffer Chemical, Ciba-Geigy Chemical, and American Cyanamid Chemical Companies.

All herbicides were applied the same day (except the Prowl) using a sprayer mounted on a disk followed by a "vibra-shank" field cultivator. For double incorporation, both implements were used; for single incorporation, the field cultivator was raised using only the disk. The disk was set to cut six to eight inches deep. Spraying was done May 26, corn was planted May 27, Prowl was applied May 28 as a pre-emerge surface application. Incorporation of Prowl will damage corn.

Shattercane is a weed that looks similar to sorghum-sudangrass hybrids and Johnsongrass, often growing seed heads that are taller than the corn tassles. In the south it has been grown as a green-chop forage crop and was probably introduced into this area for such a purpose.

Unlike the Sudangrass-sorghum hybrids also used for green-chop, the shattercane seeds will overwinter and germinate when soils warm up to 60 degrees in the spring.

Seeds will germinate from very deep, up to six inches. Since the weed is very much like corn, herbicides must be highly selective to be effective on shattercane - therefore, many of our common corn herbicides have little effect.

Because the seeds do not germinate as early as corn and from much deeper, the timing of herbicide application, the depth and completeness of incorporation becomes critical.

It was suspected the herbicides Eradicane, Sutan, and Prowl would have some effectiveness against shattercane. AAtrex was added to each of these for broadleaf weed control. Lasso/AAtrex and Dual/AAtrex were used as controls since these two combinations had been used previously and controlled most weeds except shattercane

Weed control was observed throughout the growing season and a final evaluation was made on September 9 and 10, when the corn crop was ready to be ensiled.

The evaluations were made by counting the number of shattercane plants with mature seed heads in eight different 150 square feet areas (1200 square feet) in each treatment on each farm. The results are recorded as plants per 100 square feet. Control of other weeds was observed but not recorded in the results. Brief mention of these is made in the conclusions.

Note: if the weed plants in the 150 square feet area numbered more than 50 plants, a value of greater-than 50 was recorded. Thus, some of the evaluation summaries will indicate counts greater-than the average indicated.

Yield checks of the control areas where little or no control of shattercane was obtained revealed that the corn yielded only 44 percent of the corn yield checked in areas where good control was obtained

Corn in the control areas had extremely small ears, many barren stalks, and the corn was not as mature as that in the clean areas of the plot

Effective (commercially acceptable), although not 100 percent complete, control was achieved with the Eradicane (7 3 pint rate) and the Eradicane (3.5 pint) plus Sutan (3 pint) combination.

Sutan (5 pint rate), double incorporated, gave moderate to good control on two of the three farms.

Sutan (5 pint rate) single incorporated, and Prowl (3 pint rate) reduced weed population considerably but not to a commercially acceptable level

Little or no control of shattergrass was achieved with the two control treatments

Adult Farmer instructor Don Robinson displays a shattercane plant. While it looks a bit like Johnsongrass, shattercane has a mugh tighter and denser seed head which is darker than Johnsongrass's. Shattercane also can be pulled out of the ground quite easily and does not have the typical rhizome development displayed by Johnsongrass.

Fruit, vegetable harvests move along quickly

HARRISBURG — Pennsylvania's farmers continue their harvest of fruits and vegetables, potatoes, corn for grain and tobacco during the week ending September 22, according to the Pennsylvania Crop Reporting Service.

Six days were suitable for farm field work, with field activities including harvest, plowing, baling hay and straw, clipping pasture, filling silos and general farm chores.

Commercial harvest of snap beans, sweet corn and tomatoes was almost complete. Apple harvest was continuing, with Golden Delicious near completion and Red Delicious just beginning. The Pennsylvania grape crop is making good progress with Concord varieties beginning to ripen.

Potato harvest was 63 percent complete statewide compared to 69 percent a year ago. Northern growers reported harvest at 58 percent complete, central growers claimed 62 percent harvested and southern growers harvest at 76 percent complete.

Silage corn harvest stood at 47 percent statewide compared to 27 percent in 1979. Corn for grain is rated at 25 percent mature and less than five percent harvested across the state. Last year, twelve percent was mature and less than five percent harvested. The five-year average for this time shows 20 percent of the corn for grain as mature and less than five percent harvested.

Tobacco harvest is 86 percent complete, behind last year's 93 percent.

The state's soils are rated mostly short to adequate statewide. Northern operators rated soils as 29 percent short, 58 percent adequate and 13 percent surplus. Central regions were reported as 82 percent short and 18 percent adequate, while in the south, soils were rated 92 percent short and eight percent adequate.

Fall plowing across the Commonwealth is now 63 percent complete compared to 70 percent a year ago. Completion rates are 62,73 and 58 percent in the north, central and southern counties, respectively.

Barley planting advanced to 37 percent, well ahead of the 18 percent last year at this time. The northern region reports 34 percent of its barley planted, central counties are at 44 percent and the south is 27 percent planted.

Wheat planting increased to 48 percent, which compared favorably to the 35 percent planted last year. Wheat planting is at 57 percent in the north, 43 percent in central counties and 26 percent in the south.

Third cutting of alfalfa advanced to 81 percent statewide, on a par with last year. Fourth cutting advanced to 38 percent statewide, ahead of last year's 30 percent.

The quality of hay made during the week was rated fair to good throughout the state. Feed from pastures was rated below average to average. Pastures in the north were rated 42 percent below average, 42 percent average and 16 percent above average.

In central counties, pasture was rated 73 percent below average, 18 percent average and nine percent above average. Southern pastures were 90 percent below average and ten percent average.

All farm fuel supplies were rated adequate to surplus across the state.

Double incorporation proved to be about twice as effective wherever Sutan was used but showed little difference with the Eradicane alone. Control may have been more effective by incorporating only four to six inches rather than six to eight inches.

The Eradicane (3.5 pint) and Sutan (3 pint) plus AAtrex combination-double incorported, gave the best total weed control when all weeds were considered.

Greater foxtail pressure was noted in the Eradicane plus AAtrex treatment that the Eradicane-Sutan-AAtrex combinations.

When using Eradicane it is important to check with your seed corn dealer to select varieties that will not be damaged by the herbicide.

Although cultivation was not used in any of the plots, it is believed that a more complete control would occur with one timely cultivation.

To reduce herbicide costs if shattercane is just starting in small portions of the field, use Eradicane (1.75 point) and Sutan (1.5 point) and AAtrex (1 quart) PPI for general weed control then go over just the infested area a second time.

In fields where mature seeds have fallen on the ground, better winter kill will occur if field is not fall plowed or worked and seeds left exposed.

Because of the heavy seed inventories of infested fields, control may take several years. Once seed inventories are reduced, lower herbicide rates can be used.

Rotation of infested fields into alfalfa or other long standing hay crops will be very beneficial in reducing seed inventories since the repeated cutting prevents new plants from maturing and going to seed.

Shattercane is often confused with Johnsongrass. Shattercane does not have rhizomes like Johnsongrass. Control programs are quite different.

Firm designs new emblem

LITITZ — Tom Reese, vice president and general manager of Pfizer Genetics Corporated Headquarters in St. Louis has announced the firm's plans for implementing a new corporate identity program.

The new green and gold logo was recently revealed to dealers in meetings throughout the nation where Pfizer Genetics markets Trojan hybrid seed corn and Pfizer Genetics soybeans and sorghum.

This new look for 1980's incorporates the strength of both the Trojan and Pfizer brand names so familiar among American farmers.

The new symbol also utilizes graphics of the "ripe ears on green stalks" look, a product attribute of Trojan hybrids since the 1950's.

Reese notes this new look will begin appearing on all Pfizer and Trojan seed advertising and promotional pieces immediately, including a comprehensive new field marker sign program for farmer TST test plots across the country.

Farm Talk

Jerry Webb

Successful Farming magazine recently surveyed a group of farmers that it classifies as "young tigers" to see how they feel about farming.

Farmers in this category were rated as outstanding young farmers through awards they had received or through recommendations of extension agents. They were between 25 and 35 years old, and they were considered to have reputations as leaders in agriculture.

Results in the survey show that the young tigers share problems with farmers in general. They are extremely proud they are farmers and they consider themselves among the best. They consider farming to be a tremendous challenge that requires great amounts of planning and hard work, and yet most of them still consider themselves to be exceedingly independent.

Looking over the survey questions and responses, I got the feeling that most of these up and coming young farmers still see a bright future in agriculture, despite some current problems. They actually thrive on the challenges and diversities of agriculture.

While most said they feel uncomfortable when making decisions, they seem to be saying that when decision time comes, they're up to it.

Among other things, this group of farmers plan to expand farming activities significantly in the next 10 years, will use more farm chemicals, more computer technology, and more specialized agricultural advisors and consultants.

When it comes to farm management, the young tigers may have a slightly different attitude than some of their older counterparts. Most said they never expand a farm enterprise without first estimating through regular accounting techniques the costs and returns of that activity.

Three-fourths of them think borrowing money is one of the keys to success, and two-thirds believe that farm wives will become more important in the decision making and management process over the next ten years.

Where do these young tigers get their information? Three-fourths agreed that it is highly important to attend farm organization meetings, extension service classes, and other organized efforts.

The like field days, machinery demonstrations, and management seminars, and they find talking over their farming practices with other farmers to be most helpful. Almost all of them agreed that national and international news is important to their own farming operation, but they don't seem to rely too heavily on farm product information supplied by salesmen or others who have something to gain in the process.

This group of young farmers, as business oriented as they may be, still believe in community involvement. Two-thirds said local community service organizations, such as Jaycees and Lions, are extremely important to them. They also feel a need for involvement in church, school, charities, and other local community groups. Most of them still think it's important to participate in farm organizations.

Successful Farming, through its survey, is simply pointing out the attitudes of a group of young farmers who are up and coming leaders in their communities. They don't have all the answers—perhaps they don't even have the best answers.

But this is an age group that is going to be more important in the years ahead, and their thoughts and philosophies may become more widespread during the next decade.

I'm not sure you can ask the youngest farmer in the community how he's going to farm and then expect other farmers, who are probably wiser and more experienced, to follow suit. But when you ask enough of these young tigers you do see some trends—for instance, the one about the wife's participation in management decision.

Had you asked that question to young farmers 30 years ago, you would have gotten a completely different answer. Maybe if you asked older farmers now, you would get a different response. But those young farmers, who are considered by many to be outstanding in farming in their communities, are talking with their spouses about the future of the farm business.

To me that is a significant change in the direction of agriculture in the future.

Guide to DER permits now available

HARRISBURG — "A Users Guide to DER Permits", a publication summarizing permits and licenses issued by the state Department of Environmental Resources, is available through DER's regional offices.

DER Secretary Clifford L. Jones, in announcing availability of the publication, said, "The guide is part of our continuing efforts to eliminate bureaucratic roadblocks.

"It is a concise summary of all the permits and licenses we issue, who should apply for them, where to go or write for them, the current charges, and the estimated processing times."

Joines pointed out that since most DER permits are issued by the regional offices, questions concerning a permit or application should be directed to the appropriate regional office.

Local student wins ag fellowship

EPHRATA — The Potash and Phosphate Institute named five outstanding graduate students at PPI Fellows. Each received a $2000 Fellowship from the Institure to pursue advanced degrees in plant and soil sciences.

The Institute initiated the fellowship program this year as another phase of its support and emphasis on agricultural research. The fellowships provide financial support for outstanding graduate students training to become key researchers for tomorrow's world agriculture.

The recipients were Irvin E. Widders, originally of Ephrata, James E. Amonette, Daniel J. Dyer, William P. Inskeep, and John H. Lyle.

Widders was born in Ephrata, and received his B.S. degree from Penn State University in 1975. He will be pursuing the Ph.D. degree in plant physiology at the University of California at Davis.

Each fellow listed numerous honors, societies and activities to complete impressive applications for the fellowships.

The selection committee included Chairman Dr. J.F. Reed, retired president of PPI; Dr. W.R. Thompson, Jr., PPI Midsouth director; Dr. John Pesek, agronomy department head at Iowa State University; and Dr. Roy Flannery, specialist in soils at Cook College, Rutgers University. Pesek and Flannery are members of PPI's Advisory Council. They chose the Fellows from over 50 applicants representing 29 states and 2 Canadian provinces.

Break The Bottleneck At The Silo
With The Ford 618 high-Volume
56-inch Forage Blower

The Ford 618 forage blower has the capacity to keep up with today's high-speed harvesting operations Lets you unload forage crops quickly so wagons can get back to the field, helps keep harvesting equipment working full-time.

The blower housing has six vents for balanced air intake and maximum lift into the delivery pipe. The dynamically balanced fan is designed to run smoothly at maximum velocity, with minimum power demand. Six adjustable cup-type blades whip silage into the pipe and minimize wrapping. An adjustable sickle-type shear bar keeps blade tips clean for maximum operating efficiency

The 34 x 40-in. hopper is only 20 inches high, allows easy positioning of the lowest self-unloading forage box Shaker pan and auger keep material flowing to the blower

The 618 blower is equipped with a husky PTO driveline, adjustable hitch, wheels and tires

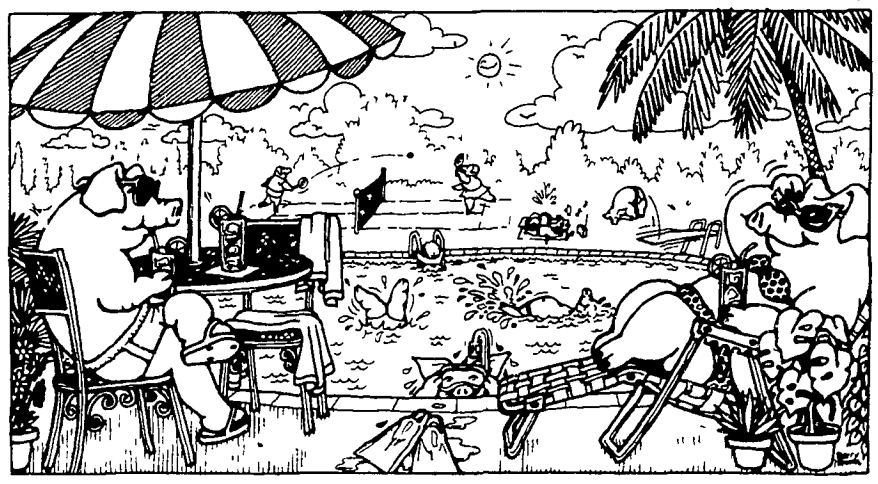
ARE YOU HAVING PROBLEMS WITH SOLIDS AND ODORS IN YOUR MANURE PIT?

— READ THIS AD -

Try Micro-Life — It's Not A Chemical!

IF A CHEMICAL SALESMAN PROMISES A LAGOON LIKE THIS,



HE'S FULL OF HOGWASH.

CHEMICALS ARE ONLY A TEMPORARY SOLUTION TO A LONG-TERM PROBLEM
No matter how many chemicals you try no matter how many high pressure sales pitches you put up with you won't end up with hog heaven Because chemicals wear out quickly They can't break up solids and lower odors on a long term basis And besides all that they're very very expensive considering how little they do

OUR HOG DIVISION HAS AN ALTERNATIVE TO CHEMICALS AN ALTERNATIVE THAT WORKS THE WAY NATURE DOES
We have a healthy live red purple bacteria culture (not an enzyme!) that loves what you and your hogs don't It thrives and grows in numbers breaking down solids into a harmless fertilizer slurry that's 1½ times the normal strength While it controls those offensive odors And it does it all with a simple program A program that many agriculture editorials have praised And that literally thousands of agri businessmen like you swear by If you want the names of those in your area we'll be glad to supply them You see our customers are our sales force That's because our product works And they'll tell you so

IF YOU'RE INTERESTED, CALL US NOW.

Pennsylvania's 4-H team first in Holsteins

HARRISBURG — Pennsylvania's 4-H dairy judging team, coached by Grant Gayman, Franklin County 4-H leader, placed first in the Holstein class at the 12th annual judging contest held as part of the All-American Dairy Show in Harrisburg this week.

Representing the high individuals in 4-H judging, team members include Maryanne Johnson, R2 Mercersburg; Paul Cashell, Chambersburg; and Arlan Crider, Chambersburg.

The Pennsylvania team ranked second overall with 15 teams participating in that portion of the contest. Ohio's state 4-H team captured first place. Pennsylvania's team was third in Brown Swiss and Jerseys.

A total of 43 teams participated in the annual event, representing Collegiate, Future Farmers of America and 4-H. Penn State's collegiate team placed seventh out of 21 teams Virginia Tech took first place in the collegiate division, followed by the University of Wisconsin in second and Cornell in third. Penn State placed fifth in Brown Swiss judging.

New Jersey took first place in the FFA division.

Muir appointed extension poultry specialist

UNIVERSITY PARK — Forest V. Muir has been apointed to Penn State's Extension Service staff as associate professor of poultry science, effective September 1.

Thomas B. King, Penn State associate dean for extension, points out that Muir is developing educational programs for the Pennsylvania poultry industry; identifying and solving industry problems; conducting workshops and short courses; and maintaining effective liaison with Penn State specialists and county Extension staff members.

He fills the vancy on the Extension poultry staff created by the recent retirement of Floyd Hicks.

A native of Illinois, he received his bachelor and master of science degrees from Southern Illinois University and doctor of philosophy degree in poultry genetics from Ohio State University.

Forest V. Muir

Prior to being named to the Penn State faculty, Muir served 12 years as Extension poultry specialist at the University of Maine.

He is a member of the Poultry Science Association and Gamma Sigma Delta, Sigma Xi, Alpha Zeta, and Phi Eta Sigma societies.

Muir is married to the former Karen Sue Ewan, of Eldorado, Illinois.

New Holland fair opens Wednesday

NEW HOLLAND — Pennsylvania Agriculture Secretary Penrose Hallowell today announced that another fair sason has begun in Lancaster County.

"County fairs are an important part of our agricultural heritage," said Hallowell. "However, you don't have to be a farmer to have a good time at the New Holland Farmers Fair. Grownups and children of all ages will have a wonderful time at the fair."

The New Holland Farmers Fair will open Wednesday, October 1, and run through Saturday, October 4.

The New Holland Farmers Fair has it all: youth events, livestock and poultry judging, and lots of fun. Just one visit to the fair will convince food shoppers that Pennsylvania agriculture is indeed growing better.

TORQUE AMPLIFIER, CLUTCH & WATER PUMP PARTS & SERVICE

Rebuilt TA assemblies for IH tractors from SMTA through 1586. Water pumps, Dyna-Life clutches and pressure plates from A, B, C through 1586 and for many of the combines, 101 - 303 through the 915.

If you are operating a shop or are a farmer who does his own mechanical work, then you will do well to compare the parts which I have to offer. Complete rebuilt TA assemblies for 706 - 1586 are priced from $525.00 and come with a Dana Co. heavy Duty Sprag clutch instead of the usual IH sprag. These TA units are being installed in many of the leading IH shops across the country instead of the IH units.

Also have available assorted parts for TA's which are not available individually through new parts at IH. I am prepared to do complete installation at competitive prices and will match any guarantee that is offered on TA units or rebuilt clutches, pressure plates & water pumps. I will also install original factory parts on request.

For a no obligation estimate or for information and references write or call me.

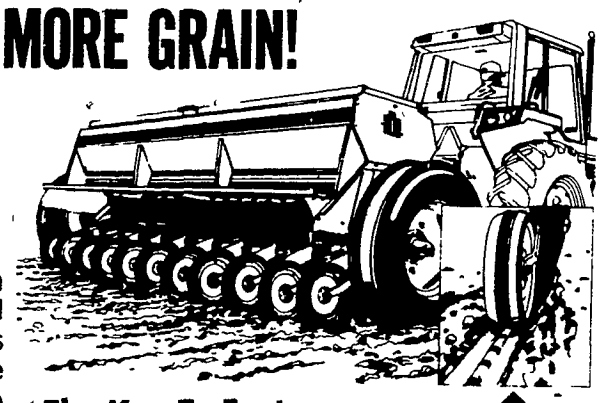
IH MESSICK FARM EQUIPMENT

GET UP TO 25% MORE GRAIN!

Drill With The International "5100 Special"

Outstanding accuracy begins with IH feed cups that deliver seed uniformly. Dual rib press wheels then compact the soil around the seed, and gently "pat" the top to prevent air holes. Result: uniform germination and emergence, a start toward higher yields.



The Key To Faster Emergence Is This IH Dual Rib Press Wheel

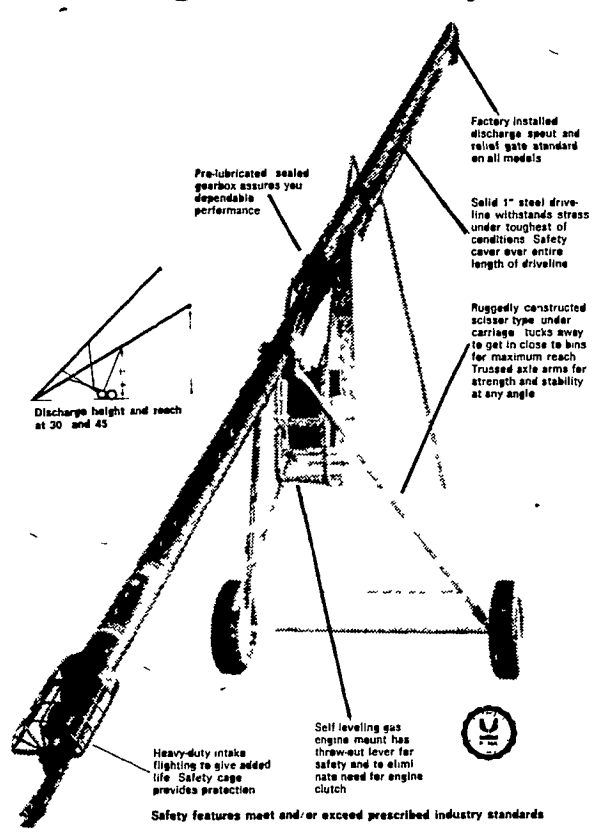
SPEED KING HI-ANGLE AUGERS

Here Are A Few Reasons Why Speed King Augers are a Better Buy:



Factory installed discharge spout and relief gate standard on all models
Pre-lubricated sealed gearbox assures you dependable performance
Solid 1" steel drive-line withstands stress under toughest of conditions Safety cover over entire length of driveline
Ruggedly constructed scissor type under carriage tucks away to get in close to bins for maximum reach Trussed axle arms for strength and stability at any angle
Discharge height and reach at 30 and 45
Heavy-duty intake flighting to give added life Safety cage provides protection
Self levelling gas engine mount has throw-out lever for safety and to eliminate need for engine clutch

Safety features meet and/or exceed prescribed industry standards

AUGERS IN STOCK COMPLETE WITH FLEX-I-BOOT HOPPER AND 3' DOWNSPOUT

The Tractor Specialist sells more "up-time"

When the farmer is ready, his tractor had better be. That's one reason a Case dealer franchise makes extra good sense

As a Case dealer, you're the Tractor Specialist You sell and service the best in farm tractors And you are backed by an industry first. Assured Availability It means that, during warranty, if a tractor bought from you isn't ready to go you can offer your customer free use of a replacement And Case will back you up Proof that when a Case dealer needs help, we do something about it

You could be planning a bright future as your area's Tractor Specialist You could also consider our light construction equipment line Write or call for full information on the Case dealer franchise

67 PTO hp*

Compact, easy-handling tractor that's more than able to carry the load all around the farm. You get power and stamina for hard-pull tillage ... big hydraulics and fast shift for productive work in the feedlot ... plus independent PTO for powering the baler or chopper. And with an extra measure of standard features, you get a great deal for your money. Row-crop, utility and all-wheel drive models.

- 246 cu. in. multi-range IH diesel engine with big lugging ability, outstanding economy.
- Torque Amplifier transmission with 16F/8R speeds optional.
- Big 13 GPM hydraulic pump furnishes plenty of fast-acting power.
- Hydraulic disc brakes, differential lock, Dyna-Life® clutch, power steering, 3-point draft sensing hitch, comfortable seat, split-deck controls and much more

GUNITE Silo Relining & Repairs

Extensive tests have been conducted on Gunite Below are some of the properties of Gunite
1. Excellent bonding
2. High Density
3. Extreme strength and hardness
4. High resistance to absorption

The excellent physical properties of the material are due to the water content being only the amount needed to satisfy chemical hydration
Reseal and re strengthen your silo with Gunite

FORAGE HANDLING EQUIPMENT BY BADGER NORTHLAND!

Forage is a major feedstuff in your livestock operation That's why it's so important to handle it properly saving every bit of its nutrient value to produce milk and meat

Badger Northland builds its line of forage handling equipment to help you attain that goal Each piece of Badger equipment is designed to perform efficiently and with minimum maintenance

It's also backed by the best dealer parts and service network in the industry. If you're considering purchasing a new forage box, blower or mower/conditioner, see your Badger Dealer and ..

Talk to the man who knows

Badger Boxes keep on working long after others have worn out.

When it comes to forage boxes, nothing can beat a Badger Box Badger builds its own boxes right in Kaukauna, Wisconsin where they maintain rigid quality control

A Badger Box is built with channel side stakes for extra strength and specially treated, exterior grade plywood to resist acids, corrosion, and rot The bolted undercarriage and chain drive are designed to take the toughest punishment

And Badger Boxes hold their value At trade-in time many Badger owners are surprised to see their box worth as much as when they bought it new

They haven't built a silo that the Badger Northland Blower can't fill.

No matter how high or how big the Badger Blower can fill em all

It s simply the least costly to operate smoothest running toughest blower you can buy

The Badger Blower can operate at 540-650 r p m s It will take anything you give it forage or grain (with little or no cracking) It ll blow the highest tonnage with the lowest h p And the special Badger magnet catches foreign material before it catches you

Get together with your Badger Dealer today and get ready to fill your big silo

Take it all off with a Badger Northland Mower/Conditioner!

Even in the toughest of conditions, the Badger Mower/Conditioner will perform its "clean cutting" duties like no other, without over conditioning

The Badger Mower/Conditioner will run longer with fewer "u" joints and its adjustable transmission gives great maneuverability Row width can also be adjusted See what it's like to own a mower/conditioner that will spend more time in the field than it does in the shop

Get together with your Badger Dealer now

Collects flowers, weeds

Talented Caroll Kopfer enjoys crafts, needlework

BY LAUREL SCHAEFFER
Staff Correspondent

FLEETWOOD — Being a professional hairdresser, craftsman, active farm wife, and mother is all in a day's work for Caroll Kopfer, R1 Fleetwood.

This busy farm wife, with her husband Robert and two children, operate a farm consisting of 450 acres of crops, a beef feedlot housing between 100 and 120 steers and a dairy string of 40 milk cows.

Robert and Caroll are known in many circles because of their active participation in organizations such as the Berks County Farmers' Association, Fleetwood Grange, and 4-H. Caroll also operates her own beauty shop six days a week and is a recognized craftsman in areas such as flower arranging, quilting and making of corn husk dolls.

Neither of these people were reared on a farm but both grew up in rural Fleetwood. Caroll had aspirations of becoming an artist from as far back as she can remember. She learned different crafts from her mother, picking up other ideas from books and a few classes that she attended.

Robert started his farming career as a hired hand on a local operation but went on to rent land of his own a year before his marriage to Caroll.

Over the years the Kopfers have tried many different farming enterprises including sheep, hogs, and chickens before settling with their present beef feedlot and dairy.

The dairy operation is Kopfers' newest enterprise. They've been in milk production about three years with the acquistion of their second farm.

Hairdressing, which is Caroll's main profession has been a part of her life since high school. She taught hairdressing for six years at the Bryland Institute, Reading, and worked part time as a hairdresser as well when she and Robert began farming.

Presently she is still on call for teaching as a substitute at the area Vo-tech School in Beauty Culture.

But even though hairdressing is her profession, crafts are her delight.

"I could spend all day doing crafts," Caroll told Lancaster Farming with a gleam in her eye.

Being talented, especially with her hands, Caroll can do anything she sets her mind on. She made her own lamps from ceramics, has sown her own curtains and clothing, and refinished a large part of the furniture in her home.

Being so close to nature, Caroll especially enjoys drying her own flowers and weeds from their farm to make beautiful arrangements and collecting corn husks, wheat and straw for making many of the other delicate creations displayed throughout her home.

Caroll has entered straw wreaths, and dolls in area fairs and has been relatively pleased with her accomplishments.

She designs and makes her own quilts starting from scraps of leftover material to imprinted fabrics which she has to embroider before hand.

To date Caroll has designed three quilts for the Berks County Farmers' Association. They were usually sewn by members of the Women's Committee during agricultural expositions held at the Berkshire Mall, Wyomissing. To help with her quilting this farm wife has two large quilting frames which she uses. So far all of the quilts she has made have been given away.

When asked how much time is involved in making a quilt, Caroll could only reply that each quilt takes it's own time — but, she said, "It's a long time."

As mentioned earlier, this talented farm wife has also mastered a number of other crafts. These include wheat weaving, natural arrangements, sewing, embroidering, knitting, crocheting, and any number of child crafts which she enjoys teaching. Caroll is proud to be a member of the Berks County Guild of Craftsmen.

Caroll tries to make her creations from all things available on the farm. She air dries many flowers and weeds by hanging them upside down in an airy place and treats them as necessary.

"This is especially important with pine cones," Caroll explained. To make sure they are insect free, she puts them in a plastic bag and sprays them with an insecticide.

In some cases however, such as when pressing flowers, this craftsman will use a commercial silica gel and will purchase things she needs for her arrangements that can't be found on the farm.

Having such a strong desire to keep her things "earthy" she even uses corn silk for the hair on her dolls, many of which she has also designed herself.

Some of Caroll's crafts are so delicate and small she has mounted them in tin cookie cutters, often employing tweezers to make them and mount them.

Caroll teaches crafts for many organizations and also gives lectures when asked. She teaches for 4-H, Campfire Girls, the YWCA, and at various women's gatherings.

She is also president of District Campfire Girls, encompassing 14 different chapters, and is an organizational leader for the Fleetwood area 4-H Community Clubs which has about 30 members.

Caroll has been a 4-H leader for three years, helping 4-Her's learn sewing and cooking, but she has also taught them how to do several of her crafts and involved the members in a potato project on her farm.

This farm woman got involved with 4-H when her daughter, Ann who is now twelve became involved. Ann is also active in many other organizations too.

Besides the Fleetwood 4-H Community Club she also belongs to the Eastern Berks Dairy Club and shows dairy cows. Ann collects stamps, butterflies, coins, and dolls, and plays flute in the school band. Ann is in seventh grade at the Fleetwood School District. Even with her many activities she continues to do well with her studies.

Ann also has a brother, six year old David who is now in first grade. This young farm lad is already showing the typical qualities of the rest of his family with special interests in showing cattle.

"David is just waiting for his chance to come," his mother remarked. "He has haltered a calf at the dairy barn and calls it his own."

Caroll is not a stranger to the barns either. Even though she only helps milk when Robert is pressed for time she helps out feeding calves and doing other chores when ever she can and as most farm wives do, runs for parts, medicine and other farm necessities.

Caroll also finds time for gardening, lawn care, marketing, and of course, cooking. She freezes and jars fruits and vegetables too. The Kopfers have found doing these "books" together, works best for them. "There is so much you need to know in farming, today," she commented, "and paper work is getting more and more involved."

The crops raised by the Kopfers include 300 acres of corn with the rest planted in soybeans or small grains. They employ one full time hired hand and have a parttime helper as well. They participate in an advisory council of the Pennsylvania Farmers' Association and both have or are serving as chairman of a county committee of the associations.

Presently Robert is chairman of the livestock committee and Caroll has served as chairman of the Women's Committee. She has also served two years as Chairman of the Berks County Expo Committee and served on the Dairy Princess Committee as well.

Caroll has recently been involved with the National Jamboree for Campfire Girls this summer. Over 700 girls from as far away as Maine and Virginia attended this jamboree held for the first time at the Daniel Boone Homestead, in Southern Berks County.

"It was very interesting working on the national level of something," Caroll explained, "instead of always being on the local level." To better prepare herself and be of more service Caroll has also taken several courses in camping.

She has also had training in CPR and first aid and has served as a homeroom mother for the past seven years, baking cupcakes and as Caroll put it, "what have you."

Caroll is also a collector, which is probably what got her daughter interested in such hobbies. Caroll's collections include cookie cutters, antique measuring cups, and some spoons, all of which are carefully decorated with some of her craft creations or hung carefully and displayed throughout her home.

The Kopfers are also members of St. Mary's Catholic Church, Kutztown. Caroll is active there, too. They have spent 9 years with the Fleetwood Grange and also belong to a fire company — Caroll to the auxiliary, of course.

Being such a dedicated farm wife takes a great deal of Caroll's time, but she finds it very rewarding.

"The farm is the best place I can think of for raising children," she thoughtfully commented. "There is so much diversity and just so much to offer."

It seems only natural that two such dedicated people as Caroll and Robert Kopfer became farmers. Each can probably appreciate how lucky they are to be able to farm since neither was born into it.

Caroll Kopfer likes to collect and dry her own weeds and flowers to use in making imaginative arrangements and creations found in her farm home at Fleetwood R1.

Working with dried wheat, Caroll Kopfer ties a plaid ribbon for the final touch in an arrangement which she has created. Caroll is a member of the Berks County Guild of Craftsmen, reflecting her interest and talent in working with her hands.

Ladies Have You Heard?

By Doris Thomas

Lancaster Extension Home Economist

SEW YOUR OWN SPORTS GEAR

In this era of dwindling energy supplies and lower thermostat settings, today's seamstress has an edge on the rest of the population. They can use their talents to create warm clothing and energy-saving home furnishings for themselves and their families—and save money in the bargain.

For example, kits now on the market contain all the materials needed to make an insulated outdoor garment such as a ski parka or a backpacker vest. Other kits include materials for making bib overalls, sleeping bags, down-filled comforters, even tents!

Several companies manufacture these kits, which are sold through retail outlets and by mail.

The kits are unique because they contain no patterns. Everything is precut and pre-marked, so careful body measurements for clothing items are important.

Sewing an item from a kit usually results in a 20 to 25 percent saving over the retail cost of a comparable ready-made item. It's also a great way to spend a cold winter evening!

Several sewing notions companies have free brochures available with instructions for making home furnishings that help beat the cold; lap robes, drapery liners, draft-stoppers for the bottoms of doors, quilts and braided rugs. Major pattern companies also feature quilts which can be machine sewn in less than half the time it took your grandmother.

Patterns are now available for ski parkas, pants, overalls, leg warmers and other previously unsewable garments. Sewing techniques have been simplified on these patterns so that inexperienced sewers can stitch up a garment and have it ready to wear in no time at all!

The need to keep warm has also increased the popularity of knitting and crocheting. New patterns and yarns are tempting do-it-yourselfers to create scarves, hats, mittens, sweaters, afghans and other times. Many yarns are easy-care as well as very durable, and there are many appropriate new fabrics treated to resist rain and snow.

When the wind howls and the snow blows, try creating a made-to-order garment or furnishings for your home. You'll stay warmer just thinking about it!

IMPLIED WARRANTIES: ARE THEY WORTH ANYTHING

Most consumers think of warranties as the certificates that come with many products they buy. These should be filed along with the sales slip, in case a warranty claim needs to be made.

But what about products that have no warranty? Do you have any rights if the product doesn't perform? Yes you do. Implied warranties come automatically with every sale, even though they are not written out.

These warranties are called "merchantability" and "fitness of purpose." Merchantability means that you have a legal right to get what you paid for. If you open the box with your new food processor and find the blades missing, or you find a set of mixing bowls instead, your implied warranty says that the merchant must take back what's in the box and give you your food processor complete with working parts.

Fitness for purpose means that you can expect the product to do what it's supposed to do. A vacuum cleaner should get the lint and litter off your carpets. A lawn mower should cut the grass.

A seller can't give you a written warranty that absolves him from honoring the implied warranties. If you get a written warranty you get the implied warranties. The only way a seller can get out of the implied warranties is to state in writing that the product is being sold "as is." If a product is being offered "as is" be sure you find out why before you buy.

Ida's Notebook

Ida Risser

My garden is finally slowing down a bit. It has kept me very busy this summer.

I do believe that lima beans like dry weather as I've picked more bushels this year than previously. Although, I did feel it was necessary to lay the soaker hose on the 100 foot row of sweet potatoes and the 50 foot row of Kentucky Wonder beans. Now when the snap beans are finished, I'll still have lots to pick off of the fence.

My cucumber seed did not germinate very well but I can be glad as the eight plants that grew have given me 40 pints of tiny spiced pickles so far.

The ears of sweetcorn were small and the harvest less than ample. However, if I couldn't sell any, at least I managed to freeze 50 quarts. Some of these foodstuffs will be given to our college son as he has an apartment and cooks for himself and every little bit helps.

We've never had trouble with animals in the garden until this year. We listened to others say that birds ate their peas and strawberries and rabbits chewed off the plants and felt secure in that it couldn't happen to us as we have lots of cats to patrol the area.

Well, this year we had to fend off a fat groundhog that feasted on the tender bean plants and something that was eating the fruit from 28 tomato plants as fast as they ripened.

My husband is not fond of tomatoes and so all my complaints fell on deaf ears until I said not only would we have none this summer but I'd have to buy them canned all winter. Then he set the box trap and caught several opossums. Now I am getting tomatoes.

As cold weather approaches, I think the flower garden becomes more and more beautiful. The petunias are so very pink, the forget-me-nots so very blue and the cockscomb are bursting with bright crimson color. So I pick bouquet after bouquet and hope that frost will be late in coming this year.

Brighten your day with breakfast

Whether you awaken in the morning with a jolt or slowly, whether you're a brilliant conversationalist or a sullen grump, whether you have all day for breakfast or only minutes, we've got some recipes to get you off to a smooth start.

During those first crucial moments of the day, why not try some French Breakfast Puffs or some Spicy Orange Tea. Or if a big breakfast is your thing, why not help yourself to our Hashed Brown Potatoes, pancake, muffin or french toast recipes.

And for breakfast on those special occasions, why not serve Emperor's Omelets or a Breakfast Sausage Ring. With these recipes, even Snoopy wouldn't be allergic to morning.

For a special day a small breakfast may be just the eye-opener you need. Served on a special tray, it can get your day off to a good start and put you in a good mood to face the busy work of the day. Try a special muffin or coffee cake from the recipes offered today.

SPICE COFFEECAKE

3 cups flour
1½ cups sugar
1½ teaspoons baking powder
1½ teaspoons soda
1½ cups buttermilk
¾ cup oil
2 eggs
1½ teaspoons cinnamon
½ teaspoon nutmeg
½ teaspoon salt
Crumbs:
1 cup brown sugar
1 cup chopped nuts
1 teaspoon cinnamon
4 tablespoons melted butter

Mix all the ingredients except the crumbs. Spread in a 9x13 inch pan. Mix the crumbs with a fork and sprinkle on the top of the cake. Bake at 350° F. for 35 minutes or until done. Delicious served warm.

Vanita Martin, Savannah, New York

SPICY RAISIN OATMEAL

1½ cups cold water
¼ cup raisins
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon cinnamon
dash of nutmeg
⅔ cup quick-cooking rolled oats

Combine water, raisins, salt and seasonings in a saucepan and bring to a boil. Slowly stir in the rolled oats, being sure that the water continues to boil. Reduce the heat and cook 1 minute. Stir occasionally. Serve hot with sugar or a little milk. Makes 2 servings.

Mrs. Charles Biehl, Mertztown

ORANGE APRICOT WAKE-UP

Combine equal parts of chilled apricot nectar and orange juice in 6-ounce juice glasses. Add a maraschino cherry to each.

Mrs. Charles Biehl, Mertztown

FRENCH TOAST

¼ cup flour
2¼ teaspoons sugar
dash of salt
1 cup milk
3-4 eggs
approximately 10 slices of stale bread

Beat all ingredients until smooth. Soak bread in the egg mixture until saturated. Cook in preheated skillet until golden brown.

Donna Godshall, Harleysville

SCRAMBLED CHEESE EGGS

3 eggs
1 tablespoon milk
dash of salt and pepper
1 slice American cheese

Beat all ingredients except the cheese. Pour into preheated skillet in which a ½ teaspoon of butter has been melted. Cook until the eggs are thickened throughout but still moist, stirring occasionally. Put the eggs on a plate and place a slice of cheese on top of the eggs. Invert the pan for 2-4 minutes to melt the cheese.

Donna Godshall, Harleysville

BREAKFAST SAUSAGE RING

2 pounds bulk pork sausage
2 eggs, beaten
1½ cups fine dry bread crumbs
¼ cup chopped parsley, if desired

Heat the oven to 350° F. Lightly butter a 9-inch ring mold. Mix all the ingredients well and pack into the mold. Back 20 minutes. Remove from the oven and pour off the excess fat, then return to the oven to bake for 20 minutes more. Turn onto a platter and fill the center with scrambled eggs. Serves 8.

Mrs. Harold W. Kramer, Newmanstown

SPICY ORANGE TEA

5 whole cloves
1-inch stick cinnamon
3 tablespoons honey
½ cup orange juice
2 tea bags
1 cup water

Combine ½ cup water, cloves and cinnamon and simmer covered 10 minutes. Add the honey and ½ cup water and the orange juice and bring to boiling. Remove from heat and add the tea bags. Cover and let stand 5 minutes. Remove the tea bag and spices. Serves 2.

Mrs. Charles Biehl, Mertztown

SOFT COOKED EGG

Place 4 eggs in a saucepan and cover with cold water at least 1 inch above the eggs. Rapidly bring to boiling. Cover pan tightly and remove from the heat. Start timing when the pan is removed from the heat and leave the eggs in the water 2-4 minutes depending upon your taste. Serves 2

Mrs. Charles Biehl, Mertztown

EGGS McBREAKFAST

1 or 2 tablespoons butter
1-2 eggs
salt and pepper
1 slice bologna, Canadian bacon or Spam
1 slice American or Cheddar cheese
1 hamburger bun or English muffin, split and toasted

In a small or medium fry pan over medium high heat, melt butter until it is just hot enough to sizzle a drop of water. Break and slip the eggs into the pan. Reduce heat immediately. Cook slowly to desired doneness, spooning butter over the eggs or turning the eggs to cook both sides. Season with salt and pepper to taste. If desired, fry the meat slice until hot and arrange the meat and cheese slices on a bun bottom. Cover with the egg. Close the sandwich with the bun on top. Makes 1 serving.

Mrs. Leon K. Martin, New Providence

FRENCH BREAKFAST PUFFS

⅓ cup shortening, part butter
½ cup sugar
1 egg
1½ cups flour
1½ teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon nutmeg
½ cup milk
⅓ cup melted butter
½ cup sugar
1 teaspoon cinnamon

Grease the bottom of muffin cups. Mix shortening, ½ cup sugar and egg. Blend flour, baking powder, salt and nutmeg and add alternately with the milk. Fill muffin cups ⅔ full. Bake 20-25 minutes at 350° F. Immediately roll the muffins in melted butter, then in a mixture of cinnamon and sugar. Serve hot. Makes 12 medium muffins.

Cathy Sanders, Oakland, Maryland

MILK BREAD

4 cups scalded milk
1½ cups shortening
3 tablespoons salt
1 tablespoon sugar
½ cup lukewarm water
1½-2 yeast cakes
½ warm water
11-12 cups flour

Dissolve the yeast in the warm water. Add shortening, sugar and salt to scalded milk. Add softened yeast to the milk that has cooled to lukewarm temperature. Add flour gradually, making a dough stiff enough so that it can be handled easily. Knead dough quickly and lightly until it is smooth and elastic. Place in greased bowl and cover and set in a warm place to rise. Let rise until double in bulk, about 2 hours. Bake at 350° F. for 1 hour. Yields 3-4 medium sized loaves. For variation, use 1 cup of raisins for each cup of milk.

BUCKWHEAT PANCAKES

2 cups buckwheat flour
⅔ cup wheat flour
1 teaspoon salt
5½ teaspoons baking powder
2¼-2½ cups milk
1 tablespoon melted shortening
2 tablespoons molasses
1 egg, well-beaten

Mix and sift dry ingredients. Stir in milk. Add the other ingredients in the order given. Mix well and bake on a hot griddle

Malinda Beiler, Rehersburg

HONEY OATMEAL MUFFINS

⅔ cup milk
⅓ cup vegetable oil
1 egg, beaten
¼ cup honey or fructose
1-½ cup oatmeal, uncooked
1 cup all-purpose flour
½ cup raisins
½ cup chopped nuts
⅔ cup firmly packed brown sugar
1 tablespoon baking powder
¾ teaspoon salt

Add milk, oil, egg and honey to remaining combined ingredients, mixing just until the dry ingredients are moistened. Fill 12 greased or paper-lined medium-sized muffin cups ⅔ full. Bake in preheated 400° F. oven for 15-18 minutes or until golden brown.

Linda Seigrist, Columbia

CORNMEAL PANCAKES

1 cup yellow cornmeal
2 tablespoons sugar
1 teaspoon salt
1 cup boiling water
½ cup sifted flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
1 egg
½ cup milk
2 tablespoons butter, melted

Combine cornmeal, sugar and salt in a large bowl. Slowly stir in boiling water and cover. Let stand 10 minutes. Sift flour with baking powder and set aside. In a small bowl, beat egg, milk and butter until smooth. Pour into cornmeal batter along with the flour mixture, stirring quickly until combined. Meanwhile, heat the griddle slowly. To test, put a drop of cold water onto the griddle. The water should roll off in drops. Use ¼ cup of batter for each pancake. Cook until the bubbles form on surface and edges become dry. Turn and cook 2 minutes longer or until nicely browned on the underside. Serve with spicy applesauce.

Spicy Applesauce

1 can applesauce
½ teaspoon nutmeg
½ teaspoon cinnamon
1 tablespoon butter

Combine in a saucepan and serve warm or cold.

Mrs. J. Mankuleis, Nazareth

EGG OMELET

5 eggs
1 teaspoon salt
pepper to taste
1 heaping tablespoon flour
1 cup milk

Put in a bowl in the order given and beat with a rotary beater. Pour into a heated, greased pan, covered with a tight lid. Place over medium heat. Cut and turn when about half done and finish baking.

Verna Yoder, Reedsville

CHEESY DREAMS

3 English muffins soft butter
6 slices bacon

Cut the English muffins in half and spread each side with soft butter. Slice the bacon in half. Broil at 550° F. with muffins 3 inches from heat until the bacon is light brown, about 2 minutes. Remove muffins and turn bacon. Broil bacon 1 minute longer. Top each muffin half with a thick tomato slice, 2 pieces of bacon and 2 thin slices of process American cheese. Return the muffins to the broiler and broil about 1 minute or until the cheese is melted. Serve at once. Makes 6 servings.

On being a farm wife -And other hazards

Joyce Bupp

Come on, now, how many of you really believe some of those ridiculous television commercials they air at us week after week?

the ones that really crack me up are those where the mother suddenly discovers that her family "really does care" about which detergent she uses for their tee shirts or what brand of soap she tosses in the shower.

In fact, in this farmhouse, as long as there's a clean pair of jeans in the drawers, peanut butter in the cupboard and a gallon of milk in the refrigerator, no one pays too much attention to what goes on in mom's household domain.

Or so I believed.

Then I went on a spending binge last week. I lavished upon myself two stupendous, collosal purchases: one new frying pan and one very small rug for inside the back door.

Well, I bet no one will notice them, I figured.

"Gee Mom, where'd you get the new frying pan?" asked one, tossing books on the table and banging doors in search of a snack. "Boy, and a new rug, too!"

You'd have though the whole house had been redone.

"Okay, Mom, who told you that you could go buy a new frying pan — and a new rug?" asked another one, a wicked grin in two small blue eyes.

Poking a finger in the agitator's direction, I reckoned that I would buy a frying pan any old time I felt like it and the next one might come out of a certain individual's allowance if they got too smart with me.

As usual, this one was totally unimpressed.

The last one showed up shortly afterward for the supper bubbling away in the new frying pan.

"Oh, a new frying pan," came the immediate comment. And the by-now famous new rug also received notice.

Okay. The commercials might be right after all. They really do notice.

Why, then, does no one ever spot and pick up the six pairs of sneakers left lying permanently at the bottom of the stairs?

Tobacco farmers earn $2.2 billion

PHILADELPHIA — How much money did America's tobacco farmers earn last year?

According to a study released last Monday by the University of Pennsylvania's Wharton Applied Research Center, the tobacco growers received $2.2 billion for their commodity in 1979.

The report estimated the economic contribution of the entire tobacco industry to the nation. It defined the industry's "core sectors" as farming, auction warehousing, tobacco manufacturing, wholesaling, and retailing and vending.

The independent study also showed that the tobacco growing sector contributed $847 million to other segments of the economy through purchases of goods and services, including equipment, fertilizer, seed, energy and insurance.

Other findings in the report include:

Over a half-million Americans worked full- or part-time on 196,000 tobacco farms in 22 states;

Personal compensation for these workers exceeded $600 million;

An addition 17,000 workers were employed full- or part-time by auction markets, earning $29 million;

Tobacco farming and manufacturing sectors contributed $58 million to local governments in the form of real estate and personal property taxes.

The nation's entire tobacco industry contributed an estimated $57.6 billion of goods and services to the U.S. economy, or about 2.5 times the expenditures on tobacco and tobacco products, the report showed.

The president of the Tobacco Growers' Information Committee said he welcomed the study's findings.

"We feel the information in this report is most significant," said Adron Harden of Tifton, Ga. "It demonstrates the contribution that tobacco makes to our nation's economy is much greater than many people may have realized.

Jefferson 4-H royalty chosen

JEFFERSON — The September meeting of the Jefferson Community 4-H Club was held recently at the Jefferson Firehall with Vice President Dwayne Gracey presiding. Roll call was answered with members stating what projects they exhibited at the York Inter-State Fair. Reports were given on: the local Sub Sale, County Council, the York Fair and the results of the State Tractor Driving Contest in which club President Jon Miller won. Concerning new business the club discussed the Jefferson Achievement Night, the County 4-H Cookie Sale, which is starting and the Eastern National and Keystone Livestock Judging Contest. The King and Queen who will be representing Jefferson for the County Title were chosen. They were Bill Wise and Michele Bankert. Then nominations were opened for the election which will be held at the next meeting in conjunction with a Halloween Party.

Farm Women Societies

Berks Co. Society 5

Berks County Society of Farm Women 5 held their September meeting at the home of Joan Hoover, Womelsdorf, R.D.

Ways and Means Chairlady Carolyn Feeg reported that our Ham On Roll Sale will be held Oct. 11. Orders should be placed one week before.

Vice President Dorothy Moyer reported that Berks Heim Bingo will be held Nov. 13. President Anna Moyer reported that 12 members will be going to the County Convention Oct. 4 at the Ag Center.

Our group will be seling Shoo-Fly pies, cakes & cupcakes at the Reading Fair Oct. 23, 1980.

Our program for the evening was a talk on nutrition by Member Joan Hoover.

Berks Co. Society 12

The Sept. meeting of the Society of Farm Women Group #12 of Bernville was held at Risser Restaurant, Stouchburg. The women held a birthday party and exchanged birthday gifts.

Five women attended Group 9, Tenth Anniversary Party at Douglassville.

The next meeting will be held Tues., Oct. 7, at 7:30 p.m. at the home of Gloria Christman, Hamburg R.D. #1. A 4-H Representative will present the program for the evening. New officers will also be elected.

Berks Co. Society 1

Berks County Society of Farm Women Group #1 held their monthly meeting in the home of Ann Yanos, R.D. 2, Douglassville, Pa. Mrs. Irma Bloss of West Chester prepared a Hungarian dinner consisting of chicken paprika, egg dumplings, cucumber salad and hungarian fruit squares.

Twenty members responded to the question, "Do you have a hobby and what is it?"

President, Catherine Yanos, reminded members of Group #9's 10th anniversary on September 17 in St. Paul's Lutheran Church, Douglassville. Other dates to remember are County Convention on October 6 at the Vocational Agricultural Center, Bernville, the Reading Fair on October 20 to 25 and a Bingo Party at Berks Heim on November, 13, 1980.

The nomination committee consisting of Grace Schaeffer, Martha Levan and Ella Richard will Present new officers at the October meeting.

Program chairperson, Agnes Noll informed members to meet at Redner's Tiger Market, Douglassville, Pa. at 7:30 p.m. on October 8th for a tour of the store after which members will go to the home of Catherine Yanos for the conclusion of the meeting.

Lancaster Co. Society 2

Eighteen members and one guest of Lancaster County Society of Farm Women #2 met at the home of Betty Geib, Manheim, with Esther Petticoffer of Lititz serving as co-hostess.

Serving committee was Margie Shelly and Luella Low. Devotions were led by Betty Degler.

Ladies responded to roll call by telling, "The way I like to make Irish (or white) potatoes." Baked was the most popular method of making potatoes, although some new recipes were heard.

Ladies report Home Makers Days will be held on October 20 and 21 at the Farm and Home Center, Lancaster. Cake walk reminder: Martha Brandt, Treba Ruhl, Elizabeth Shenk, Mae Hosler and Betty Geib. The Sunshine Committee reports sending cards and visiting shut-ins. Former Society #2 President, Grace Miller, reports her husband Harry is a patient at the St. Joseph Hospital Lancaster. Saturday, September 20, the ladies leaving by bus, toured the Eisenhower Estate at Gettysburg. Betty Geib is in charge of the nominating committee.

LARC once again has angles to decorate; this project is a repeat as the angels were successful last year; craft days are October 3 and 4 at Park City. Ladies sent a monetary gift to the United Way. The fall convention will be held November 1 at the Farm and Home Center. Ladies of Society #2 and #3 entertained guests at the Conestoga View Home.

A silent auction was held as a part of the September meeting. Twenty-four articles were sold. Hand crocheted articles were brought for judging; ladies voted Grace Hahn's hand crocheted articles to be sent for further judging.

By December, the grandchildren's arts and crafts will be entered for judging at the Farm and Home Center. Edna Loose of Penryn is the newsreporter; Martha Brandt is the Society #2 president.

Lancaster Co. Society 3

Members of Society of Farm Women No. 3 met last Saturday in the Fellowship Hall of Swamp U.C.C., Reinholds. The Society prepared and served food at the Ephrata Fair, Sept. 23-27. Two hundred and seventy-five pounds of chicken were boiled and boned to be used in potpie and chicken corn soup, and five bushels of apples were made into apple sauce.

Pepper cabbage was prepared using three bushels of cabbage, 1 crate celery, ½ bushel peppers, and 20 pounds of carrots. Fourteen hundred clams were opened and chopped for deviled clams and 90 pounds of flour and 18 dozen eggs were made into pasta for potpie.

During the business meeting final plans were made for "A day in the Poconos" on October 8 and the Lancaster County Day Tour on October 18. It was decided that Christmas favors would be made for the Christmas party for the victims of Cerebral Palsy.

Linda Toledo was hostess for the evening and carried out devotions. President Allegra Leininger conducted the business meeting.

Junior Cooking Edition

During the cooler days, it's fun to spend time out of doors in active sports like football, horseback riding, running, etc. Here's a treat to whip up for after school to give you the energy to play hard before supper.

You'll need a 9x9x2 inch pan which you should grease with butter or margarine. A large saucepan will be necessary to melt the cereal mixture, and a small saucepan to melt the chocolate topping. A large wooden spoon is helpful for stirring.

CANDY BAR COOKIES

1 6-ounce package butterscotch chips
½ cup light corn syrup
2 tablespoons margarine or butter
1 teaspoon vanilla
5 cups Cheerios
1½ cups miniature marshmallows
1 tablespoon shortening
1 5.75 ounce package chocolate chips

Grease the bottom and sides of the square pan. Put butterscotch chips, the corn syrup, margarine and vanilla in the large saucepan. Heat over low heat, stirring all the time, until melted and mixture is smooth. Remove pan from heat and turn off the burner.

Add the cereal and marshmallows. Mix until evenly coated. Spread a little margarine on the back of the spoon. Turn the mixture into the pan and press evenly with the back of the spoon.

Melt 1 tablespoon shortening in a small saucepan over low heat. Add the chocolate chips. Heat, stirring, until chips are melted and mixture is smooth. Spread chocolate mixture over the cereal mixture in the pan. Refrigerate until firm, about 1 hour. Remove from the refrigerator for 10 minutes before cutting. Cut into bars (6 rows x 4 rows). Makes 24 bars.

STUFFED DATES

2 cups seeded dates
½ cup almonds, pecans or walnuts
confectioners sugar

Chop the nuts very fine. Stuff each date with the nuts and roll in the confectioners sugar.

Arlene Zeiset, Narvon

ICE CREAM CANDY

2 cups sugar
1 cup water
1 teaspoon cream of tartar
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 tablespoon butter

Combine the sugar and water and bring to a boil. Dissolve the cream of tartar in a little water and add. Cook until a syrup forms a hard ball when dropped in cold water, 265° F. Remove from the heat and add vanilla. When cool, pull like taffy until snowy white.

Arlene Zeiset, Narvon

MARSHMALLOW CREME

2 cups sugar
2½ cups corn syrup
1 cup water
½ cup warm Karo
7/8 cup egg whites
1 teaspoon vanilla

Cook sugar, corn syrup and water to 242° F., medium ball stage. While this mixture is cooking, place the Karo and egg whites into a bowl. Beat slowly until mixed, then beat hard until light and fluffy. Pour the first mixture into this in a fine stream. When the mixture is completely combined, beat hard for 3 minutes. Add the vanilla and store in cans or jars. Don't cover until the mixture is cold.

Arlene Zeiset, Narvon

STICKY BUNS

½ cup milk
½ cup sugar
¼ cup margarine
½ cup warm water
2 packages active dry yeast
2 eggs, beaten
4 cups sifted flour

Scald the milk and stir in sugar, salt and margarine. Cool to lukewarm. Measure the warm water into a large bowl. Sprinkle in yeast. Stir until dissolved. Stir in lukewarm milk mixture, beaten eggs and half of the flour. Beat until smooth. Stir in remaining flour to make a slightly stiff dough. Turn dough out on a lightly floured board. Knead until smooth and elastic, about 8 minutes. Place dough in a greased bowl, turning to grease the top. Cover. Let rise in warm place, free from draft, until doubled in bulk about 1 hour. Punch down. Turn out on a lightly floured board and roll out like cookie dough. Spread with butter and sprinkle brown sugar and cinnamon on to suit taste. Roll up like a jelly roll and cut down. Put in pan and let set in a warm dry place, free from the draft, for about an hour or until doubled in size. Meanwhile put the ⅓ cup butter, brown sugar, corn syrup and water in a small saucepan until the mixture is well blended and the sugar is dissolved and begins to clear. Boil for 2 minutes. Remove from heat and cool. Pour over the buns just before baking. Bake for about 15-20 minutes at 350° F.

Lancaster Co. Society 13

Society of Farm Women 13 met September 12, at the Sight Saving Center, Lancaster. A very interesting tour of the building was conducted by Marian Campbell. A gift of $25.00 was given to the Center. The devotions were led by Sonja Denlinger. Roll call was answered by each member telling what they wish they would have learned to do. Dues were collected and tickets for the County Convention, to be held November 1, were distributed.

Final plans were made for the Food Stand to be held at Ervin Brown's sale on Friday, September 26 and Saturday, September 27.

Hostesses were Mrs. Ruth Schroeder and Mrs. Lydia Denlinger. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Nettie Bare, Witmer, with Mrs. Suzanna Reitzel as co-hostess.

Lancaster Co. Society 19

Lancaster Society 19 met in the home of Ruth Martin, 154 Owl Hill Road, Lititz.

Gloria Althouse, Manheim, presented her gift wrap accomplishments. Using her imagination to implement items that one finds in most homes and might be thrown out as junk, she created a clever gift package for each month of the year. Gloria requested that each member use her ingenuity in wrapping just one special package in the coming year.

The business meeting included installation of new members, Millie Eshleman and Rhodella Weaver. A letter of thanks was read from Harrisburg State Hospital thanking Society #19 for the birthday party in August.

A certificate of appreciation for volunteer service was received from IU 13 - Learning Center in Landisville.

Ruth Heisey, Landisville, was elected the new vice-president.

Contributions were approved to United Way and Water Street Mission.

Plans were discussed concerning: a tour to Brandywine Museum and Longwood Gardens - October 11; Homemaker's Day - October 20-21; and County Convention - November 1 at the Farm and Home Center.

The group will be entertained October 23 at 7:30 p.m. in the Bird-in-Hand Fire Hall by members of Society 28.

Lancaster Co. Society 28

Lancaster County Society of Farm Women 28 held their September meeting at the home of Doris Groff, Bird-In-Hand. The program for the evening was a Play for Family Living, presented by Family and Children Service.

Anyone desiring tickets for the County Convention on November 1 at the Farm & Home Center should contact President Rhoda Nolt.

The next meeting will be held on October 23 at the Bird-In-Hand Fire Hall with a Fashion Show by Trudi Shop. At that time our dues will be payable, along with our birthday money.

Lebanon Co. Society 20

Farm Women Society 20 met at the home of Vera Fahnestock with 15 members present. The program was "show & tell", with crocheted items. Three items were chosen to go to the County Convention on October 8.

There was an excellent response at the Charity Bazaar last Friday at the Lebanon Plaza.

The next meeting will be a masquerade party at Barb Harding's home. Plans were also discussed for the November & December meetings.

Sedor wins state 4-H clothing award

EBENSBURG — Patricia Sedor, 18, of Ebensburg, who has compiled an outstanding record in 4-H work, was named state clothing contest winner in the 1980 4-H National Awards Program.

Patricia will receive an expense-paid trip to National 4-H Congress in Chicago, November 30-December 4, and compete for awards at the national level.

Support of the clothing project is provided by Coats and Clark Inc.

Carroll L. Howes, associate 4-H-youth program director at Penn State, who announced the award selection, said she was judged on the basis of project work, leadership ability, and participation in county and state activities.

Patricia was picked from among the 106,000 youth who annually take part in the Extension Service educational 4-H program.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Sedor, she is a sophomore at the Indiana University of Pennsylvania.

A member of the Ebensburg Area 4-H Club, she served as president, secretary, treasurer, and news reporter. She also assisted with club activities and events as a teen leader.

The state clothing contest winner completed projects in clothing, foods and nutrition, gardening, bicycling, teen leadership, and design with line.

Locally, she took park in the 4-H day camp, county exchange program, leadership workshop, roundup, fashion revue, demonstration day, officers training, and foods review.

Patricia also participated in the Regional 4-H Demonstration Day, Regional Leadership Workshop, State 4-H Capital Days, Pennsylvania 4-H Leadership Congress, State 4-H Achievement Days, and Ag. Progress Days.

She was named Cambria County's Outstanding 4-H Girl in 1977.

Commenting on the values of the educational youth program, Patricia said: "4-H has helped me to decide on a career. It also assisted me in developing leadership skills and patience and cooperation when working with others."

She is one of 41 Commonwealth 4-H members being selected as state contest winners in the various project categories.

SUGARLESS CANDY

2 tablespoons butter
¾ cup peanut butter
½ cup honey
2 cups dry milk
2 tablespoons carob
unsweetened coconut or nuts

Melt the butter and add the remaining ingredients. The coconut or nuts may either be added to the mix, or after the mix is shaped into balls, the balls may be rolled in the coconut, etc. If the mix is too runny, more dry milk powder may be used.

Arlene Zeiset, Narvon

RAGGED ROBINS

½ cup sugar
2 eggs
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup chopped walnuts
1 cup chopped dates
2 cups cornflakes

Beat the eggs until lemon colored. Gradually add sugar and vanilla and continue to beat until well blended. Add chopped nuts and dates. Fold the corn flakes into the mixture. Shape into 1 inch diameter balls and place 2 inches apart on the greased baking sheet. Bake at 350° F. for 10-15 minutes. Makes 4 dozen cookies.

USDA to end beekeeper indemnity

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The U.S. Department of Agriculture's beekeeper indemnity payment program will be terminated October 9, according to Ray Fitzgerald, administrator of USDA's Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service.

"We are taking this action because of the limited scope of the program and its lower budgetary priority contributing to its relative ineffectiveness," Fitzgerald said.

The program—which had been in effect since June 1971—provided for federal indemnity payments to beekeepers whose bees were killed by insecticides approved for use by the government.

Announcement of the proposal to terminate the program was made on April 4. Interested parties had until June 12 to submit comments.

Notice of termination appeared in the September 9 Federal Register.

Top seller at State Jersey Sale brings $3300

LANCASTER — Halan Soldier Ann, a five-year-old, brought the top price of $3,300 at the Pennsylvania State Jersey Sale last Saturday at the Lancaster Guernsey Sales Pavilion.

Ann, consigned by Harold Riddle, of Emlenton, Pa., was purchased by Wayne Knott, of Shenandoah Junction, W. Va.

Knott was the top buyer at the sale, purchasing 10 head for $21,100 – about a fourth of the animals offered. A Holstein breeder, Knott is putting together a small herd of Jerseys to increase his butterfat and protein production.

Ann's production as a four-year-old in 305 days totaled 11,211 lbs. of milk and 516 lbs. of fat. Her dam is Evergreens Warspite Alice and her sire is Observer Chocolate Soldier. A full sister, Halan Soldier Apollo, produced nearly 15,000 lbs. of milk and 600 lbs. of fat as a four-year-old.

Second highest animal was Normandale Finalist Amy, consigned by David Norman, of Normandale Farms, Liberty, Pa. As a three-year-old, she brought $2,500.

In third place was another cow consigned by Riddle, Halan Generator Tipsey. Born in April, 1976, she brought $2,300.

Both the second and third animals were purchased by Knott.

Average for the sale was $1,742.

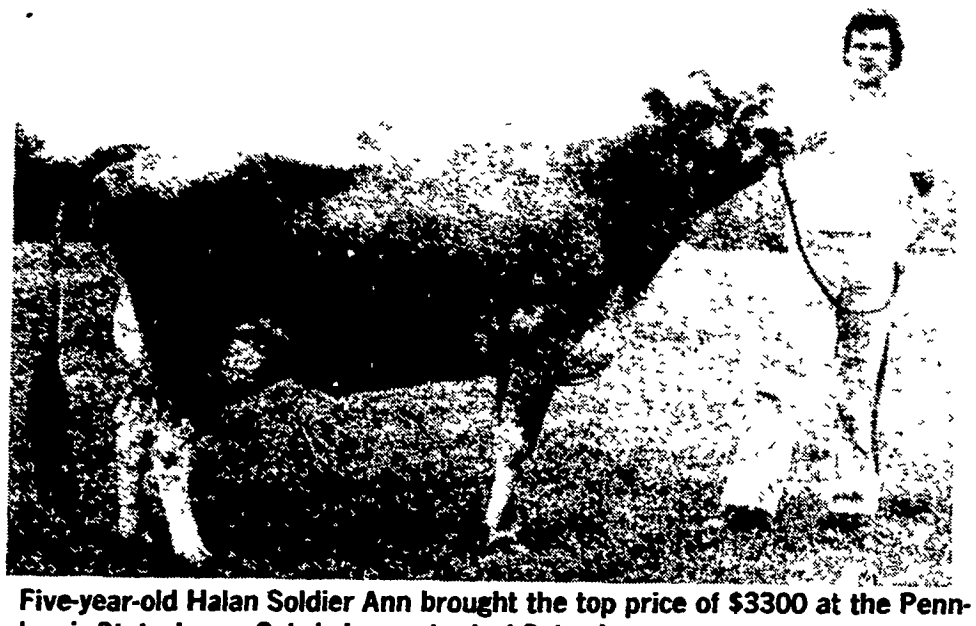
In conjunction with the state sale, the fourth annual Pennsylvania Pot of Gold sale was held under the sponsorship of the Pa. Jersey Cattle Club, Inc.

Six calves are sold each year in the Pot of Gold with 25 percent of the gross retained into a special account. When these calves complete their first lactation, this annual sum of money is divided among the three young purchasers whose calves have the top production records.

Started in 1977, this marked the first year that calves bought in the Pot of Gold were reviewed for awards. The top producer was a heifer from Spring Run Jerseys, New Wilmington, Pa. bought in 1977 by Carol Dreisbach, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Robert Dreisbach, of Hamburg, Pa. As a two-year-old, the heifer produced 11,244 lbs. of milk and 666 pounds of fat at 5.9 test.

In this year's Pot of Gold, the top calf brought $1,200.

A production award was also presented to the cow purchased at the 1979 sale which completed the highest record in the ensuing year. The cow was bought in 1979 by David and Robin Phillips, of Mohrsville, Pa., from Eugene and Bryan Harris, of Milan, Pa. She scored Excellent, producing more than 13,900 lbs. of milk at 5.3 test.



Five-year-old Halan Soldier Ann brought the top price of $3300 at the Pennsylvania State Jersey Sale in Lancaster last Saturday.

Third-highest animal at State Jersey Sale was Halan Generator Tipsey at $2300. Both her and the top animal were consigned by Harold Riddle, of Emlenton, Pa.

Farm women protest York County dump

BY JOYCE BUPP
Staff Correspondent

SEVEN VALLEYS — "Would you drink the milk produced on farms around here? What about the chickens from the poultry operations? And will it even be safe to eat the food we produce in our gardens?"

Those questions were just a few of the worries voiced last week during a meeting of a recently-formed group of farm and rural women in North Codorus Township.

Calling themselves MAD, Mothers Against the Dump, the several dozen women have prodded and probed to gather information and publicize their fight against a proposed industrial waste burial facility in the midst of their farm community.

Focus of the women's fight is a permit held by Stabatrol, Inc., a firm that plans to process and bury neutralized industrial wastes, including heavy metal compounds and possibly toxic chemicals. The facility is to be located atop a steep ridge that splits two prime farmland valleys.

Stabatrol recently purchased the corporate structure of Sunny Farms, Ltd., which formerly operated a sanitary solid waste landfill on the property. That landfill has been temporarily suspended from operations in 1976 by the Department of Environmental Resources for not fulfilling regulatory requirements. The current permit for the industrial waste disposal originally was granted to Sunny Farms, and the issue now lies with the legality of transferring that permit, along with the corporate assets, to Stabtrol.

Another waste processing firm, Liqwacon, also has plans to use part of the old Sunny Farms acreage for industrial disposal. Liqwacon specializes in mostly liquid wastes, while Stabatrol's processes deal with more solids.

About 50 women from the area, plus a handful of men, met last Thursday in the chicken coop converted to tractor shed and utility building at the Robert Paules home, Spring Grove R1. Hostess Ella Paules, whose family's home looks across a bare quarter-mile of browning cornfields to the dumping acreage boundaries, is one of the key organizers of MAD.

From outside appearances at the former poultry house, the gathering could have been any afternoon meeting of a group of rural women. A half-dozen youngsters scattered colored wooden blocks across the grass and banged the door as they ran in and out.

But matters were more serious for the irate mothers inside, who grilled 93rd District legislator A. Carville Foster at length on tactics and the legal angles of fighting the unwanted industrial waste neighbors.

At the heart of MAD's concern is potential contamination of the area's abundant water supplies, both from above and below ground pollution.

The dump site hillside is blamed by residents for already causing considerable washing during heavy rainstorms, carrying stones and mud into the creeks and across public roads. Natives of the area also insist that iron ore mining a century ago left the high ridge riddled with old mine shafts that were closed because the water filled them in.

MAD, and its parent citizens' group OUCH, Opposing Unnecessary Chemical Hazards, adamantly stick to their argument that hazardous pollutants may someday filter down through the old mine shafts and seep into streams and wells.

(Turn to Page C16)

Abandoning housecleaning and garden chores, MAD women planned dump protest strategy in the converted chicken house of hostess Ella Paules, standing. Special guest for the session was 93rd district legislator, A. Carville Foster, seated at the table.

Eight dairy operations, as well as some poultry facilities and orchard acreage, lay in the immediate and downstream vicinity of the dumpsite.

The women's concern over the problem of milk quality touched home with one of the few men in attendance at the midday session, dairyman Nelson Brenneman, of Spring Grove R1. Brenneman initially discovered the well-drilling rig that led to officials investigation of plans for the old Sunny Farms acreage.

His land adjoins the portion of land that is earmarked for disposal use by Liqwacon. Liqwacon has applied for a disposal permit, by that licensing has not yet been granted by DER.

Brenneman, who ships to Green's Dairy in York, says that his market officials are concerned because of their memory of the public boycott against milk during the Three Mile Island nuclear plant crisis in March of 1979. Although no radiation was ever found in milk from farms nearby, the publicity surrounding the possibility caused a drop in retail sales of fluid milk.

So, even though no chemicals may ever turn up in the water for the valleys' dairy cattle, Brenneman says Green's has expressed fear that the dump publicity alone could cause them retail sales problems.

"And that's all it would take for them to cut off pickups to our farm and others nearby in the same situation," he worries. "And, who else is going to come in here and pick it up?"

Similar fears hang over the heads of farm woman Donna Lecrone, a member of the MAD group, and her husband Michael. The Lecrones raise poultry and fruit on their Seven Valleys R1 farm, just across the valley and a small stream from where Stabatrol plans its disposal vaulting.

Lecrone says that his poultry contractor, Longenecker's Hatchery, is supporting his opposition to the dump, and has already written letters to both elected officials and DER heads.

Many of the women of MAD, disgusted that meeting upon meeting seemed to be getting them nowhere, recently painted signs and set up picket lines at several spots in York City. Their fight for greated press publicity and increased urban support in the fight against the dump has earned them public declarations against the disposal plans from a variety of sportsmen and outdoor groups, school boards and numerous neighboring municipalities.

They've also dotted the quiet valleys with terse, handlettered signs, each proclaiming in its own individualized way: "We Are Opposed To The Dump."

One deeply involved and vocal member of MAD is Stacy Marsh, Seven Valleys R1. She's the wife of beef and grain farmer Steve Marsh,

Farm Bureau sues government to force coyote control

PARK RIDGE, Ill. — The nation's largest farm organization is suing Cecil D. Andrus and the Fish and Wildlife Service in an effort to force them to control coyotes.

Robert B. Delano, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, said the suit is concerned with the serious sheep and lamb losses from coyote predation in the United States.

The AFBF, together with the Wyoming Farm Bureau and several individual ranchers, filed a lawsuit in the federal district court in Cheyenne, Wyoming against Andrus, Secretary of Interior, Fish and Wildlife Service, Bureau of Land Management, Robert Bergland, Secretary of agriculture, the Forest Service and various officials of these federal agencies.

Farm Bureau alleges that the failure of these federal agencies and officials to take effective steps to control the coyote is a threat to the future of sheep production.

Eighty percent of the sheep in the United States are raised in the western states where extensive private and public ranges provide most of the feed.

The suit alleges that uncontrolled predation, principally by the coyote, is causing a high rate of sheep and lamb deaths.

"Uncontrolled predation and an expanding coyote population," states Dave Flitner, Wyoming Farm Bureau president and himself a plaintiff, "is drastically reducing sheep production and forcing many sheepmen out of the business."

The lawsuit contends that the failure of federal agencies to control coyote populations violates the Animal Damage Control Act, the Federal Land Policy and Management Act of 1976, and the Taylor Grazing Act. All these statutes require the agencies to develop maintain, manage and protect federal lands in such a manner that the range resources attain their potential.

The Animal Damage Control Act specifically directs the Secretary of Interior to use the best methods available for eradication, suppression and control of coyotes.

Farm Bureau also contends that the Secretary of Interior's revised policy on predator control is contrary to the express purpose and mandate of the Act by abandoning and severely restricting traditional methods of coyote control.

The suit filed today requests that the actions of the defendants is failing to control coyotes be declared violative of federal statutes, that the federal agencies be ordered to adopt effective programs for eradication, suppression and control of coyotes and that the individual plaintiffs be compensated for losses caused by the predators.

Commenting on increasing lamb losses, Delano observed that present government policy favors protection of predators — at the expense of the livelihood of individuals and the meat producing industry.

who heads up the OUCH group as their chairman.

Through press publicity on the fight against the dump, the Marsh's learned of a DER citizens' advisory meeting recently in Harrisburg. There they made contact with representatives from several other counties also doing battle against proposed waste diposal facilities by Stabatrol.

As a result of contacts made at that meeting, these York County farm families, worried about their family health and property values, have joined with others into a four-county information and communications exchange to strengthen the anti-dump campaign.

"Our hope here is to band together and get them out of the state of Pennsylvania," says Stacy Marsh.

Oley Fair sets attendence records

BY LAUREL SCHAEFFER
Staff Correspondent

OLEY — Continuing their tradition of attracting large crowds, the Oley Community Fair was held September 18 to 20 at this small Berks County Community.

Billed as an old fashioned fair free from the money grabbing midways found at most fairs, the Oley Fair attracted record breaking crowds with their "country" simplicity featuring farm machinery, crafts, and baking displays and contests and several tents of livestock.

Estimates for Friday Night, placed attendance to be 48,000 causing traffic problems and making parking places almost impossible to find. Officals estimated over two tons of

Christmas tree directory available

ANNAPOLIS, Md — Do you want to buy or sell some fresh and luxuriant Maryland-grown Christmas trees wholesale?

If you do, the Maryland Christmas Tree Growers Association and Marketing Division of the State Department of Agriculture have teamed up again to produce a directory of tree growers that sell trees wholesale to dealers and groups wishing this seasonal item.

Some 14 growers are listed by county with a complete description of the species, sizes and quantity of trees they have available for this season's cutting.

Locally-grown trees are far fresher and tend to be of higher quality than trees cut earlier in locations hundreds of miles away on huge tracts where little personal attention can be given to them as they are grown.

As a result, according to MDA Marketing Specialist, Rick Baker, who has compiled the directory, the Maryland-region trees command a higher price at retail because of their freshness and quality. He also says that growers with trees to sell wholesale usually sell them quickly, so persons and groups interested in them should act promptly to assure a supply.

Anyone interested in the wholesale purchase of trees may obtain a copy of the directory by writing to "Wholesale Trees", Maryland Department of Agriculture, Parole Plaze Office Bldg., Annapolis, Maryland 21401.

Broiler placements up

HARRISBURG — Placements of broiler chicks in the Commonwealth during the week ending September 13 were 2,290,000, according to the Pennsylvania Crop Reporting Service.

The placements were 12 percent above the corresponding week a year earlier, and three percent above the previous week. Average placements during the past nine weeks were three percent above a year earlier.

Placements in the 21 key poultry producing states were 73,458,000, slightly above the previous week, but three percent below the same week a year ago. Average placements in the 21 states during the past nine weeks were five percent below a year ago.

Broiler-fryers slaughtered in Pennsylvania federal inspection during the week ending September 3 totaled 1,643,000, with an average liveweight of 3.99 pounds.

Inter-State District 6 holds annual meeting

BLUE BALL — Members of Inter-State Milk Producers' Cooperative's Gap, Paradise and New Holland-Leola locals held their annual meeting Tuesday evening at Blue Ball.

Members heard a report from Co-op General Manager James E. Honan, elected new officers, and honored two long-time members.

Honan told members that the Board of Directors is recommending Co-op dues be increased by two cents to 12 cents per hundredweight.

He said Inter-State is one of the lowest equity per hundredweight co-ops in the United States.

"If all goes well that will be no problem," he said.

But the Board said it wants to increase the current 22 cent per cwt equity the Co-op now carries. Honan said the Board can reverse itself later if the equity position is raised to satisfactory levels.

By comparison, Honan said, most Northeastern co-ops are carrying equity positions of 40 cents to 80 cents per cwt.

The newly formed New England co-op, Agri-Mark, will be required to carry 94 cents per cwt in equity. Maryland-Virginia has $1.34 per cwt in equity funds.

Honan also said the Board will ask members to decide whether to opt out of the new Pennsylvania milk security fund kitty.

Members also will vote on a proposed state advertising and promotion budget.

Honan told farmers they have $4.6 million equity in the Co-op. That is about $1500 per farmer member.

Honan said the money, which includes value of buildings and the like, is being put to good use for the members.

The cost of marketing milk for members increased to four times last year's level.

Honan said that was due to the amount of excess milk Inter-State had to move this past fiscal year. He said most of the losses could be traced to 10 days around Easter and Memorial Day weekends.

He said there would be no added assemssment to members to cover the quarter of a million dollars lost.

Holly Milk Cooperative also turned in some red ink: $390,000. That compares to $345,000 last year.

Honan pointed out last year's figure covered only from April to July of 1979.

This year's losses cover the period from July 1979 to the start of 1980. At that time a resolution was passed saying Holly Co-op could lose no money.

As a result, any losses are paid by the two owner cooperatives, Inter-State and Maryland Cooperative Milk Producers.

Net margin for the year for Inter-State was $690,000, about $60,000 below the goal set by delegates.

Honan said the Co-op was in good financial shape.

He predicted Class I milk prices for the coming year at about $15 to $15.25 and said ten years from now the price could be $30 per cwt.

In the election of officers, members of Gap local chose J. Kenneth Hershey as

How to prevent aflatoxins in corn

COLLEGE PARK, Md. — The summer drought has set the stage for aflatoxin contamination in corn that could parallel the scare of 1977. Danger signals have been hoisted in some southern states, but early harvest reports so far have not indicated any contamination in local cornfields.

This was the conclusion of the statewide aflatoxin task force, which met last week at the University of Maryland campus in College Park.

Organizations represented on the task force include the Delmarva Poultry Industry, Inc., the university's extension service and Agricultural Experiment Station, and the state Department of Agriculture. Task force chairman is Ralph J. Adkins, Extension agricultural programs specialist at the University of Maryland

Adkins explained that aflatoxins result from fungi growing on feed grains, feed products and other food commodities They can be harmful to poultry, some classes of farm animals, and even to humans when ingested in sufficient amounts. Young animals are more susceptible than old ones.

Adkins noted the drought conditions that have reduced corn yields in many areas of the state may also have reduced the growth of the aflatoxin-producing fungus.

He and other members of the task force point out, however, that prolonged rainy weather could spell an aflatoxin danger alert.

Since aflatoxins are primarily storage diseases, it is essential that corn be clean and dry when stored. Combines should be adjusted to remove as much trash and weed seed as possible. Care should be taken not to break or crack the corn kernels.

Moisture from damp grain, or condensation, is the key element in mold infestation. It can turn a quality product into a reservoir of aflatoxin contamination.

While normal storage procedures call for drying corn to 15 percent moisture, drying down to 13 percent will provide an extra margin of safety. At this level, the growth of mold is stopped, and no more aflatoxin will be produced.

John A. Doerr, assistant professor of poultry science at the University of Maryland, says that proper grain storage is largely a matter of common sense. Having expended the cost and effort to obtain clean, dry corn, farmers should continue that effort.

Doerr makes the following suggestions.

Make sure that storage bin covers fit properly, are in good repair, and have watertight seals.

Clean storage facilities before adding new-crop corn or feed.

Make sure that the storage container is dry before filling commences.

Provide adequate ventilation.

Minimize headspace over stored grain whenever possible. A half-full bin means a lot of dead air and condensation surfaces.

When using non-ventilated bins, move the corn or feed in and out of storage quickly.

Inspect bin contents frequently for signs of mold growth and spoilage. Obviously cottony fungus growth, musty odor, discolored kernels, or a dark, dusty coating indicate mold problems.

If you are concerned about a particular field, bin, or load of corn, your county extension agricultural agent can help you to get it tested.

Red meat output drops 13%

HARRISBURG — Commercial red meat production in Pennsylvania during August totaled 80.9 million pounds, down 13 percent from August 1979, according to the Pennsylvania Crop Reporting Service.

Cattle slaughter at 60,900 head was down 13 percent while calf slaughter at 22,600 head was seven percent less than last year.

Hog slaughter at 266,300 head decreased eight percent from a year ago.

The number of sheep and lambs slaughtered totaled 13,200, down eight percent from August 1979.

Nationally, commercial red meat production during August totaled 3.02 billion pounds, a decrease of nine percent from August 1979. Beef production at 1.77 pounds was down eight percent while veal production at 31 million pounds declined nine percent.

Pork production totaled 1.19 billion pounds, down 12 percent from August 1979. Lamb and mutton production was unchanged from last year at 23 million pounds.

The New Holland-Leola Local chose Harry Zimmerman, Jr. as president and David S. Fisher as vice president.

Secretary-treasurer will be Walter C. Martin and David S. Fisher will serve on the hauling committee.

The three delegates will be John R. Groff, Clarence M. Hoover, and Walter C. Martin. Alternates will be Thomas A. Denlinger, Jere K. Skiles, and Elam B. Stoltzfoos.

J. Richard Herr was elected president of the Paradise local and John A. Harsh was voted in as vice president.

Aaron Lapp, Jr. will serve as secretary treasurer and Leroy K. King will be on the hauling committee.

Delegates for the year include Daniel L. Esh, J. Richard Herr, and Amos S. Smoker. Alternates will be Samuel L. Esh, John A. Harsh, and Allen B. Mellinger.

A 50 year membership award was presented to Mrs. and Mr. John R. Groff of the New Holland-Leola local.

A 25 year membership award was given to Hershey E. Kurtz of the Gap local.

Members were assured the Cooperative had taken action on the mailing problems with milk checks. Members were told the Post Office has reviewed the problem and assured Inter-State the checks will be delivered on time.

The annual meeting of the Cooperative is scheduled for November 11 and 12 at the Host Farm in Lancaster. The banquet will be held the night of Novmeber 11.—CH

Maryland extension director to retire

COLLEGE PARK, Md. — John M. Curtis, director of the University of Maryland's statewide Extension Service, has announced that he will retire prior to the end of 1980. He has agreed to remain until a new director has been designated.

Curtis has been chief administrative officer for the Maryland Cooperative Extension Service since Jan. 1, 1976. He has more than 30 years of service as an Extension worker both in Maryland and in his native state of North Carolina. He also worked one year as an extension specialist in Virginia.

The Prince Georges County resident served as chairman of the Department of Agricultural and Resource Economics at the College Park campus for over 14 years prior to taking over as the sixth director of the Maryland Extension Service.

As Maryland Extension director for nearly five years, Curtis has headed a statewide educational endeavor that brings practical information from land-grant universities and the U.S. Department of Agriculture to the people in their local environment.

He has also served as a board member, or ex officio member, of various statewide groups related to agriculture. These groups include the State Soil Conservation Committee, the Maryland Food Center Authority, Maryland Rural Affairs Council, and the Maryland Farm Bureau Board of Directors.

Curtis has played an active role in revitalizing the Maryland 4-H Foundation, and he has demonstrated keen interest in the development of youth through the statewide 4-H program.

During his tenure, a statewide advisory council for the Cooperative Extension Service was organized in 1977. Two new Extension educational efforts receiving emphasis have been a marine advisory program, directed toward both commercial watermen and pleasure boaters on the Chesapeake Bay, and an energy use and conservation program aimed at the total public.

At the regional and national levels, Curtis serves as chairman of the Northeast Extension Directors association and as a member of the legislative subcommittee of the Extension Committee on Organization and Policy.

Curtis said he is proud of the fact that, under his leadership, the entire Maryland Extension Service has made substantial gains in the area of equal opportunity and affirmative action. These gains apply both to Extension employees and to the audiences served.

As to the future, he said that he plans to do some consulting work, overseas travel, land development, and a little writing. He and his wife plan to continue living in the College Park area. They have three grown sons.

A retirement banquet honoring Curtis was held Friday evening in the Fort McHenry room at the Center of Adult Education on the University of Maryland campus in College Park.

Solanco hog, steer sales bring top dollar

QUARRYVILLE — The Solanco Fair Hog and FFA Steer sale last week reported prices well above last year's sale returns. In all sixty-two hogs and nineteen FFA steers went on the auction block.

Last year's Grand Champion FFA steer owner returned in first place again this year. Bernie Houghton's 1220 pound first place heavyweight sold to Ferguson and Hassler Supermarket at $1.75 per pound.

To outbid all other competitors, Truman Ferguson maintained the position of being top bidder since the fair began several decades ago by shelling out eight cents more per pound than last year's price of $1.67.

Reserve Champion steer, sold by Sam Long, Peach Bottom went to K and S, Inc., Quarryville, R1, for $1.03 per pound. Sale totals showed an average price of 99 cents per pound.

Hatfield Packing once again bought the Grand Champion market hogs as well as the reserve champion. Total sale revenues for the 62 hogs sold in lots of two or pens of four were clearly 35 cents above market price at 85 cents per pound.

Helping to boost the average were the $1.46 paid for the Grand Champion pen of two owned by Ryan Rohrer, Nottingham, and the $1.12 paid to Vicki Warfel for her reserve champion pen of two lightweights.

The Solanco Grand Champion hogs, shown by Ryan Rohrer, were bought for a bid of $1.46 by Ezra Good for Hatfield.

Bernie Houghton sold his Grand Champion FFA steer to Ferguson and Hassler supermarket, Quarryville, for $1.75 per pound. Truman Ferguson gave the highest bid again this year as he has every year for several decades since the fair began.

You can help make agricultural policy

LANCASTER — With the Food and Agriculture Act of 1977 soon to expire, citizens and groups who care about the direction of our national food and farm policy will have a number of opportunities to make their views known, says Delaware extension community and resource economics specialist Gerald Vaughn.

The Congress will work on a replacement Act in 1981.

Much of the major food and agricultural policy is developed in the U.S. House of Representatives and Senate. There are big differences in the way these two bodies view such legislation.

While all 100 senators have agricultural constituencies in their states, probably less than one-fourth of the House members have significant agricultural constituencies.

For the most part, a Congressman's voters are urban and more concerned about retail food prices, food quality, and food stamps than with farm prices and income. Thus it is possible for the Senate to pass bills highly favorable to farm producers, knowing full well that the House will alter such bills until they become more acceptable to urban consumers and the Administration.

Where does the public fit into the policymaking process? It's the voters, first of all, who decide who will represent them in Congress and as President. But with a clear understanding of the policymaking process, says Vaughn, private citizens can take a much broader role.

In the formal policymaking process, the executive branch (President and Secretary of Agriculture) may either develop its own legislative proposals or develop them in cooperation with the Congressional agricultural committees.

In either case, Congress narrows the decisions and drafts specific bills. Final approval by both houses sends the bill to the White House for the President's signature or veto.

When the Secretary of Agriculture develops proposals for the Administration, he is aided considerably by the research staff of the USDA. The USDA staff may seek ideas and reactions at public hearings or from various organizations that have an interest in the subject. This is one point where citizens can have input into the process.

In Congress, agricultural and food policy is considered in the House Committee on Agriculture or the Senate Committee on Agriculture, Nutrition and Forestry. The chairperson of the committee has a strong influence over the legislation.

The original drafting of the bill under the direction of the committee chairperson is a significant stage at which important ideas can enter the process.

Since staff members of the House and Senate committees are directly involved in drafting bills to be introduced, they have become perhaps the single most important access for citizens and organizations into the legislative process. Representatives and Senators depend very heavily on a committee staff's recommendations in the development of legislation, so getting to know key Congressional committee staffers may be at least as important as knowing the members of Congress themselves.

Staff members are always interested in gaining knowledge that will help them improve their recommendations to Congress, so they're usually very willing to listen to your views.

Members of Congress and their staffs also hear from many professional lobbyists who have an interest in food and agricultural policy issues. Lobbyists are generally considered reliable, well-informed sources of information about their areas of concern.

While lobbyists may well be biased in the direction of their interests, they can't overplay their hand without soon losing credibility and effectiveness. Thus, members of Congress often look to them for information.

Efforts of lobbyists to influence policy include testimony before Congressional committees, letters, direct contact with the members of Congress and staff, phone calls, organizing letter writing campaigns by the members of their group, and participation in hearings called by executive departments.

But various farm lobbyists often work at cross purposes, since members of the farm organizations they represent have widely divergent views.

For example, established farmers who own their land free and clear are less inclined to push hard for direct price supports than those who have recently purchased land and machinery and have large payments to meet. Farm groups differ in their political philosophies, such as the degree of government involvement they want to see influencing their farming operations.

Different commodity groups sometimes have conflicting interests. For instance, grain producers want higher prices for their product, while livestock producers would like to see lower feed costs.

Thus, the Farm Bureau and the Grange may express positions that differ greatly from those of the National Farmers Union, National Farmers Organization, or the American Agricultural Movement. The diversity of views from the various producer groups may confuse some legislators and may give them considerable latitude in how they decide to vote.

Any member of the House or Senate may introduce a bill, but to get serious consideration it must be introduced by a committee member and usually must be favored by the chairperson.

After a bill is introduced it is referred to a committee for consideration. Both the Senate and House Agriculture Committees have subcommittees to which the chairperson may refer bills. The subcommittee may kill a bill, amend it, rewrite it, or combine it with other legislation.

Hearings are usually held in the subcommittees, sometimes around the nation as well as in Washington, D.C. Hearings provide a public forum where witnesses can support, criticize or suggest changes. Seldom will hearings kill a bill, but they may lead to changes that will make it more acceptable and improve its chances for passage.

If you or your group wishes to oppose a piece of legislation, it's in your interest to find out where the sponsorship of the legislation originated and what is the motivation of the sponsoring group. By doing so it is quite often possible to attack legislation by pointing out someone's selfish interest in its passage.

After the hearings, committee members go to work on the markup process. They review each section of the bill, debate its merits, change wording and add amendments.

Most markup sessions are open to the public. Interested persons can see how the parts of the bill in which they have a major interest are handled and may respond to questions if asked by members of the committee.

This is an important point in the resolution of certain key issues.

After bills pass both House and Senate they must be made identical by a conference committtee of the two bodies before going to the President for signature. The resulting compromise bill is then sent back to both Senate and House for final passage.

Trade-offs between rural and urban interests, between commodity groups and food assistance concerns, or between producers, industry and environmental groups, bring about the compromises resulting in bills that are finally approved by Congress and the Administration.

In a system of representative government, says Vaughn, each citizen has an opportunity to participate in the policymaking process. To have a voice in these decisions, keep informed about the issues.

Berks farmers urge mushroom quotas

TEMPLE — President Jimmy Carter is being urged this week by Berks County Farmers' Association President John K. Kooker, Jr. to approve a report of the International Trade Commission to place Quantitative Restrictions on canned mushroom imports.

Imports of canned or processed mushrooms have increased by 70 percent in the last five years.

"No segment of agriculture or of industry can withstand or absorb that amount without greatly depressing domestic markets," said Kooker, "and our growers contribute too much to Berks County's economy to let this happen without a fight."

Kooker made this request in a letter and is asking all member families to write to the President also.

Kooker's letter follows that of Pennsylvania Farmers' Association President, Eugene Thompson. The State Association represents over 22,500 farm families.

"I join with President Thompson in this most important effort to prevent destruction of an important segment of agriculture," said Kooker.

Fifty percent of the nation's mushrooms are produced in Berks and Chester county and in Berks is nearly 25 percent of the agriculture income.

"The quantitative limitations recommended by the ITC may not be adequate, but is a step in the right direction," concluded Kooker, "and maybe it is about time that we in this country come first."

Ag gets its own travel guide

LITITZ — The American Society of Agricultural Engineers has published a unique travel guide devoted to the history of farming in the United States and Canada. "Travel Historic Rural America", compiled and edited by Sam Rosenberg of the ASAE staff, will bring Americans and Canadians close to their farming heritage.

Surprisingly, the historic farming heritage of North America is well preserved. The 104-page book spans a panorama of living history farms, restored rural village, museums and annual events.

The emphasis of the travel guide is on farming techniques and farm machinery and equipment. The time frame stretches from Colonial America to a farm in Michigan where time was "frozen" in 1950. In between, is the agriculture of 300 years spread from the Atlantic to the Pacific, from the Canadian provinces to the Rio Grande.

Directions, descriptions, hours, admission costs, and telephone numbers are listed for nearly a hundred living history farms and restored rural villages; over 500 museums with collections of farm machinery, tools and equipment; plus gristmills, woolen and cotton mills, and a few offbeat places as well

Well over a hundred annual events are listed with emphasis on annual threshing reunions and antique machinery shows. For annual events, a listing includes directions, hours, admission costs, telephone numbers and the name of a sponsor.

"Travel Historic Rural America," is available from the American Society of Agricultural Engineers, Box 410, St. Joseph, Michigan 49085. The price is $5.95 per copy postpaid.

Nation's first RCWP grant goes to Maryland farmer

NEW WINDSOR, Md. — John Parker Smith, a Carroll County, Md., dairy farmer, became the first person in the nation Wednesday to receive payment for completing a pollution control structure under the new experimental Rural Clean Water Program.

About 75 farmers and agency officials attended an open house at the Smith farm marking the occasion. Among them was Raymond Fitzgerald, head of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service which administers the program. Fitzgerald applauded Smith and local agency officials for their speed in implementing the program which was approved for funding this past summer.

But the highlight of the afternoon came when Melvin Baile, chairman of the Carroll County ASC Committee handed Smith a check for $9500 covering 75 percent of the cost of his new animal waste handling facility.

Smith, 33, oversees the management of the 550-acre farm with the help of his father John Elmer, Brother Malcolm, and two employees. The Smiths' milk about 150 grade Holsteins with a rolling herd average of 15,090 pounds of milk and 575 milk butterfat. They raise their own feed including about 300 acres of corn, 100 acres of small grain, and 125 acres of hay.

"Everything but the protein," Smith says.

Smith said he built the facility to control the pollution problem and keep ahead of federal officials who he feels may one day require farmers to adhere to strict pollution control guidelines if they don't take action themselves first.

Before the new solids separation pit was constructed, the runoff carrying waste from about 200 head in the barnyard and dairy parlor washed directly into a small stream. Now the runoff from the one-acre area drains into the pit which was designed by the U.S. Soil Conservation Service.

Randy Bachtel, SCS soil conservationist, explained that the system was designed to allow the solids to settle to the bottom of the pit while the liquid is released into a 12-foot wide, 350-foot long grassed waterway. Any remaining solids are trapped by the grass and the liquid infiltrates into the ground before reaching the stream. The solids trapped in the basin are periodically spread on the land as fertilizer.

Just how often the basin has to be cleaned out depends on the amount and frequency of rain as well as the number of cows. But Smith says the basin has about 30-days storage capacity which he'd eventually like to increase to about 60 to 90 days.

Unlike some other system Smith's is both labor and energy efficient. It required no pumps, and since the liquid is drained off, eliminates the need for having to haul rainwater that's trapped along with the runoff.

A board member of the Carroll County Soil Conservation District for the past three years, Smith is a firm believer in conserving resources. On his cultivated land he used crop rotations, strip-cropping, minimum and no-till planting, and grassed waterways. These, explains Bachtel, help stop soil erosion and keeps sediment from washing into the streams that dissect the farm.

In addition to taking advantage of the RCWP project himself, Smith has promoted it among other farmers in the area and is responsible for getting some to sign up under the new program.

"I feel that people having sediment and animal waste runoff problems can use the RCWP program to help solve pollution problems on their farms, too," he says.

That's a $9500 check J. Parker Smith's mother, Florence Mary, and father, John Elmer, are holding. It covers 75 percent of the cost of his new animal waste facility. Parker was first to complete a pollution control structure under new Double Pipe Creek Rural Clean Water Program in Carroll County, Md. Tired out after the afternoon's festivities and speechmaking, son Paul, 3, rests on his father's shoulder.

The solids separation pit behind the Smith family will keep animal wastes from the dairy parlor and barnyard from polluting a nearby stream. At far left, is Smith's son Paul, 3.

J. Parker Smith poses near the liquid release board of his new solids separation pit. Parker was the first farmer in the nation to complete a pollution control structure under the new experimental Rural Clean Water Program.

Nominate a winner for storm water management award

LANCASTER — Applications will be accepted in Lancaster County until October 15, 1980 for the "Outstanding Storm Water Management in Land Development Award."

The award program is designed to recognize a project which implements storm water management techniques that eliminate excessive runoff and resulting flooding and erosion.

Municipal officials, developers, site planners, architects, engineers, and others involved in the development process are invited to submit nominations. The nominations must, however, be supported by the elected officials of the municipality in which the project is located.

To be eligible for the award, the project must be initiated and substantially completed during the last five years. It must be located in Lancaster County.

The award will be presented at the Lancaster County Conservation District's Annual Banquet which will be held in March. At that time, the developer, designer, and municipality will be recognized for their contributions.

More information, including guidelines and procedures can be obtained by contacting the Lancaster County Conservation District at the Farm and Home Center, Room 6, 1383 Arcadia Road, Lancaster 17601; telephone 717/299-5361.

Walter places sixth in livestock contest

YORK — The York County Livestock Judging team participated in the eastern region judging contest at Atlantic Rural Expo in Richmond, VA last week. Brenda Walter was high individual in swine judging and was sixth high individual in the contest. The York County team, representing Pennsylvania 4-H, was second in swine judging with a score of 531 points. The Virginia state team won the swine judging with 541 points.

The York county team placed fourth in sheep judging with a score of 376, Georgia was 1st with 408 points.

In the overall contest York county's team was fifth with 1702 points and Virginia won the contest with 1786 points. The team is composed of Chris Sunday, York R1; Laurie Dobrosky, Glen Rock; Leroy Bowles, Red Lion; and Brenda Walter, Airville. The team was accompanied by Bill Holloway, Seven Valleys and Tony Dobrosky, Glen Rock, team trainers. The team will compete in the Eastern National Contest on Oct. 1 and the Keystone Judging Contest on October 3.

Scientists win grant to study poultry bronchitis

NEWARK, Del. — Two University of Delaware poultry virologists, Jack Gelb, Jr., and John K. Rosenberger, have received a $40,000 national competitive grant to study infectious bronchitis, a respiratory disease of chickens.

Gelb, a researcher at the Delaware Agricultural Experiment Station, says respiratory tract infections are a major problem of poultry producers.

A recent broiler industry survey estimates that infectious bronchitis and other diseases of the respiratory tract are a constant health threat and economic problem costing well over $8 million a year on the peninsula alone.

Infectious bronchitis may well have as much economic impact on the poultry industry as infectious Newcastle disease, says the scientists. It is an explosive disease in broilers, with a short incubation period. It spreads rapidly and no treatment is possible during its acute stage because the virus does not respond to antibiotics or other medication.

Because it weakens their natural defenses, bronchitis leaves birds vulnerable to secondary infections. It is believed to be one of the agens that causes air sac disease, a complicated condition which affects both growth and condemnation rates in broilers. In hens, the virus can also cause oviduct damage, thus affecting table egg production.

There are three diseases for which chickens are routinely vaccinated-Newcastle disease, Marek's disease, and infectious bronchitis.

Unlike the first two, which have only one kind of infection-causing antigen and so require only one kind of vaccine, the bronchitis virus has at least 10 or 12 variant forms, or serotypes, each capable of causing infection.

Though chickens in commercial production are immunized for one or two of these serotypes, they can still contact bronchitis if they are exposed to any other variants.

Gelb and Rosenberger's grant is to study how these variant viruses occur. Scientists think that bronchitis in chickens may resemble influenza in humans in that the virus is always taking new forms, each slightly different.

When a new flu serotype develops and causes a disease outbreak, such as the Hong King strain a few years ago, it may run rampant until a vaccine can be developed for its control. A similar situation may occur with infectious bronchitis.

There are several theories about how new bronchitis stains emerge, but very little is actually known. The work is difficult to do because it involves serotyping, is isolating and identifying, each form of the virus.

Gelb is one of a handful of scientists in the U.S. now working with this technique. It is a time-consuming, expensive process most people don't want to tackle.

He says the challenge is to develop experimental procedures that will allow for valid interpretation of the results. This is basic research for which the present three-year grant is just a start.

"We hope to make the University of Delaware a significant contributor in the area of infectious bronchitis serotyping as it already is in some other areas of poultry disease research," says the virologist.

"If we can get an idea of how these viruses emerge, it may be easier to control infectious bronchitis in the field. Because of the density of broiler production on Delmarva, there's a tremendous opportunity for new serotypes to develop."

While studying another disease-air sacculitis-with fellow Experiment Station researchers, Gelb has already succeeded in isolating five bronchitis serotypes, including two "rather interesting" isolates.

"We feel present-day vaccines do not protect against these two," he says. "We're exploring virgin territory here, as far as any previous research is concerned."

If young broilers in the field are infected with one of the variant forms of the virus he's found, he can confirm this a few weeks later by using the new isolates to challenge live birds from a broiler house.

If birds are already immune, this would imply previous infection by these variant serotypes.

This, in turn, could mean that these forms of infectious bronchitis are contributing to poor growth rates and condemnation from air sac and other diseases on Delmarva. If this is the case, says the virologist, we may need to develop a new vaccine.

While conducting research on this project, Gelb and Rosenberger will be working with fellow scientists in the department of animal science and agricultural biochemistry.

They will also work closely with Paul Allen of the University's poultry diagnostic laboratory at the Georgetown Station, as well as with various industry representatives.

Ag chemical head hits handling of nitrites issue

WASHINGTON, D.C. — A top spokesman for agricultural chemicals Tuesday cited the federal government's flip-flop handling of the nitrites issue as another example of regulation by emotion rather than by sound science.

Jack D. Early, President of the National Agricultural Chemicals Association, offered this view at a House Agriculture Committee hearing called primarily to cross-examine witnesses from the U.S. Department of Agriculture and Food and Drug Administration for their abortive 1978 decision to move against nitrites based on data which was later provide scientifically unsound.

In his criticism of the government's handling of now-vindicated nitrites, Early testfied that "what is so very distrubing in this issue is the unscientific handling of scientific information by regulatory officials responsible for making societal decisions."

Early offered two recommendations for improvement in federal procedures for the regulation of suspect cancer-causing chemicals:

Modify the 1958 Delaney Clause to allow regulators to evaluate benefits as well as risks of suspect chemical carcinogens.

Place responsibility for determination of carcinogenic potential with a "properly constituted scientific group devoid of any regulatory responsibility."

Fulton Grange hears national women's committee leader

OAKRYN — Fulton Grange No. 66 observed Community Night Monday, commencing with a covered dish dinner.

The Lecturer, Mrs. Howard W. Miller, Jr., was in charge of the special program which began with group singing, accompanied by Mrs. Richard Lefever, "America The Beautiful."

Mrs. Miller then presented certificates from the National Grange and pins from Fulton Grange for continuous membership to the following: for 25 years — Mrs. Estil Vandament, Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Sheetz; for 50 years — Martin H. Eshleman. Also honored were: Mrs. Dorothy Fitzsimmons, Miss Helen Lamborn, Charles McSparran and Lewis Good for 55 years; and Norman Wood for 65 years. Mrs. Vandament, Martin Eshleman, Charles McSparran and Norman Wood each gave brief remarks.

Mrs. William Buffington, Lecturer of the Pennsylvania State Grange and chairman of the National Grange Women's Activities Committee, was the speaker.

She particularly emphasized community service, legislative and women's activities in the Grange. Stating that the Grange orgainization is 113 years old and has a membership of over 500,000 in the United States, she noted, it has always been and still is very active in legislation from local to national levels. It is a grass-roots organization, policies starting with the Subordinate Granges and acted upon by County, State and National Grange, she said.

It is a family fraternity and from its inception women were on a level with men. Women promote sewing and needlework contests in the Grange and ssist with the many other activities such as working for the deaf. The Grange was the first organization to have a song book printed in sign language. They also offer scholarships for workers with the deaf.

Citing just a few examples of Grange community service, senior citizens and other community groups meet in Grange halls. Medical health centers have been started by Granges. Education has been fostered and talents promoted.

Mrs. George Hough exhibited an oil painting in the art contest which will compete in the State Grange contest.

Thomas C. Galbreath, master, presided at a short business session and gave a report of attending the Young Marrieds weekend at Edgewater Acres.

The tour committee reported the bus going to Annapolis, Md. October 1 is full and they may also take a van. They will leave Quarryville at 7:15 a.m. and Fulton Grange Hall at 7:45 a.m.

Grangers signed a petition circulated by the American Mushroom Industry which will go to President Carter asking him to limit mushroom imports to 32 percent of the prior yearly consumption.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Everett Kreider will represent Fulton grange at the Pa. State Grange session in Lewistown October 27 to 30.

William Buffington, Kennett Grange No. 19, Chester County, gave some remarks.

The new officers will hold a meeting at the Grange Hall Tuesday, September 30, 7:30 p.m.

It was announced that the Department of Environmental Resources and the Pa. State Grange will hold a joint meeting at Lower Swatara Township Building on route 441 Monday, September 29, 7:30 p.m. to which farmers are invited. It will deal with the effect of TMI on agricultural land. New officers will be installed at the next meeting of Fulton Grange October 13.

Lancaster Co. Pomona Grange No. 71 will meet at Fulton Grange Hall Saturday, October 18, 8 p.m.

Cost sharing available to Carroll County farmers

WESTMINSTER, Md. — Farmers in the northwest section of Carroll County, Md., can now receive up to 75 percent cost sharing for installing measures to control animal waste and sediment pollution problems under the new, experimental Double Pipe Creek Rural Clean Water Program.

Maryland was one of 13 states to have its application for an RCWP project approved and was among the first three states to receive funding. Congress approved about $3.9 million to provide technical and cost-sharing assistance to farmers in the area to clean up pollution problems over the next 10 years.

The program is administered by the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service through farmer-elected Carroll County ASC Committee. Technical assistance and other support is provided by the Soil Conservation Service, Carroll County Soil Conservation District, Extension Service, Maryland Department of Health and Mental Hygiene, and other interested groups

According to Randy Bachtel, SCS soil conservationist, the purpose of the program is to provide an incentive for farmers to correct pollution problems voluntarily Many of the practices that have been approved for cost sharing, he added, are also time saving and energy efficient.

Under the program, farmers can receive up to a maximum of $50,000 to install any of 11 approved best management practices. Of the 1,195 farmers in the project area, about 290 are considered as "critical" areas and have been targeted to have water quality plans developed.

Bachtel said that the goal of the program over the next 10 years is to install 115 agricultural waste management systems; 50,000 feet of diversion terrace; 25 farm sediment basins; and 300,000 feet of grassed waterways.

For more information contact the SCS office at 301/848-6696 or the ASCS office at 848-2780

4-H dressage show held in Maryland

GAITHERSBURG, Md. — The first Maryland State 4-H Dressage Show was held recently at the Potomac Horse Center near here. The purpose of the show was to help 4-H horse club members polish their skills in a European style of horsemanship which is becoming popular in the United States.

Laura Brotzman, 17, of Elkridge was the top performer of the day, taking both high score champion and reserve champion honors with her Morgan horse, Meleah-Oz. The pair also won first place in Open Senior Training, Level III, and Open First, Level I.

In addition, Laura used a different Morgan horse, Statesman's Mistress, to win first in Open Senior Training, Level I, and second in Open Senior Training, Level III.

Another Howard County resident, Rob O'Connor, 11, of Wilde Lake village in Columbia, placed first in both First Year Junior Training, Level I, and Open Junior Training, Level I. He was riding There's Hope.

Amber Morrison, 14, of White Hall, and her horse, Tuffy, placed first in Maiden Junior Training, Level I; they received a third-place ribbon in First Year Junior Training, Level I.

A Carroll county gal, Felicia Guarino, 15, of New Windsor, won first-place in First Year Senior Training, Level I, and placed third in Maiden Senior Training, Level I. She was riding Small Wonder.

Miss Davida Dougherty of Clarksburg (Montgomery county) served as official judge for the 4-H dressage event.

Boots and Saddles Club hears blacksmith

LANCASTER — The September meeting of the Lancaster County Boots and Saddles 4-H Horse and Pony Club was held at the home of Bud Spahn. Three junior members gave demonstration speeches: Bud Spahn on "What to Look for When Buying a Horse"; and Nadine Brown and Heather Howery on "Care of The Saddle."

Don Fisher, a local blacksmith, was guest speaker. He talked about properly trimming and shoeing horses' feet and showed how conformation faults can be corrected by proper shoeing. He ended his demonstration by trimming the feet of a yearling filly. The 4-H members had a lot of questions for Fisher.

Club members who competed at the District Horse Show were recognized. Three members qualified for the state competition by their placement at the district show: Karen Eberly, first place in Pole Bending; Kris Bach, first place in Junior Western Equitation; and Jason Watts, second place in Pony Pleasure.

Three new members from Lancaster were introduced. They are Karen Waltman, Carolyn Peterson, and Paige Schmich.

Future activities include the club's annual trail ride on October 25 and 26 at Valley Lea. Also, a Family Fun Show will be held on October 19 at the Fellenbaum Farm. Most of the classes planned are fun and games but a few equitation classes are scheduled.

The next meeting will be a costumed Halloween Party on October 31 at the home of club member Sharon Snyder.

Miles per cord (mpc) may be a new automotive operational efficiency term if Morton Fry, of the Morton S. Fry Nursery, Ephrata Township, Lancaster County, has his way.

The Fry nursery operation this week unveiled a new avenue of research in its program to increase utilization of Hybrid Poplars as a source of energy. A wood gasification unit has been installed on a 1967 Ford pickup and is being used to power the vehicle.

The unit includes a gasifier, two filters, cooler and wood chips for combustion. Carburation of the truck was changed.

Primary use for such units, according to Fry, would be generation of electricity for climate-controlled livestock confinement buildings. Then, the utility could be the standby source of electricity.

Farm income slumps in 1980

LITITZ — Even without this summer's drought, it would have been a frustrating year for U.S. agriculture, says USDA, economist George Hoffman.

The reason: farmers are keeping less of every sales dollar than they did last year.

Although the figures are far from final, forecasters expect 1980 net farm income to skid to a three-year low of $23 to $25 billion. That's down about a fourth from 1979's estimted $31 billion.

This summer's pickup in farm prices in response to the hot, dry weather helped ease the situation some, but not enough to substantially alter this year's picture, Hoffman says.

The problem is that record sales and higher average prices do farmers little good when the extra dollars fail to cover even greater increases in production expenses.

This year, farmers total production expenses may rise 10 to 12 percent from last year, Hoffman estimates. That's a stiff increase, and all the worse because it follows right on top of an 18 percent jump in farmers' 1979 expenditures.

Sharply higher costs have taxed most farmers beyond their ability to economize by cutting back or postponing purchases. Fuel expenditures and short-term interest costs may increase 30 percent or more for the year, though only modest gains are found in costs for farm-origin inputs (mostly feed and feeder livestock).

On the other side of the equation is gross farm income. Overall cash receipts to livestock and poultry producers are not expected to increase much this year. However, crop receipts may rise by a tenth, and total 1980 receipts for the farm sector will hit a new record. Government payments to producers may also rise.

However, the bottom line is that cash receipts from crop and livestock marketings will not keep pace with production expenses.

The rise in cash receipts for the entire farm sector may only total 4 to 6 percent, with receipts reaching an estimated $137 to $140 billion for 1980, Hoffman says. Adding in government payments and other income items will mean gross farm income of around $155 billion, leaving net income in the $23 to $25 billion range.

Although national net farm income is an important measure of financial returns throughout agriculture, the figure lumps all farmers together, ignoring differences in the well-being of individual farmers, Hoffman says.

Some farmers, for example, lost an entire crop-perhaps representing a whole year's income – to the summer drought, others who escaped the drought benefited from the substantial pickup in market prices. Many will continue to benefit the deterioration in overall crop prospects should add lasting price strength to several 1980 crops.

Besides weather, such factors as commodities produced, tenure and debt status, reliance on purchased inputs, and dependence on off-farm income also help determine who's hurting and who's not. Producers of wheat, corn, tobacco, and cotton will probably show the biggest gains in receipts from last year. Modest increases are expected for soybeans, fruits, vegetables, and other crops.

Likewise, the effects of higher input prices vary among crops. Energy-intensive crops have the greatest increases in cash costs. For example, cotton, sorghum, and other crops in the southwest use considerable energy for pumping irrigation water.

Similar differences apply among livestock and poultry producers, although – in general – they'll probably not do as well as crop producers in 1980. Production costs are up, and total receipts will show little to no increase this year, Hoffman says.

As noted, farm income is not the only measure of a farmer's financial situation. For instance, farm families who count on off-farm jobs for a large part of total family earnings may be less vulnerable to fluctuatons in farm income.

A third of all U.S. farms rely on off-farm jobs, for more than 90 percent of family income. These farms earn less than $2,500 in annual gross farm product sales, and, altogether, they receive less than one percent of all cash receipts going to agriculture. Over half of the farm sector s total income comes from off-farm sources.

farm sector, and unemployment has increased in many industries.

A farmer's wealth is another important factor that doesn't show up in net farm income figures. Assets and debts provide a measure of the financial position – and security – of producers.

In recent years, capital gains on farm assets have far outdistanced farm income in adding to the real weath of farmers. Although these gains don't pay the bills directly, the additional equity often becomes the collateral for credit to meet current production expenses, to finance farm expansion, and to invest in new equipment and machinery.

Farm asset values tripled during the 1970's, reaching around $920 billion this past January. Three-fourths of this value is in real estate. Asset value gains have probably slowed up this year while farm debt has likely grown at a faster rate.

Again, however, situations differ considerably among producers. In 1978, about a third of all farm assets were controlled by six percent of the farms with annual gross sales of $100,000 and over. The bottom third of all farms in terms of sales controlled only 12 percent of total assets.

On the other hand, larger farms tend to have higher debts in relation to their assets.

Debts were less than 10 percent of all assets for small farms in 1978, but over 20 percent of assets for large farms – those with sales of $100,000 and over. Also, larger producers are less likely to hve off-farm income coming in. So even small changes in farm prices and income can give large operators cash flow problems, though assets may provide financial security over the long run.

The effect of reduced cash flow also depends on the tenure of the farm operator. A well-established farmer, who bought when land prices and credit rates were lower, can better handle a debt load in lean times; this farmer can get credit more easily to cover increased production expenses. But a newer farmer who bought land at higher prices and higher interest rates, has a high debt-equity ratio.

It's harder for this farmer to get additional credit for production inputs, and there may be more cash flow problems.

Considering all the variables, among those hardest hit this year have been new entrants into soybeans, hogs, or poultry who use a high proportion of purchased inputs -- especially if they don't own their land and don't have outside income. Farmers who raise corn, wheat, cotton, or tobacco have been relatively better off, especially if they are well-established producers with a large equity base.

Is the 1980 drop in farm income a short-term problem, or is another decline next year just as likely?

"The sharp decline of 1980 appears to be an aberration in a trend, and it seems even worse because it tumbled from the relatively high net income of last year," Hoffman says.

"A lot of unusual circumstances led to this year's situation. Last year's harvests resulted in records for six out of the 10 major crops -- corn, wheat, soybeans, cotton, barley, and sorghum – an accomplishment unmatched since 1958. The bumper crops tended to keep this year's price increases modest."

In the long run, net farm income has been trending up. Moreover, each year there have been fewer farmers sharing the total. In this context, the drop in both per-farm and total net farm income in 1980 is clearly an exception.

Current prospects, though highly uncertain, suggest an improvement in net farm income in 1981.

Total meat production should be down from this year's record levels, and prices should be higher. Smaller crops and tighter grain and oilseed supplies could sharply boost farm prices. U.S. exports should continue strong, at least matching and probably exceeding this year's record value. Some recovery in the general economy could stimulate domestic demand for red meats.

However, farmers' production costs will keep rising, led by energy inputs. Land prices will also increase.

Interest rates will depend on the underlying inflation rate in the general economy, which may remain relatively high for the next several years.

EPA withdraws proposal for crop buffer zones

WASHINGTON, D.C. — In a surprise move, the Environmental Protection Agency has withdrawn its proposal for pesticide application "buffer zones."

The EPA announcement follows a meeting last week between American Farm Bureau Federation President Robert B. Delano and EPA Administrator Douglas Costle at which Delano declared the proposal "an economic, environmental and policical disaster."

The EPA proposal would have required states to enforce "buffer zones" between cotton fields and "sensitive areas" such as houses and roads.

The buffer zones, areas where pesticide applications could not be made, would have become "nonfarming" zones, where insects and weeds could thrive to reinfest adjacent crop lands.

EPA first advanced the proposal in early August "to be effective upon release." Later, the agency said it would publish the proposal in the Federal Register for public input.

Agency officials had recently implied that following the cotton action — the buffer zone idea would be extended to other crops.

Delano, in commenting on EPA's withdrawal of the proposal, said, "Farmers and ranchers recognize their responsibility to protect neighbors and the environment from pesticide drift. However, the EPA proposal was not a constructive step towards achieving that goal, and we support the agency's decision to withdraw it."

Delano pledged continued Farm Bureau support of workable pesticide application programs intended to protect farm and nonfarm needs.

Montgomery 4-H livestock team tops at Allentown

ALLENTOWN — Members from Montgomery County 4-H Livestock Club participated in a livestock judging competition at the Allentown Fair.

Members were asked to rank cattle and sheep on the basis of quality. The ten highest scores received award ribbons. There were three classes of beef cattle and three classes of sheep.

In the 4-H livestock judging, Steve McMahon of Montgomery County 4-H Club placed first, Phil McMahon, placed fourth and Jim Roth placed tenth. The combined scores enabled the Montgomery County 4-H team to score tops in the livestock judging and received a trophy for this honor.

Bradford lamb sets record

ATHENS — The second Annual Bradford County 4-H Livestock Sale was held recently at the Valley Stockyard, Inc., Athens.

According to Orville Yoder, County Agent, 17 buyers paid a total of $4,612.08 for 19 market animals.

Auctioneer for the sale was Roy Hottle of Hottles Auction Service, Wysox.

A record price of $3.80 per pound was paid for the Grand Champion Lamb owned by Melissa Horton, Ulster, and was purchased by Leona Meat Plant, Troy.

The Reserve Grand Champion Lamb owned by Robert Moore, Jr., Nichols, New York, was bought by First Bank of Troy, Troy for $2.40 per pound.

Third place lamb, owned by Jennifer Price, Hollenback 4-H, was bought by Troy Sales Co-op. for $2.20 per pound.

Fourth place lamb, owned by Melissa Horton, North Towanda 4-H Club, was purchased by Glen Shores Livestock, R5 Towanda, for $2 per pound.

Fifth place lamb, owned by Rebecca Price, Hollenback 4-H, went to Wyalusing Livestock for $2.20 per pound.

The 204 pound Grand Champion market hog, owned by Mark Urevich, Wyalusing, was purchased by Judson's Agway, Columbia Crossroads, for $2 per pound.

Michele Urevich, Wyalusing, sold her Reserve Grand Champion Market hog to Norm Shores Tractor Sales, R5 Towanda for $1.25 per pound.

Third place hog owned by Tammy Schrader, Windham, sold to Hottles Auction Sales, R2 Wysox, and fourth place hog owned by Rebecca Price, Hollenback 4-H, went to Nichols Brothers Farms, East Smithfield, for $1.21 a pound.

Fifth place hog owned by Jennifer Price, Hollenback 4-H, was purchased by Scott's Holsteins, Troy for $1.20 per pound.

The champion market beef animal was a blue ribbon heifer owned by Keith Ayres, Troy Ag 4-H. It weighed 710 pounds and was purchased by Richard Burgess, Meshoppen.

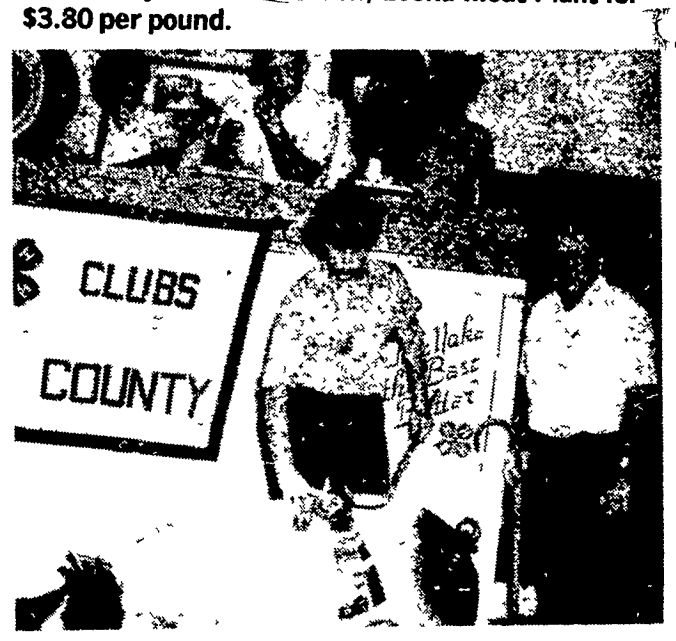
Melissa Horton's Grand Champion Market Lamb sold to buyer Chas. Debach, Leona Meat Plant for $3.80 per pound.



Mark Urevich, Wyalusing, sold his Grand Champ to Judsons Agway, Columbia Cross Roads for $2 a pound.

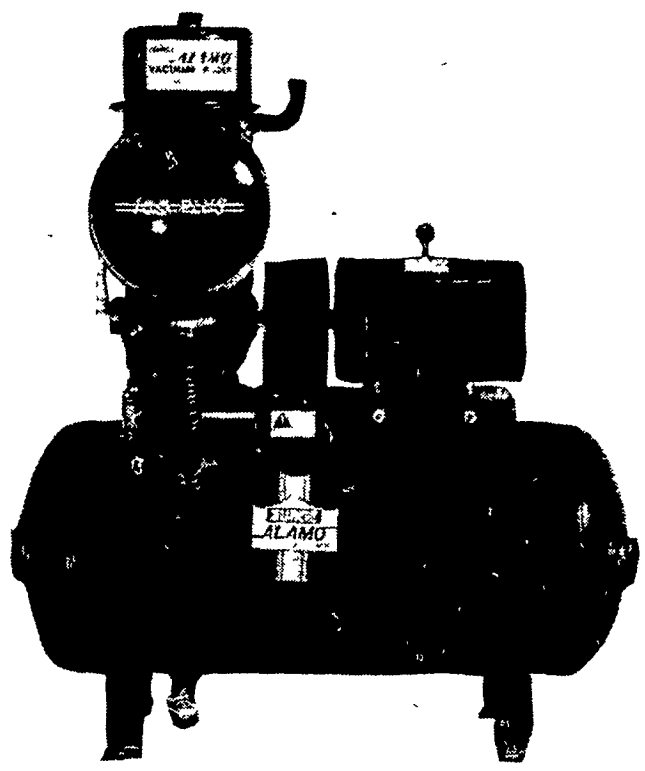
Your milking system can only be as efficient as the vacuum system behind it.

That's because your vacuum system provides the very heartbeat of your entire milking system. When it's inefficient, you're inefficient.

In the last few years, the dairy industry has compiled a great deal of new information on just how critical proper vacuum and air movement are to milking time, production, and herd health. They found vacuum pumps have to be large enough to have adequate vacuum reserve. They found vacuum lines have to be much larger than originally thought necessary. And they found that vacuum controls need to be far more efficient and placed properly if vacuum stability is to be maintained.

That's why it's so important to know exactly what kind of vacuum performance you're getting at teat end. That also explains why so many dairymen have installed dependable, high capacity Alamo vacuum systems from Surge.

Surge Alamo pumps are available in 5 different sizes. All come equipped with large oil reservoirs and continuous lubrication systems that separate used oil and exhaust from fresh oil. This protects your pump and helps it run cooler. Alamo pumps also feature exclusive filtered air intake; exclusive two-year motor warranties; and quieter, cleaner operation. And those are only some of the features that set Alamo apart.



Surge also offers the Equalizer II vacuum controller; a high efficiency unit to make sure you get maximum vacuum stability. So never make the mistake of assuming your vacuum system is working the way it should. Call your Surge dealer and make sure.

We can make your cows worth more.

SOLO's New Floating Pump 830

As the name implies, this pump floats on the water. Its water intake is positioned far away from weeds, silt and mud, right near the surface where the water is cleanest!

The engine speed regulates the output, and an automatic governor regulates the revolutions. Output can be as high as 22,000 litres - or approx. 5,800 U.S. gallons (approx. 4,800 Imp. gals) - per hour, to a total head of some 30 metres, or approx. 100 ft.

The new SOLO 830 is ideal for farmers. For "clean" water supply, out of even shallow ponds for spray solutions, (preventing spray nozzles from clogging by sand, mud, or other particles picked up by common pumps), irrigation, watering livestock, draining flooded or low areas from standing water, insect and mosquito control, pumping liquid fertilizers.

Maryland pork producers to vote on referendum

ANNAPOLIS, Md. — Maryland pork producers will be asked to vote in an important referendum set for November 10 through 12th to determine if they wish to continue a check-off for their product according to the Marketing Division of the Maryland Department of Agriculture.

According to MDA Marketing Specialist, Tom Butler, pork producers in 1975 approved a check-off system through referendum which has been carried out for the past five years. Now, they must vote on it again, for another five year period.

In addition to the question of continuing the check-off system, the pork producers are also being asked to allow the check-off levy to rise 20-cents per slaughter hog from the present five-cent rate.

Producers who wish to secure a refund can do so by applying in writing within 30 days of the assessment, thus, only those who wish to support the check-off program must contribute.

Voting will be easy as registration and voting can be done on the same day by the farmers wishing to cast ballots. Polling places will be located in each county at the County Office of the Maryland Extension Service.

The Maryland Pork Producers Association, which has called for the referendum, is on record as favoring continuation of the check-off and adoption of the proposed higher check-off assessment per hog.

Pork producers with questions about the referendum may contact one of the following MPPA officers for details: Russell G. Watson (Brandywine, Prince Georges County), MPPA President, 301-579-6844; Paul Shortall Jr., (Easton, Talbot County), Vice President, 301-822-4418; J.G. Warfield, Marriottsville, Howard County), Vice President, 301-328-2575; William Malkus (Cambridge, Dorchester County), Past President, 301-228-0768.

Milk plant workers' strike averted

SYRACUSE, N.Y. — A milk plant union workers strike which could have cost dairymen more than $1 million per day in losses was narrowly voted down Sunday.

Members of eight Teamster locals voted 225 for the contract and 199 against.

But several of the operations were solidly against ratifying the contract.

There was some question as to whether the historic precident of having the total vote of all employees determining the fate for all would be abandoned.

Union officials said they may push to have the vote talleyed at each plant and have each plant stand on its own.

Elmhurst Dairy sites at Prattsburg and Worcester, N.Y.; Empire Cheese, in Skaneateles Junction, N.Y.; and two of the three pollio Dairy plants voting all voted heavily against the contract.

Robert Forsythe, general manager of the Syracuse-based Northeast Dairy Cooperative Federation, had said the strike could have resulted in over seven million pounds of milk being dumped daily. Forsythe spoke on behalf of the milkshed's 10 major milk manufacturing plants.

Three major points were hashed out: workers' wages, pension benefits, and health and welfare contributions.

The offer made to the union by plant operators allows for an increase in the employee labor rate of 65 cents and hour this year followed by an additional 60 cents next year and a third increase of 60 cents in 1982.

That brings the total wage package to $1.85 an hour over three years.

The dairies agreed to increase the current Health and Welfare contributions from the present rate of $20 24 per employee per week to $25.24 per employee per week for 1980-81.

An additional one dollar will be given the third year to cover inflation.

Plans for the pension fund would sweeten the current $13.30 per employee per week pot to $15.30 this year and then raise it to $17.30 in 1981-82.

The offer was said to be the richest ever made to employees by this group of plant operators.

In an attempt to avert a strike, New York's Governor Hugh Carey sent a state mediator to join the federal mediator and the two sides at the bargaining table.

Talks had broken down over demands by Teamster bosses in the major areas of wage rates, pension contributions, and health and welfare fund.

Income tax course planned

LANCASTER — A three-day Introductory Income Tax Workshop for individuals interested in preparing state and federal tax returns will be held at the Lancaster Farm and Home Center on Nov. 11-13.

The three-day sessions will begin at 9 a.m. and end at 4 p.m. The course will be limited to 50 participants in order of registrations received. A $70 fee will be charged and includes the cost of noon lunches and all workshop materials for the 1980 tax season.

The workshop, hosted by the Cooperative Extension Service, will provide basic instruction on tax management and help on preparing farm, small business and personal tax returns. A certificate will be presented to those completing the course.

Items covered will include methods of depreciation, investment tax credit, short- and long-term capital gains (sale of livestock, real estate and stocks); treatment of interest, dividends and royalties; how best to take advantage of social security benefits and related subjects.

Additional information is available from the Lancaster County Extension Office. Workshop instructors are B. Wayne Kelly, Professor of Farm Management Extension; and Jesse G. Cooper, Assistant Professor of Farm Management Extension.

Keystone Expo to open Thursday

Eight hitch sheep team to perform at show

HARRISBURG — The ewes are coming to Harrisburg, trailing a wagon behind them, October 3 and 4 during the Keystone International Livestock Exposition at the Harrisburg Farm Show Building.

It will be an event to make the Clydesdale teams a bit envious, as eight sheep will be hitched to a blue wagon and perform figure eights, change leads 90 degree turns and many other driving features – all without the use of a bit in their mouths.

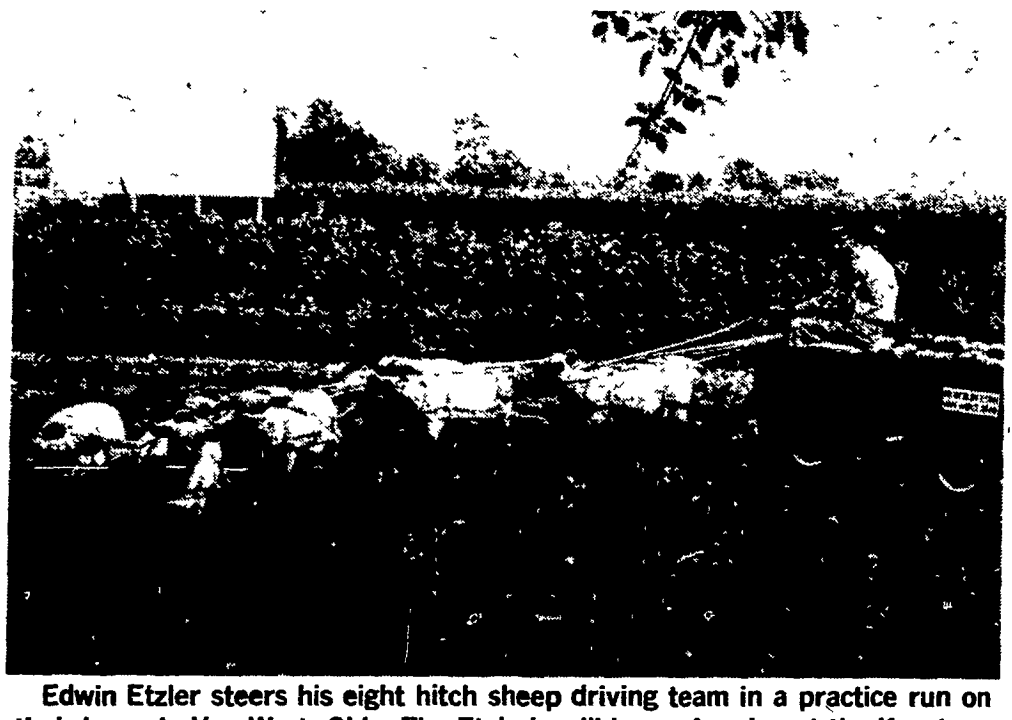
The eight hitch pure-bred Hampshire sheep driving team is owned by the Edwin Etzler Family of Van Wert, Ohio. The team will perform on the State Capitol steps, Third Street side, Friday, October 3, at 8:30 a.m. with State Agriculture Secretary Penrose Hallowell at the helm.

The team will then proceed to the Harrisburg Farm Show Building for performances Friday afternoon and all day Saturday. A special performance will be held Saturday at 2:30 p.m. in the large arena.

The unique hobby of the sheep, and idea belong to Edwin Etzler. Etzler drives either a two, four, six or eight sheep hitch.

"When I was on my father's farm," he said, "I liked driving horses and decided I would like to drive sheep. Everyone told me I was crazy, and that sheep were too dumb to learn to drive."

(Turn to Page D9)



Edwin Etzler steers his eight hitch sheep driving team in a practice run on their home in Van Wert, Ohio. The Etzler's will be performing at the Keystone International Livestock Exposition at the Harrisburg Farm Show Complex October 3 and 4. The Exposition runs October 2 to 6.

Five years ago, Etzler worked with a team, and did teach them to pull a wagon. The wagon and harnesses are all custom made. Besides raising sheep for 22 years, Etzler works for a manufacturing corporation which specializes in heavy cargo-containing equipment. Etzler persuaded the business to make his harnesses and made the wagon bed, while his brother-in-law designed the wagon's running gear.

Etzler has a six sheep hitch (three teams) that are trained to pull the wagon and a team that is just learning to pull at two-years old. The lead team, featuring "Margie" and "Patty" are the original team and the most important.

"These two ewes are five years old and weigh about 175 pounds each," Etzler explained. "The wheel team is important too, as they control the wagon. The wheel team consists of "Debbie" and "Marian", four year old twins,"

The swing team features Jacqueline and Jenifer who are three years old. The spare team, two years olds, also make up the eight team hitch. The spare team carries the family tradition as Deborah is the daughter of Debbie who is in the wheel team, and Tabitha is the sister to Jacqueline, of the swing team.

Etzler trains only females to pull, starting them off when a year old. "The ewes look better when performing and to date they have participated in more than 35 parades and six county fairs."

The team has also performed at the North American International Livestock Exposition in Louisville, Kentucky for the last two years.

Etzler breeds the ewes each year, and their lambing record has been quite good. The lead team is not bred, however, because Etzler likes to always have them in driving condition.

Etzler and his wife Marilyn, who have three children, live on an eight acre farm, just outside of Van Wert, Ohio, with a flock of 31 Hampshire and Dorset ewes. Their youngest son Dan, is an active participant of his family's hobby, as he helps with the teams and does some of the driving himself.

Marilyn enjoys working with the sheep too.

"I help with the sheep – but, I'm more of a behind the scenes person," she said. "Sheep are very personable animals. Our's are a little spoiled, however, because they don't like to mingle with the rest of the sheep when we put them in the barn for the winter.

"We enjoy travelling to different areas of the country and watching the reactions of people who have never seen sheep pulling a wagon. The sheep are so gentle that we allow people to pet them when they are not performing," she said.

"We're looking forward to coming to Harrisburg October 3-4 to help celebrate Pennsylvania Livestock Month, and to kick-off the Keystone International Livestock Exposition. We hope that everyone will be able to come and see the team perform without any use of bits in their mouths. Even the Clydesdales can't do that."

Pork producers ask revision in food safety standards

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The government's recent reversal of its two year campaign against nitrites has led the National Pork Producers Council to call for a major overhaul of food safety evaluation procedures.

Testifying before the House Agriculture Committee Nitrite Review Tuesday, NPPC President Bill Buller stated, "With the Nitrite-Newberne Study controversy being put in perspetive, it is imperative that we deal with food safety procedures. Errors as we have just experienced do not only cost industry, they cost consumers. That's bad government that cannot be condoned."

The hearing was called to review the Food and Drug Administration's and United States Department of Agriculture's treatment of nitrite. Nitrite is used in the curing process to protect consumers from food poisoning. Nitrite – is especially important to the pork industry where 70% of all pork is cured, with a value of $13 billion.

On August 11, 1978, FDA and USDA proposed a phase-out of nitrite based on a rat study at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. Two years later, on August 19, 1980, the agencies announced that the pivotal MIT study had been proven wrong and nitrites were not show to be carcinogens. Since the announcement, there has been growing momentum among Congressional leaders for reform of food safety laws.

Calling the current system "outdated" and incapable of preventing mishap and abuse, the pork producer stressed, "now is the time to mandate proper performance monitoring and adequate review of results before an investigator's tentative conclusions are publicized or used as the basis for regulatory initiative."

"Congress should make clear that food safety, like transportation, environmental or any other kind of safety, is a matter of reasonableness," said Buller, "the discovery of an infinitesimal trace of a suspected carcinogen should begin rather than end the regulatory inquiry."

Although the government retraction regarding nitrites overcomes a major hurdle, the National Pork Producers Council has not closed the door on the way agency officials handled the nitrite situation. The Council is researching damages done to product image and is calling for government to make every effort to remove the cloud of suspicion left hanging over the red meat industry.

Buller said, "We have communicated with President Carter, Health and Human Services Secretary Patricia Harris, and USDA Secretary Bob Bergland asking that they inform us of their plans to repair damage done and rebuild consumer confidence in nitrite cured products. We have not heard from them yet."

"Producers and consumers deserve an answer," concluded Buller.

Perry County agent to retire

NEW BLOOMFIELD — Roy F. Snyder, senior extension agent on Penn State's extension staff, will retire January 15, 1981 as Perry County Agent.

Snyder has served Perry County farmers for 27 years.

A native of Limekiln, he was appointed to the extension staff in 1948 as assistant agent in Perry and Cumberland counties. He was promoted to Perry County agent in 1953.

Snyder received a bachelor of science degree in dairy husbandry in 1948 from Penn State and a master of arts degree in extension education from Michigan State University in 1959. He served three years as an officer in the U.S. Army Air Corps during World War II.

During his tenure in Perry County, the Dairy Herd Improvement Association testing program has more than doubled in enrollment and production per cow has increased by 75 percent.

Snyder initiated a brucellosis eradication program for county dairymen in the early 1950's. Through his leadership, brucellosis was eliminated as a major disease.

Perry County's senior extension agent Roy F. Snyder will retire as county agent after 27 years of service to country farmers.

He emphasizes efficient production of crops to support the growing dairy production. Each year more than 1000 soil samples are tested for lime and fertilizer requirements.

Snyder also has supported a strong 4-H program and has designed projects which enable members to earn money while learning new skills.

He is a member of Alpha Gamma Rho fraternity, New Bloomfield Lions Club, and the Community Grange.

In 1969 Snyder was recipient of a Distinguished Service Award from the National Association of County Agricultural Agents for his service to the state's agriculture.

Regional family seminar set in Hershey

YORK — Penn State Extension has set final plans for the Capital Region Seminar October 9 at the Hershey Convention Center.

Nineteen workshops have been planned covering family health, individual development, creativity, finance, and energy. Family workshops will include exceptional children, aging parents, children and competition, children and T.V., and family relationships.

Stress, plastic surgery, children and sports, and current food issues are the health related workshops being offered.

In the area of individual development, participants can choose from assertiveness training, the displaced homemaker, planning for the future, and home businesses. Entertaining, creating on needlework canvas, creative decorating with fabrics, and women as travelers, are the workshops on creativity and leisure time.

In addition, there will be workshops on radiating and solar homes.

Carol Mathews, energy editor of the New York Post and author of the syndicated column Money Watch will be the luncheon speaker. Her topic is "Everything has to do With the Price of Eggs."

Workshop speakers from Penn State are Manfred Kroger, Linda Shoop, Rodger Grandlund, and Michael Smyer. Glen S. Bartlett, M.D. and William S. Graham, M.D. will be speakers from the Hershey Medical Center. Other workshop speakers are Catherine Hess, M.D., Ellen Franklin, Susan Doyle, Charles Klein, Margery Andrews, Cindy Feathers, Donna Ellenberg, Paula Bresler, the Rev. Paul W. Unruh, Richard Sherr, Carol Sherr, Esther Snyder, Rie Gentzler, and Ruth Rombin.

Registration information is now available from your Penn State Extension Office. Registration is on a first come first service basis. The program is open to the public.

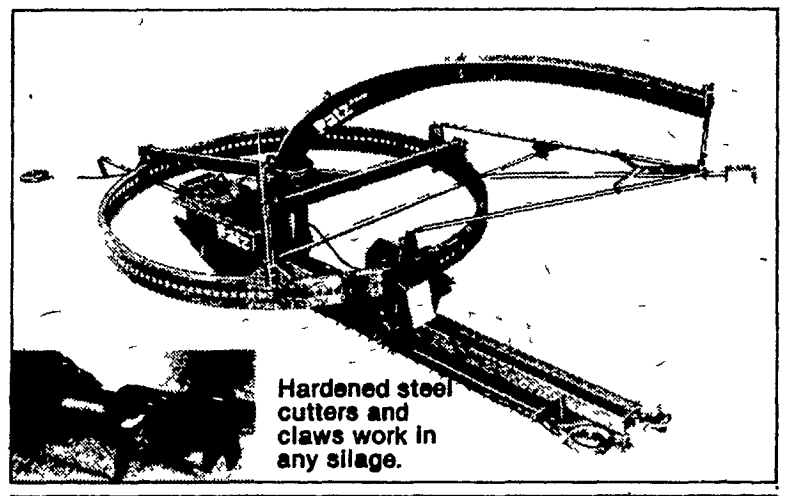
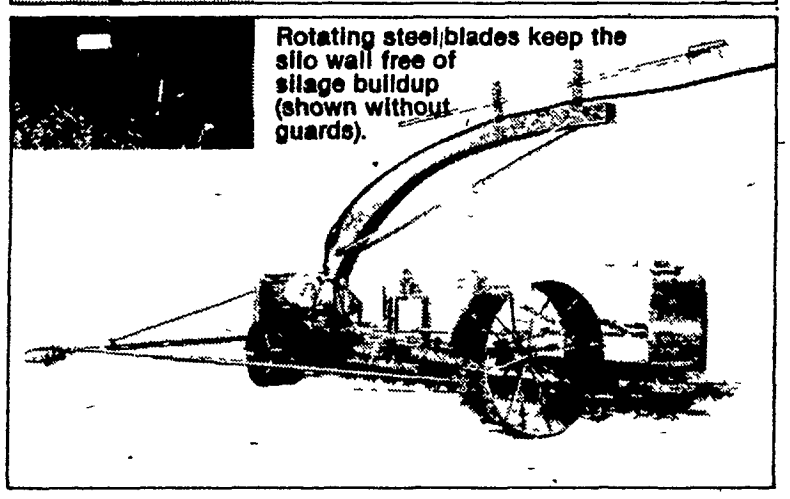
THE PATZ SOLUTION:



Hardened steel cutters and claws work in any silage.



Rotating steel blades keep the silo wall free of silage buildup (shown without guards).

Reliable Year-Round Feeding

Hard, packed and frozen silage makes feeding more than a routine chore.

Patz gives you two solutions to the problem — the RD-790 ring-drive silo unloader and the 98-B surface-drive silo unloader. Both have a double-hook gathering chain with hardened steel cutters and claws that rip through frozen and packed silage.

Patz powered silo wall cutters prevent silage build-up along the walls, so there's less wasted feed. And the claws and cutters of the gathering chain deliver a steady flow of silage day after day.

Want to know more about the Patz silo unloaders? Bring in your questions and your particular unloader needs. We'll show you how to get the most for your money . . . with Patz.

Eastern hears outlook if Carter is re-elected

SYRACUSE, N.Y. — Eastern Milk Producers learned this week that President Carter's Re-election Committee does not plan to prepare papers on agricultural policy but rather will run on the record of the past four years.

Officials of the 4000 dairy farmer organization met with Assistant Secretary of Agriculture, Jim Webster, regarding prospective farm policy of a re-elected Jimmy Carter administration in Washington, D.C. A similar meeting was held last month with representatives of Republican presidential candidate, Ronald Reagan.

Howard McDonald, Eastern's General Manager, observed that no major change of agricultural policy seems to be forthcoming from the Carter Administration at this time.

Webster indicated the administration's support for the 80 percent of parity floor on milk price supports.

However, Joseph Mathis, the cooperative's Economist, noted that new legislation will be required as the 1977 amendments will expire on September 30 of this year. Undoubtedly, according to Mathis, the mood of Congress has had some impact on this apparent change in attitude by Secretary of Agriculture, Bergland and others.

"Should this change after the election in November, it will be interesting to see what pressures are brought to bear on the dairy industry to change the milk price support program under the 1981 Agricultural Act", said Mathis.

McDonald reported the Administration's present support of farmer cooperatives and the Capper-Volstead Act would likely continue as well as general support for the Federal Milk Marketing Order Program.

The Assistant Secretary of Agriculture indicated that the Carter administration will undertake a study of imports and if warranted will ask to reopen the investigation of the casein issue.

Casein is a milk derivative and a subsidized agricultural commodity which appears to be undermining the support program, the price structure and the market for dairy products. Webster stated that some form of quota, countervailing duty, or other restraint may be imposed.

Although there appears to be no major shift in the Admininstration's policy on the School Lunch and the School Milk Programs, Mathis belives that these programs will continue to be used as political footballs as they have throughout much of their existence.

McDonald summed up the meeting by saying that "The Carter Administration will likely continue to be supportive of the agricultural policies we have experienced during the past four years".

He further stated that regardless of who wins the presidential election in November, the climate will change thereafter and Eastern and other agricultural organizations will have to actively pursue their interests in the continuing process of agricultural policy formation in the months to come.

Others in attendance from Eastern's delegation included the cooperative's president, Stanley Korona, from Amsterdam, New York, Director Victor Brooks, Warwic, New York, Arden Tewksbury, an assistant to McDonald, and Leo Connor, Director from Bridport, Vermont, who had arranged the session through Vermont Senator Patrick Leahy.

Springtown 4-H to elect officers

SPRINGTOWN — At 7:30 p.m. on Friday, October 3 the Springtown 4-H Club will meet in the Springtown Firehouse for the election of officers for 1980-81.

After a short business meeting, the club and guests will view the twenty minute color movie The Story of Hoover Dam.

Young people ages 8 to 19 are invited to attend this meeting and learn what 4-H is all about. Those who begin attending this month can become members in time to participate in projects for Spring Roundup.

The club's annual Halloween party will be held during the November 7 meeting.

State foods exposition set for October 3-5

BENSALEM — If you like the Phillie Phanatic, you'll love the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture's seven agri-animals. Be sure to see those seven lovable costumed characters – To-To Tomato, Eggatha, King Arthur Apple, PA Spuds, Corny Cornelius, Marton the Milk Carton and the Mushroom Munchkin – at the Pennsylvania Agricultural Foods Exposition at the Keystone Race Track in lower Bucks County October 3, 4 and 5 from 11 a.m. to 8 p.m. daily.

When a six-foot costumed character talks, children listen. The agri-animals are great entertainers with the kids as they hand out recipes and samples of their products.

Each agri-animal has its own story to tell and each represents an important segment of Pennsylvania's diverse agricultural bounty. All of the farm commodities represented by the agri-animals are important to a well-balanced diet.

Eggatha, "Queen of Eggdom," represents Pennsylvania's economical, versatile and very nutritious egg. The Keystone State ranks third in the nation in the production of table eggs. Be sure to take a taste of her famous Egg Pick-up Drink!

To-To Tomato, a voluptous red character, boasts that Pennsylvania is among the top ten states for tomato production. Whether talking about green wrap tomatoes from the field or the bright red main ingredient in sauces made in our many food processing plants, To-To Tomato is proud of them all.

The bright red character with a crown on his head is, of course, King Arthur Apple. He represents the nutritious apples of Pennsylvania. One of his favorite questions is, "What is red, yellow and green and grows on trees?" The answer, a Pennsylvania apple. The commonwealth ranks fifth nationally in apple production.

Waving his six-shooter, PA Spuds tells children how great Pennsylvania's spuds really are. Pennsylvania ranks eighth in the production of fall potatoes. PA Spud's only problem is deciding how to cook his product, versatile as it is.

Corny Cornelius is truly outstanding in her field. This giant ear of corn, complete with corncob pipe, advocates the virtues of Pennsylvania corn. Although most of Pennsylvania's corn is grown for the dairy and livestock industry, Corny Cornelius favors delicious Pennsylvania sweet corn fresh from the field. Pennsylvania ranks sixth in the production of sweet corn.

Marton the Milk Carton is looking for a giant straw. The agri-animal is proud to boast about "nature's most perfect food." Pennsylvania is world famous for its dairy industry, which ranks second in ice cream and frozen dairy products and fifth in milk production.

The Mushroom Munchkin has an exciting story to tell about his commodity as well. How many other Pennsylvania farm products are grown UNDER ground? Pennsylvania products more mushrooms than any other state.

Pennsylvania agriculture is truly growing better, and the agri-animals have a lot to boast about. While they are geared for the kids, to help acquaint them with these fine products, many adults can be found sidling up to them too. Meet our agri-animals and get a taste for Pennsylvania agriculture.

The Foods Expo will also feature a farmers market and food booths with fresh farm foods, a day on the farm with livestock and farm demonstrations, dairy princesses and food queens, food demonstrations, a petting zoo and hayrides for the kids, food processors with Pennsylvania's finest prepared foods and bluegrass, country, ethnic and string bands each day.

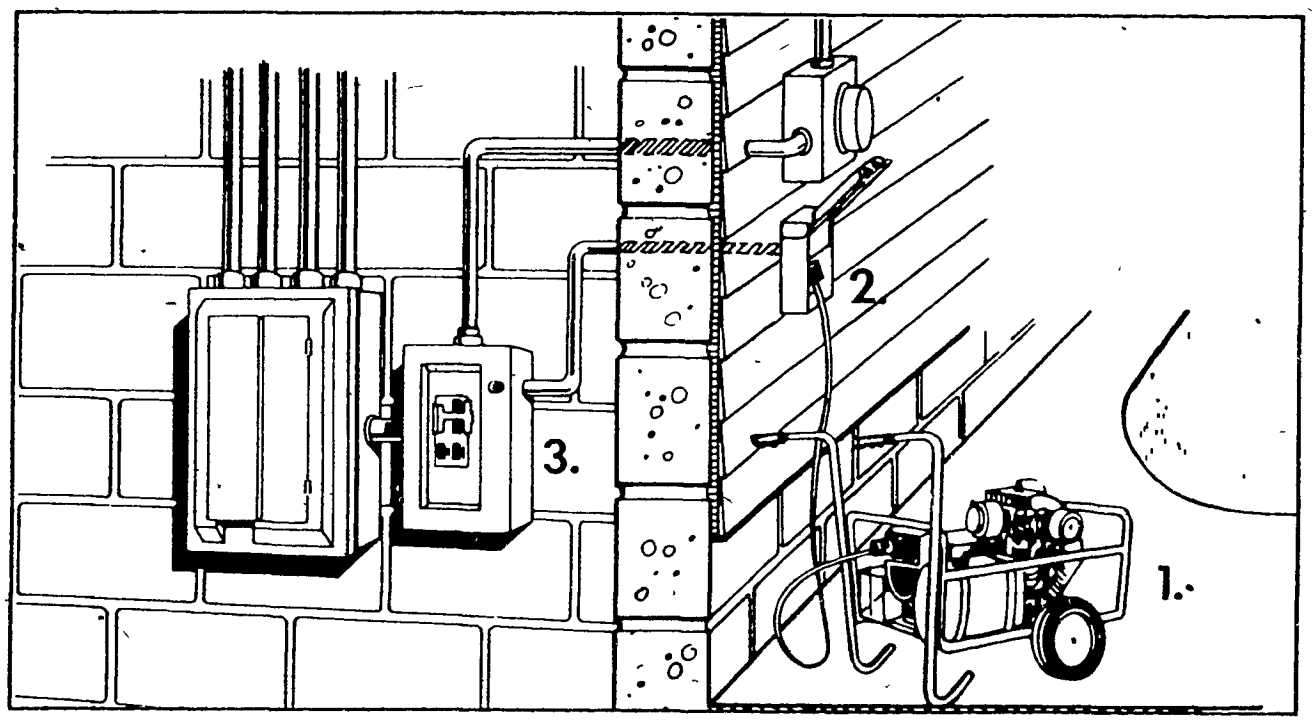
How to protect your home during a power blackout

A Kohler Powerhouse Generator with optional Emergency Power Kit (connection box and transfer switch) puts electricity directly into the circuitry of your home. Now you can power essentials like the furnace, refrigerator, freezer, sump pump, and water pump with power to spare for appliances and lights.



1. Powerhouse Generator.
Choose 3500 watt or 5000 watt Kohler Powerhouse generator with manual or electric start to power your home. Produces 120/240 volt electricity. Powered by long-life Kohler cast-iron engine.

2. Connection Box.
The Kohler weatherproof outdoor connection box accepts the power cord from the generator. Installed on the exterior of your home, it permits generator power to flow to the Transfer Switch.

3. Transfer Switch.
Kohler's safety interlock switch transfers the circuitry of your home from "normal" line power to the emergency power source — your generator. The switch permits line power and emergency power to enter the circuitry, but not both at the same time.

Local Juniors bring home champs

BY SHEILA MILLER

HARRISBURG — Over 700 dairy animals paraded across the floor of the large arena here at the Farm Show Complex on Monday as the 25th Pennsylvania Junior Show kicked off the biggest week of dairy exhibitions in the state.

R. Steven Kauffman, 18, of R1 Elizabethtown, Lancaster, won the 4-H Holstein junior championship with "Penn Spring Milestone Ada," a junior yearling.

In the Junior Holstein shows, competition was stiff with over 300 animals vying for the the titles of grand champion.

Judge John Rinehart, of Taneytown, Maryland, tagged two Holstein grands — one for 4-H and one for FFA.

Eddie Breckbill,19, R1 Oxford, Chester County, exhibited his three-year-old cow, Breck-A-De Linda Tippy Sue to a blue ribbon in her class of 3 and 4 year olds. She was selected as the Best Uddered Cow in her class and then went on to be selected as the Senior Champion. The daughter of Edeal Pinonia Matt Tippy was then pinned Grand Champion.

Breckbill was recognized as the First Place Owner-Breeder in his class and received Master Fitter and Showman honors.

Following Breckbill's entry for the Reserve Senior Champion and Reserve Grand Champion honors was Kenneth Beiler's aged cow. The Mifflinburg youth's Holstein was the first place entry in her class.

Lancaster County's John Zimmerman, R1 Ephrata, exhibited his senior yearling

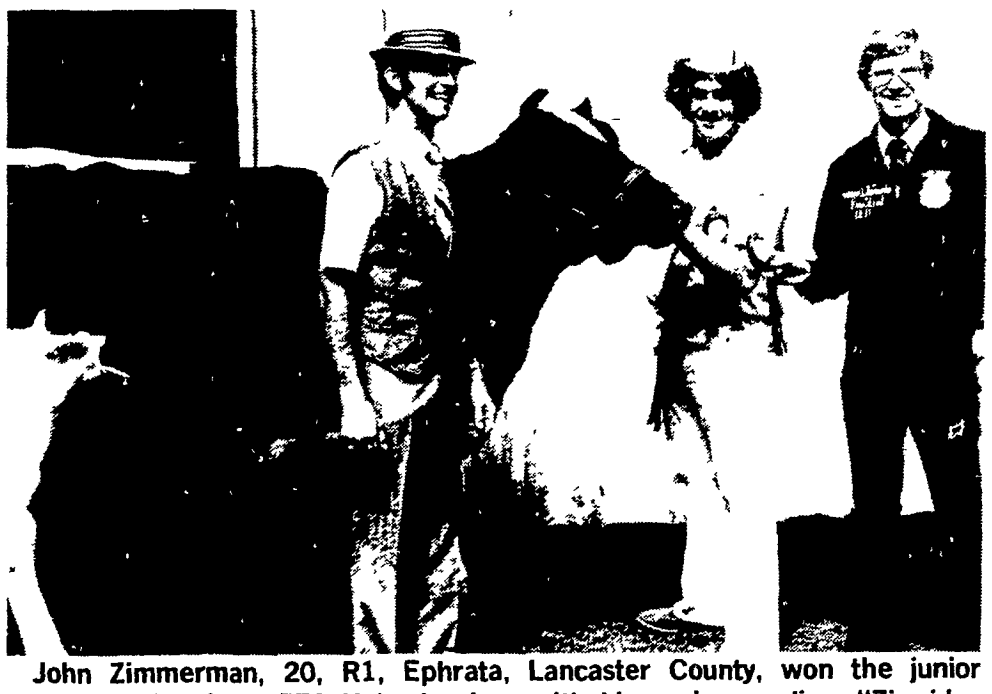
John Burket, 16, of East Freedom, Blair County, captured the grand and senior championships in a 4-H Holstein judging competition at the 25th Pennsylvania Junior Dairy Show with "Burket Falls Elevation Sophia," a 6-year-old. The animal was sired by "Round Oak Rag Apple Elevation." Making the trophy presentation is Mike Weiner of the Pa. Holstein Assn.



John Zimmerman, 20, R1, Ephrata, Lancaster County, won the junior championship of the FFA Holstein show with his senior yearling, "Zimridge Penstate Honey Sheri".

William Henley, 15, of R1, Cochranville, Chester County, won the grand and senior championships in Ayrshire judging competition at the 25th Pennsylvania Junior Dairy Show with "Tower View Kelly's Heather," a 6-year-old cow. This marks the fifth straight year that the Henley entry has won the grand championship in state youth competition. Also pictured are Judge John McKitrick and Harold Kulp, Pa. Ayrshire Assn. President.

Eddie Breckbill, 19 years old, of R1, Oxford, Chester County, won the FFA Holstein senior championship and the grand championship with his 3-year-old cow, "Breck-A-De Linda Tippy Sue."
Also pictured is John Rinehart, judge.

to a blue ribbon in her class and then on for the Junior championship. Zimridge Penstate Honey Sheri, a daughter of Penstate Ivanhoe Star, is one of Zimmerman's 30 head of registered Holstein cattle.

In the 4-H Holstein show, John Burket, East Freedom, Blair County, exhibited his aged cow for the grand championship trophy. Burket Falls Elevation Sophia was tagged Senior Champion and was the first place and best uddered cow in her class. She is a daughter of Round Oak Rag Apple Elevation.

Adam's County's Christine Gitt, R2 Littlestown, led her three-year-old Holstein, Penn-Gate Jetstar Queen to a blue ribbon in her class before taking the Reserve Senior and Reserve Grand championships. Gitt also received recognition as Master Fitter and Showman.

Steven Kauffman, R1 Elizabethtown, Lancaster County, exhibited his junior yearling, Penn Spring Milestone Ada and was tagged Junior Champion by Judge Runehart. Kauffman was selected as the First Place Owner-Breeder in his class, along with being chosen as Master Fitter and Showman.

In the colored breed shows, several local dairy breeders competed and won the top honors for their breed entries.

In the Brown Swiss show,

Michelle Lusk, 12, of R2, Charleroi, Washington County, captured the grand and senior championships in Jersey judging competition at the 25th Pennsylvania Junior Dairy Show with her 4-year-old cow, "Superbs Roasted Peanut." Making the presentation are Pa. Secretary of Agriculture Penrose Hallowell; Stephanie Kocher, Pa. Jersey Queen and Judge John McKitrick.

Reserve grand and reserve senior Guernsey champion, a 4-H entry, "Bo Joy W Babs," a 4-year-old, was exhibited by Mary Ann Witmer, 14, of R1, Willow Street, Lancaster County.

Gary Mase, 18, of Lebanon County captured the Grand and Senior Champion rosettes with his four-year-old entry, Alaric Pavanne FIA. Mase was selected as Master Showman during his class competition. He is a member of the Little Dutchman FFA chapter.

Tina Rutter, York County, had a good day on Monday and took home the Grand and Senior Champion and the Reserve Junior Champion of the 25th Pa. Junior Dairy Show in the Guernsey breed.

Her five-year-old entry, Rutter Bros. Pals Faith, was the first place and best uddered aged cow and was later pinned Senior and Grand Champion for the second consecutive year. Her senior yearling, Rutter Bros. Pals Wendy, was picked as the Reserve Junior Champion.

Rutter received honors for Master Fitter and Showman for both of her animals, along with First Place Owner-Breeder for her senior yearling.

Lancaster County's Mary Ann Witmer, R1 Willow Street, took the Reserve Senior and Reserve Grand Championship with her four-year-old Guernsey, Bo Joy W Babs. Witmer was recognized as Master Fitter during her class competition.

In the Ayrshire show, William Henley, R1 Cochranville, Chester County, and his aged cow were selected by Judge John McKitrick, Columbus, Ohio, as Grand Champion. Tower View Kelly's Heather, was also tagged Senior Champion and was the best uddered cow in her class. Henley was picked as Master Showman.

This marks the fifth straight year that Henley has won the grand champion honors in the state's Junior competition.

York County's Scott Cooper, from R2 Delta, took home the Reserve Senior and Reserve Grand Champion at Monday's Junior Ayrshire show. His three-year-old Melody Lane Silver Rose was the first place entry in her class of 3 and 4 year olds, and was selected as the best uddered cow.

This was Cooper's first year in FFA competition, although he's been competing in 4-H dairy shows for seven years. The 14-year-old member of the Kennard-Dale FFA chapter was chosen as Master Showman.

Two other area Ayrshire competitors took the Junior Champion and Reserve Junior Champion honors respectively.

Sherry Keefer, R1 Millersburg, Dauphin County, exhibited her 4-H junior yearling for a blue ribbon in her class, outranking Susan Kulp, of Pottstown, Chester County and her first place senior yearling for the top Junior honors. Kulp was selected as First Place Owner-Breeder in her class, and both girls were selected as Master Fitters.

In the Milking Shorthorn show, Berks County's Yoder sisters from Shoemakersville swept the championships from Junior to Grand.

Wendy Yoder exhibited both the Grand and Reserve Grand Champion cows, the first and second place animals in the class of 3 and 4 year olds. She also had the Junior Champion Milking Shorthorn, her junior yearling. Both champions were her FFA entries, with the Reserve Grand Champion her 4-H entry.

Sister Nedra Jo's senior yearling was selected as the Reserve Junior Champion of the Monday morning show.

Poultry leaders to advise on panel

LANCASTER — The Secretary of Agriculture has retained the General Conference Committee of the National Poultry Improvement Plan as an official advisory committee on poultry health to the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

This is the only advisory committee whose members are elected by the affected industry rather than being appointed by the Secretary, according to P.R. "Bobby" Smith, Assistant Secretary of Agriculture for Marketing Services. Smith said that the committee must be renewed every two years.

The members for this term are Baxter C. Newton, Wisconsin Department of Agriculture, Madison, Wisc.; Monte Frazier, Arbor Acres Farm, Glastonbury, Conn.; Don Zander, H & N Research Laboratory, Redmond Wash · Ken A Holleman, South Carolina Poultry Improvement Assn., Clemson, S.C.; Floyd A. Golan, Texas A & M University, College Station, Texas; Clifford L. Nelson, Iowa State University, Ames, Iowa; and Lee Arrendale, Fieldale Corp., Baldwin, Ga.

NPIP members study problems relating to poultry health and make recommendations to USDA about ways the department may assist the poultry industry.

NPIP is a voluntary state-federal program administered by USDA's Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service. The work of the plan is conducted in the participating states by official state agencies.

NPIP was organized in 1935 to coordinate individual state and industry efforts to control certain egg-transmitted and hatchery-disseminated poultry diseases, especially pullorum and fowl typhoid. A continuing effort is being made to eliminate other egg-transmitted and hatchery-disseminated diseases of poultry.

Notice of the Secretary's intent to continue the committee appeared in the September 2 Federal Register.

"Sycamore Meade Billy's Bobbie," a junior yearling Ayrshire shown by Sherry Keefer, 9, of R1, Millersburg, Dauphin County, won the junior championship.

Lawrie to drive in 4-H nationals Sunday

OXFORD — Doug Lawrie of Oxford, will compete Sunday in the national 4-H tractor driver contest to be held at the 30th Eastern U.S. Engineering Event in Richmond, Virginia.

Lawrie competed at Ag Progress Days in the State 4-H and FFA Tractor Driving Contest against other 4-H tractor drivers from throughout the state in driving skills and knowledge of how a tractor operates and safety procedures.

The many hours of work and patience paid off for Doug when he came home with first in the state. At present he is anxiously looking forward to September 22, when he leaves on his all-expense paid trip to the Nationals.

Greek family dominates dairy show

YORK — The FFA dairy show at the York Fair was in danger of becoming a family affair last week as Patty and Leonard Greek of Red Lion dominated several class placings.

Winner of the Holstein junior calf show was Patty Greek.

Second place went to Barb Kilgore, Red Lion. Third place went to Jim Heller, Kennerdell.

In the intermediate calf class first place went to Leonard Greek.

First place in the senior calf class went to Patty Greek. Second place went to Peter King, Red Lion.

Senior yearling title went to Gary Crowl, Red Lion.

Junior champion was the first place senior champion. Reserve champion was the first place junior calf.

In the two year old class of Holsteins, first place went to Gary Crowl, Red Lion. Second place went to Patty Greek.

Three year old champion was Barb Kilgore, Red Lion.

Brown Swiss junior and reserve grand championships went to Greg Fantom, Kennerdell. Greg Fantom took the senior and grand championship.

Top fitter was Barb Kilgore. Champion showman in the ring was Peter King.

Chester 4-H Fair held

DOWNINGTOWN — The Downingtown Famers Market hosted the Chester County 4-H Fair, recently and donated prize money for the 4-H Club exhibits. First prize was awarded to: Heel and Sit Dog Club; and West Sadsbury Community Club; second to Northern Chester County Horse Club and Trailmasters Horse Club; third, Che-Del-Be Dairy Goat Club and Swine Club.

Exhibitors represented 11 of the countys' 44 clubs. 4-H members and leaders were involved over the weekend in various activities at the fair: project roundup and judging, square dancing, sheep blocking and shearing, pony rides, dog obedience demonstrations and fashion show.

County Commissioners Earl Baker and Patrick O'Donnell presented the Friends of 4-H awards at the fair to those who have contributed time, money, and skill to the clubs.

Efficient swine herd earns FFA trip

MIFFLINBURG — A salesman's chance visit launched Daryl Beiler on a job that he loves and that has made him one of four finalists in a national awards program.

The 1979 Mifflinburg Area High School graduate has a hog finishing enterprise involving some 1800 animals per year. The operation has earned him the right to compete for the national Future Farmers of American swine production proficiency award in Kansas City, Missouri, in November.

"It all started in August of '78 when a salesman from Rhoads Mill in Selinsgrove visited our farm," explained Beiler. "He was talking about raising hogs by contract, and I got interested in it."

Mifflinburg FFA member Daryl Beiler checks the automatic feeding system in his hog confinement building. Beiler is one of four finalists who will compete in the area of swine production in the National FFA Proficiency Awards Program in November.

Under such a contract, the feed mill supplies the pigs and feed to a grower, who cares for the animals until they are sold. The grower is guaranteed two cents per pound of net growth per pig and 75 percent of any profit realized.

By the following February, Beiler had financed a building which could hold 640 animals through the Farm Credit Association and entered into a contract with the mill. He finished three batches of 640 pigs in 12 months, marketing the animals directly to the packer to minimize commission fees and hauling expenses.

Daryl Beiler

By June of 1980, Beiler terminated the mill contract and began purchasing crossbred hogs from local farms. To achieve a better cash flow, he changed to finishing six batches of 320 animals per year.

Earlier this year, Beiler earned a first place state FFA proficiency award in swine production, then went on to capture first place in North Atlantic regional competition. He will compete with three other national finalists from Minnesota, Alabama, and Colorado during the 53rd FFA National Convention November 10 to 14 in Kansas City.

One and one-half days of interviews and a review of his application and farm records dating back to ninth grade await the 18-year-old candidate. He must also submit a slide presentation on his operation.

"The awards committee considers the scope and efficiency of the enterprise," explained FFA advisor Glenn Spangler. "It also looks at what a person has learned and where he's headed."

Efficiency is a major goal set by Beiler, who hopes to finish his animals on average at 220 pounds per pig finished, reduce death loss to one to two percent, and achieve a feed conversion of 3.2 pounds of feed per pound of weight gain.

"I'll set new goals when these are reached," he added.

By August of 1981, he hopes to have his own feed grinding operation and someday to farm about 300 acres to supply his own feed.

Md. farmers can obtain drought aid

ANNAPOLIS, Md. — Maryland Secretary of Agriculture, Wayne A. Cawley, Jr., reminds all farmers who have suffered crop losses due to heat and drought that the full range of applicable USDA loan and low yield payment programs are now operational in Maryland.

"I have been informed by the regional office of the Farmers' Home Administration that seven Maryland counties have been declared disasters. These counties are Caroline, Talbot, Queen Annes, Somerset and Wicomico on the Eastern Shore, and Carroll and Frederick on the Western Shore.

"FmHA further has informed me that Dorchester County will be added to the list within a matter of days," he said.

"In addition, a number of other counties are now being considered and will likely be so designated. In particular, St. Marys, Calvert, Charles and Prince Georges in which assessments of actual losses are now being concluded as the tobacco and corn harvest seasons wind down. This information is not yet available.

"The programs of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service are now activated statewide as they do not depend on an entire county being declared a disaster area. The Maryland ASCS Office already has 1051 low yield claims being processed in regards to corn crops.

"They also are ready to process applications for emergency feed assistance from farmers, notably dairymen and cattlemen, who have suffered heavy (greater than 40 percent) loss of hay, pasture and feed grain crops."

"Therefore, any farmer who has been hard hit this year by the heat and drought should contact his local FmHA and ASCS office to discuss his particular situation and his eligibility for assistance.

"The paperwork wheels are turning smoothly and FmHA and ASCS are ready to go to work. So, farmers shouldn't hesitate to go in and talk to them as soon as possible," Cawley concluded.

THINK Cheese FOR THE BALANCED DIET

Located on a dairy farm owned by his father, Elam, Beiler's open front hog confinement building has an automatic feeding system and liquid manure storage. A panel ventilation system regulates the temperature of the fully insulated building, whose electrical wiring and plumbing were done by Beiler.

"I really enjoy it. I wouldn't want anything else," he said. "You can plan your own schedule and do things the way you want. Your success depends on you."

Beiler's schedule involves about an 18-hour work day when one batch of hogs is marketed and the building must be cleaned and disinfected for the next batch. About an hour a day is required to monitor the automatic feeding and watering system after the hogs have been placed in the building.

Beiler also does about 85 percent of the field work on his father's farm and last year spent some 50 days traveling, speaking at banquets, and participating in leadership training conferences as the northcentral vice president of the Pennsylvania FFA Association.

Active in his local FFA chapter, Beiler served as chapter treasurer and president of the SUN Area FFA organization.

Named the chapter's Star Greenhand and runner-up for the county Star Farmer Award, he is the first Mifflinburg member to advance to the National FFA Proficiency Awards Program. He is also a member of the Mifflinburg Young Farmers Association and the Pennsylvania Farmers Association.

The swine production award is one of 22 FFA proficiency awards provided through the National FFA Foundation, Inc., and the Pfizer Company. The winners of the national awards will receive a plaque and $500 as well as the opportunity to participate in an expense-paid international study seminar.

Grain marketing strategy for drought

NEWARK, Del. — Local farmers have been wondering how to adjust their grain marketing strategy in light of this summer's severe drought, which has affected soybean as well as corn yields.

As of September 1, the prediction is for the state's corn harvest to be around 12.036 million bushels — down nearly 30 percent from last year's bumper crop of 17.034 million bushels. Soybeans, at an estimated 7 020 million bushels, are expected to be down 12 percent from last year

Growers should have taken advantage of good grain prices this summer by forward pricing part of their crop, says University of Delaware extension crops marketing specialist Carl German.

They should now be making cash sales at harvest, have met any storage needs, and be –planning ahead for marketing their 1981 crop.

By now the reason for caution in deciding how much of an anticipated crop to forward contract should be apparent. Growers who over-committed themselves in forward sales to delivery grain this fall before making sure of their yield may find themselves in a tight spot. But opportunities still exist for selling what you did produce at a good price.

A good rule of thumb is to sell at harvest during a short crop year and store at harvest during a huge one, says German. Considering the situation locally, it would be very wise to sell at least enough of your grain at harvest this year to meet operating costs and other major financial commitments.

Because of the extent of the drought, further price gains may be forthcoming. But now that harvest is in full swing in the Midwest, analysts expect to see futures prices for November and December delivery level off or actually decline in the near term

The national outlook is for a 6.5 billion bushel corn crop — still quite good, though somewhat down from last year's bumper yield.

Looking ahead to your 1981 crop, observers feel that hedgers would be wise to consider making initial sales at the $3.75 level for December corn and $8.90 and $9 for November soybeans.

Hedging programs seemed to work well for corn producers this season, says German.

Brazilian corn increase may cut soybean crop

LANCASTER — Twenty Brazilian soybean producers touring the U.S. last week told the American Soybean Association they will take advantage of their country's recently announced corn subsidy to increase corn acreage this fall.

They further indicated that they expected increased corn acreage in their country this year to hold soybean acreage at the same level as last year – the first time since the 1940s that soybean acreage has not expanded in Brazil.

A three to five percent increase in corn acres in Brazil could mean that nationally soybean acres would be unchanged or slightly below the 1979-80 level. Additional declines in overall soybean production may result as the government removes soybean production subsidies and financing incentive.

The farmers agreed that without favorable interest rates they would not apply as much expensive fertilizers and chemicals or invest in equipment for the oilseed crop.

The Brazilian farmers said increased use of soybean meal in their country's growing poultry and swine industry has encouraged the government to subsidize corn at the expense of soybean acres. The failure of Brazil to become self-sufficient in wheat is an additional reason for the shift to corn, they said nothing that wehat, doublecropped with soybeans, has not yielded well and domestic needs have required $1 billion per year in subsidized imports.

Rather than spend that money on foreigh commodities, the government has decided to invest in corn production as a substitute for wheat, the farmers explained.

They noted their government had already instituted a program allowing the use of up to 20 percent corn meal in baked goods.

The farmers agreed that they were not enthusiastic about the idea of switching production of soybeans to corn since current corn varieties available are not well adapted to the climate.

Additionally, there is a shortage of on-farm technology for corn production from planting through harvest. Average yields they said would only be about 40 bushels per acre.

Potato chip firm cited for slow pay

QUAKERTOWN — Crouthamel Potato Chip Co., Inc., Quakertown, has been cited by the U.S. Department of Agriculture for failing to pay promptly for $462,821 woth of potatoes that the firm purchased.

USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service, which licenses produce firms under the Perishable Agricultural Commodities Act, had charged the firm with failing to make full payment promptly for 187 lots of potatoes. The potatoes were purchased between October 1978 and October 1979.

Charles Brader, marketing official with AMS, said the Crouthamel firm did not answer the agency's charges, and USDA's Administrative law Judge Dorothea A. Baker ruled that the firm had committed willful, repeated, and flagrant violations of the act.

Under Baker's order, the firm may not conduct business subject to the act until September 2, 1982, and then only if a PACA license is obtained.

Also, the firm's officers, directors, and major stockholders -- Willard Roberie Crouthamel, John Willard Crouthamel and Anthony J. Mazullo, Jr. – may not be employed by or affiliated with any PACA licensee until September 2, 1981, and then only if a surety bond is posted and USDA approves.

The PAC Act establishes a code of good business conduct for the produce industry. It provides for collecting damages from anyone who fails to live up to contractural obligations in buying or selling fresh and frozen fruits and vegetables. Interstate traders must be licensed, and USDA can suspend or revoke a trader's license for violating the act.

Eight Schuylkill horsemen qualify for 'States'

SCHUYLKILL HAVEN — Twenty-two Schuylkill 4-H'ers competed in the Region III 4-H Show at the Lehighton Fairgrounds.

Exhibitors from the five counties vied for ribbons, trophies and a position to qualify them for the State Show. Only one to three exhibitors, depending on the quota, can go to the State Show competition which will be held October 10-12 at the Farm Show Complex in Harrisburg.

Eight Schuylkill County 4-H'ers won the right to go on to the state show and represent the county in 12 events. The county 4-H'ers going on to the State Show are: Lisa Adams, Reddale Road, Orwigsburg; Anne Marie Korsack and Billy Korsack, R2 Ashland; Carol Litchko, R4 Pottsville; Michelle Sterner, R1 Orwigsburg; Melissa Taposkie, Pine Grove; and Troy and Todd Schadel, Sacramento.

SHADY LANE DAIRY SALES, INC.

TOTAL HERD LEASING

How it works:

You select the stock or herd from our inventory
You take the cattle home and let them pay for themselves plus giving you additional cash as well as the offspring
You are not bound by a set price per head as with conventional lending. Rather the quality sets the price

Here is an opportunity to acquire Registered and grade dairy cows carrying valuable calves without putting a large down payment down. Letting you use that money elsewhere to avoid high interest rates.

If you are looking for a hedge against inflation - Your set payments are made with tomorrows escalated dollars and income.
If you're looking for tax advantages - The rental payments are a direct deduction from your earned income and You may be eligible for investment tax credit.

Nothing is free in life, but for the qualified man willing to go to work, here's a way to avoid the fluctuating high interest rates you have been paying.

Lease agreements tailored for your special needs.

For more information contact us soon.

Shady Lane Dairy Sales, Inc.

+ 10-14 Days before Freshening — Begin increasing milking ration up to 14-16 Lbs. Per Head Per Day

TOTAL FEED COST AT 24 MONTHS..... $380.00*

RECORDS PROVE THE VALUE OF EARLY FRESHENING

Test heifers at the Purina Dairy Research Center demonstrate that attention to good nutrition does permit an earlier first calf. The results further show that younger heifers are capable of producing an excellent milk flow in their first lactation.

A group of 35 test heifers averaged 23.6 months of age when they calved. In 305-day lactations they averaged 12,884 pounds of milk. The mature equivalent for these heifers averaged 17,025 pounds of milk

Dairymen following the Purina Replacement Heifer Program report heifers producing over 16,000 pounds of milk and 600 pounds of fat in their first lactation This excellent production enables heifers to repay their growing costs and start earning a good return over feed cost in their first lactation. Important, too, heifers which produce well in their first lactation usually continue to be high producers over a long milking life
